U.S. gas shortage continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American motorist will continue to face a gasoline shortage and he'll pay higher prices for the fuel, despite the end of the Arab oil embargo, President Nixon and his energy chief have said.

Nixon, opening a news conference with the National Association of Broadcasters in Houston Tuesday night, said, "We still have an anticipated shortage of perhaps 5 to 8 per cent in the United States."

Earlier, federal energy chief William E. Simon told newsmen here, "Gasoline is going to cost more and so is heating oil."

A shortage such as that mentioned by Nixon means Americans would have about the same gasoline supply as during the first week of March, when long lines at gasoline stations seemed to vanish suddenly. A 5 to 8 per cent shortage would be a great improvement over the 14 to 20 per cent shortages of February, when motorists waited in line for hours.

The return of Arab oil, Nixon said, would not close the gap completely, although he said it would rule out rationing and mean the end of the Sunday ban on gasoline sales.

"... It will be necessary to continue our voluntary program of car-pooling and also of slower driving," Nixon said of the anticipated shortage.

Simon had explained earlier in the day that as the higherpriced Arab oil returns to the U.S. market, it will raise the average U.S. cost of oil, creating increases in fuel prices to the consumer.

Neither Simon nor Nixon estimated the extent of the price impact but Simon's deputy, John C. Sawhill, has guessed the price of gasoline could hit 70 to 80 cents per gallon at the pump this summer.

Energy officials hope these high prices will at least take the sting out of the remaining shortage by causing motorists to voluntarily reduce their gasoline use.

Simon and Nixon also said that energy problems, in general, would not disappear with the shipments of Arab oil.

The mandatory federal petroleum allocation program would continue, but industry and agriculture would be able to operate "at full capacity," Nixon said.

A KISS FOR MOMMY — Fred Linke IV celebrated his fourth birthday with a kiss for his mother, Mrs. Fred Linke III, at Jacksonville, Fla., hospital. The youngster has won his battle for life against Guillian-Barre Syndrome known as French polio, almost unheard of in children.

Senate divided on Nixon future

In The Associated Press poll, taken hours before the President vowed again that he will not resign, 33 senators declined to take a position and 11 others could not be contacted.

Buckley, a New York Republican who was elected as a Conservative party candidate, and who strongly supports Nixon's policies, said Tuesday that Nixon's resignation would be the only way "out of the Watergate swamp."

He said Nixon's resignation would at once serve "the greater interests of the nation, the institution of the presidency and the stated goals for which he so successfully campaigned."

Buckley said that Watergate has created an unparalleled national crisis that impeachment can never resolve. "If the President withdrew this crisis would be resolved," Buckley said.

Nixon replied that, while the senator had suggested resignation would be an act of courage, "it also takes courage to stand and fight for what you think is right, and that is what I intend to do."

Nixon also argued against the senator's claim that it would be an act of statesmanship, declaring, "It would be bad statesmanship, and it would mean that our system of government would be changed for all presidents and all generations in the future."

After Nixon's appearance, Buckley said he "would have been stunned" if the President had heeded his call for resignation so soon after it was made. "I did not expect that anything I said today would have an immediate effect anywhere."

Buckley said he had received some support and some opposition in private talks with fellow GOP conservatives.

However, three of them, Sens. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Jesse Helms of North Carolina and Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, publicly opposed Buckley's resignation call.

Impeachment panel split over request

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House request to let President Nixon's lawyer take part in House Judiciary Committee impeachment proceedings is cracking the committee's bipartisan approach.

Republican members generally support the request of White House lawyer James D. St. Clair. The Democrats view it as an attempt to turn the impeachment investigation into a normal court proceeding.

The split, which could have a far-reaching effect on the committee's final recommendation, surfaced Tuesday at separate party caucuses of committee members.

No final decisions were reached at either meeting, but party positions clearly appeared in the making on the legal point.

St. Clair has sent two letters to John Doar, the committee's special counsel for impeachment, asking for the right to cross-examine witnesses, present evidence and otherwise participate in the investigation as counsel for the President.

Such actions by defense counsel are normal in ordinary court proceedings, which are conducted on an adversary basis. But Doar, chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., and most Democratic members insist impeachment cannot be equated with normal judicial practices.

"There is no other side in this matter," Doar told the committee a few weeks ago when asked what rights St. Clair would have in the proceedings as defense counsel.

The committee investigation is to determine whether grounds exist for impeaching Nixon. If impeachment is voted by the House Nixon would be tried by the Senate where he would have right to counsel.

Democrats emerging from their meeting Tuesday expressed strong support for Doar's position. "This is not an adversary proceeding," said Rodino.

But the Republicans, on leaving their meeting, said there are precedents for permitting the subjects of impeachment to be represented either in person or by counsel at proceedings of impeachment panels.

Oil industry faces minor tax boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has voted to impose a relatively light new tax bite on the petroleum industry for the immediate future.

The tax-writing panel, climaxing a marathon meeting Tuesday night, tentatively agreed to impose a new windfall profits levy. But the proposal would raise virtually no additional revenue from American oilmen who would be exempt from the provision if they pump their energy crisis-generated profits back into the hunt for new energy sources.

The committee also gave temporary approval to a partial phase-out of the petroleum industry's 22 per cent depletion allowance. The allowance is worth about $2 billion annually to petroleum companies.

This phase-out plan is expected to bring in about $150 million next year, when it would take effect. However, by 1981, if fully effective, it could raise some $2.8 billion.

Under the current allowance, 22 per cent of gross income from oil and natural gas property can be deducted from taxable income up to a top of 50 per cent of taxable net income.

The committee also tentatively agreed to several changes in the tax treatment of domestic petroleum company income earned abroad, but these also are expected to yield relatively little new revenue.

The committee decided to use a sliding scale, based on rising oil prices, to phase out the depletion allowance over five years — but agreed that the allowance could not drop below 15 per cent for the first 3,000 barrels of oil daily per producer.

Following that five-year period, however, the allowance could disappear when 75 per cent of all oil is not eligible for the allowance over a year's time.

The committee essentially went along with the administration's proposal for a windfall profits tax.

But the committee then added its so-called plowback feature, by which oilmen could escape paying this levy if they plow back their profits into exploration and development of new energy sources.

Draft lottery held today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men born Feb. 28 drew No. 1 in today's draft lottery for the nearly two million young men born in 1955.

The prime number was not picked out of the plastics drums holding the numbers until the standby lottery was almost completed.

Before that the young students had picked Jan. 5 as the No. 2, Feb. 16 as No. 3, Sept. 24 as No. 4, June 27 as No. 5, March 13 as No. 6, March 6 as No. 7, March 24 as No. 8, and Oct. 22 as No. 9.

About two-thirds of the way through the drawing the highest number, 365, was assigned to April 29.

The lottery was being held as usual in case it becomes necessary to resume inducting Americans into the Armed forces.

In remarks prepared for the second annual standby lottery to assign the numbers, John D. Dewhurst, deputy director of Selective Service said the purpose is "insurance — plain and simple."

Dewhurst, substituting for draft Director Byron V. Pepitone, who underwent heart surgery Friday, noted that no one had been drafted for 18 months as the military was being transformed into an all-volunteer force.

Rebozo subpoenaed for campaign payment testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, President Nixon's closest friend, was interrogated under oath by the Senate Watergate committee today about a campaign contribution from Howard Hughes.

The story includes allegations that one consideration may have been the favorable resolution of federal antitrust action aimed at Hughes' Las Vegas gambling and hotel interests.

Its most recent chapter was the dumping of $100,000 in old $100 bills on a committee table by a Hughes emmissary.

Sources have said the committee has learned that the idea of a Hughes contribution first arose during the 1968 presidential campaign at a luncheon conversation between Nixon, Rebozo and Richard Danner, later to become manager of the Hughes-owned Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas.

According to Danner's testimony, the money was not immediately forthcoming.

A $50,000 payment is said to have been made in 1969 or 1970.

A second $50,000 installment allegedly was made in 1970.

In addition, an independent government regulatory agency is said to have evidence that a third $50,000 payment may have been made.

The timing of the payments is considered crucial by investigators because some of the dates on which the money may have been turned over to Rebozo coincide with negotiations between Danner and then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell concerning the antitrust implications of Hughes' effort to buy the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas.

Rebozo earlier told the committee that all of the money remained in a safe untouched for three years and was not used in the 1972 campaign for fear subsequent controversy and turmoil inside the Hughes empire might embarrass the President.

The money was returned by Rebozo to a Hughes representative in the summer of 1973, allegedly after Rebozo took Danner to the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., to talk with Nixon. The White House has said the money was not mentioned at the meeting.

Rebozo has said the only person he ever told about the $100,000 was Rose Mary Woods, the President's personal secretary.

Miss Woods is scheduled to testify under oath about the matter Friday.

Urge change in Miranda court ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is urging the Supreme Court to permit use of some evidence gathered from suspects who have not been fully advised of their rights.

The issue, to be argued before the justices today, involves a facet of the court's controversial 1966 Miranda decision requiring police to inform suspects of their right to remain silent and their right to a lawyer, without cost if necessary.

If the full warning is not given, no statements made by a suspect may be used at his trial.

But if police are led to evidence by those statements, it should be used, the administration has argued in a friend-of-the-court brief submitted by U.S. Solicitor General Robert H. Bork.

Today's argument comes in a case from Michigan in which the state is trying to preserve the 1966 rape conviction of Thomas W. Tucker.

When arrested, Tucker was advised of his rights to silence and counsel but not of the availability of free legal help.

Tucker denied the rape, saying that he was with an acquaintance at the time it occurred. The acquaintance not only failed to support the alibi but offered damaging testimony for the prosecution.

Lower federal courts voided Tucker's conviction. Police found their witness only through Tucker's statement and therefore the testimony should be excluded, the courts ruled.

Bork's brief argued that neither the Constitution's protection against self-incrimination nor the need to guard against "third degree" interrogations by police require such a stringent rule of exclusion.

Instead, Bork urged adoption of an "intermediate rule" that would ban use of statements made by those not fully advised of their rights while allowing prosecutors to use otherwise legitimate evidence stemming from those statements.

The News In Brief

Soviet copter held by China

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today one of its helicopters made an emergency landing in China last week and the craft and its three-man crew have not been returned.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the Chinese had been asked to "see to it that the crew and the helicopter be found and returned to the Soviet side.

"But the Chinese authorities have not so far produced any reply to the statement," Tass said.

Death claims Chet Huntley

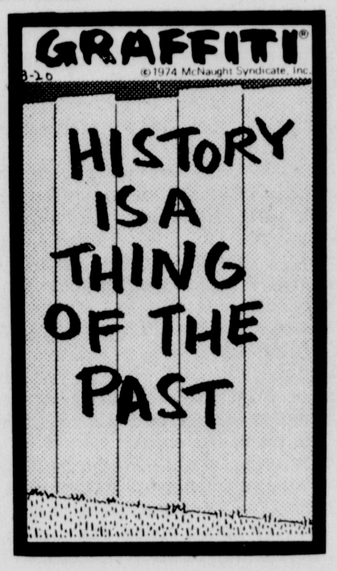
BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Former television newscaster Chet Huntley, who teamed with David Brinkley for 14 years on NBC-TV's nightly Huntley-Brinkley Report, died today.

Huntley, 62, had been suffering from abdominal cancer.

His widow, Tippy Huntley, said he died at 2:20 a.m.

He had been undergoing periodic treatment and underwent surgery in January.

Huntley resigned from NBC in 1970 to develop Big Sky Inc. of Montana, a massive resort and ski complex in the Gallatin Canyon southwest of Bozeman.



Major changes approved in Ohio probate court laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State representatives turn their attention to campaign financing reforms today following their approval Tuesday of a major bill changing Ohio's probate court laws.

The House scheduled a 1:30 p.m. vote on a bill that sets limits on amounts candidates may spend seeking public office and establishes an Ohio Elections Commission to serve as a watchdog for potential campaign abuses.

In other business, a second attempt is expected—in as many days— to spring the socalled "Saturday night special" gun control bill out of the House Rules Committee.

The main sponsor, Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, said his measure failed to get out of the committee for assignment to a floor vote Tuesday by a single vote. "There was one absentee, and he's going to vote for it," Galbraith said.

The Lucas County lawmaker's bill would outlaw the manufacture and sale of cheap handguns defined in the legislation as those which warp or melt at 800 degrees Fahrenheit. Expert testimony given the House Judiciary Committee said the definition would cover most easily obtainable weapons that sell for about $20 or $25.

Galbraith's bill is seen as a compromise between those who tried unsuccessfully to get an outright ban of pistols placed on a statewide ballot along with sportsmen and others concerned about their rights.

Judiciary Chairman Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, won 91-0 House approval of the probate bill which goes mostly to the area of inheritances by a spouse or close relative of a deceased person.

He said the measure, which now goes to the Senate, increases the rights and benefits of surviving spouses and eliminates certain complicated legal requirements. Wilkowski called present laws "archaic."

Although the bill makes more than 100 changes in the existing statutes, some of its major provisions would:

—Assure a spouse of the first $10,000 of an estate plus a $5,000 allowance, in cases where no will was left. Present law requires the spouse to share 50-50 if there is one child or to collect one-third if there was more than one child.

—Provide that a decedent's automobile could be turned over without being considered part of the estate for taxation purposes.

—Allow a "mansion house," or homestead, and one acre of ground to be turned over to a spouse with only one-half interest being subject to the estate tax.

—Permit non-residents to serve as administrators and executors.

—Allow a surviving spouse to receive immediately any wages or income due the decedent up to $1,000. The present limit is $300, accompanied by a 30-day waiting period.

—Permit waiver of appraisals if an asset's value is "readily attainable."

In other business, the House approved and sent to the Senate bills permitting speed limits on municipal streets outside downtown areas to be lowered from 35 to 25 miles an hour, defining the southern shore line of Lake Erie, and requiring the state to share with local governments the cost of primary and special elections called by the state in non-election years.

Rep. Barney Quilter, D-47 Toledo, won 55-21 approval of the Lake Erie bill after explaining that the state needs to define "where the lake ends and the river begins." He said lake waters that "intrude" into rivers and streams flowing into the lake would set a boundary at the furthermost point of their intrusion, under the bill.

The Senate passed two bills but the major action of the day was in the Senate Ways and Means Committee, which recommended confirmation of

It killed, however, a bill that would have changed the site of the lottery headquarters from Cleveland to Columbus. The site was picked by the commission on a 3-2 vote.

Ways and Means Chairman Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, said he disagreed with the commission's choice but noted the General Assembly had given it authority to select a site.

"If this bill is to move," he said of the measure authored by Sens. Donald Woodland and Robert O'Shaughnessy, both of Columbus, "it will set a precedent for someone who disagrees with any organization charged to make a decision."

Reps. Joan Douglass, R-61 Mansfield, and Harry Turner, R-76 Mount Vernon, introduced a bill in the House that would make Mansfield the lottery headquarters.

Rep. Arthur Bowers, D-98 Steubenville, also put in a House bill to earmark the lottery revenues for school construction. They are scheduled to go into the state's general funds.

The Senate passed two bills by 31-0 votes. Both now go to the House.

One would allow county boards of education to be their own fiscal officers and hire their own clerk. The other would permit Ohio University to give back to Belmont County a building and land it used for a branch until it constructed its own.

Stevenson big winner in primary

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson has won nomination to another term and Gov. Daniel Walker claims victory in an intraparty squabble with Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Five incumbent congressmen who faced primary challenges in Tuesday's voting won renomination.

Stevenson, a Democrat who was elected in 1970 to fill the unexpired term of the late Republican Everett M. Dirksen, piled up a 4-to-1 margin in defeating W. Dakin Williams, a brother of playwright Tennessee Williams.

With 8,595 of 11,312 precincts counted, Stevenson had 658,302 votes to 143,760 for Williams.

George Burditt, a lawyer and businessman, captured the Republican nomination easily and will challenge Stevenson in November.

Burditt defeated Lar Daly, a Chicago furniture upholsterer and perennial candidate who has been unsuccessful in 42 tries for public office, ranging from the presidency down.

With 8,579 precincts counted, Burditt had 271,848 votes to 52,767 for Daly.

Only a third of the state's more than five million registered voters turned out Tuesday — about normal for an off-year primary.

There was no solid evidence that Watergate or political corruption at the local level caused voter apathy, but the Democrats appeared to take more interest than Republicans.

There were several state legislative races billed as skirmishes in the reported battle between Walker and Daley for control of the Democratic party in the state legislature.

Walker told newsmen, "I count it as a victory. A majority of the people I endorsed won."

Many Daley candidates also won, but the mayor delivered his usual election night unity message.

"We didn't teach anyone a lesson. The primary is the time to differ. Now we are all Democrats."

Annual CF Potlatch held in Mahan Hall

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Kitten Anderson and the invocation was given by Nancy Clemmens for the annual Camp Fire Potlatch held in the Mahan Building Tuesday evening. There were approximately 375 present. Tables were centered with appropriate camp scenes.

Mrs. Pattiann Zinn, program chairman, introduced Mr. Frank Sanderson, president of the Paint Valley Council of CF Girls, who in turn introduced board members. Mrs. Ralph Tate introduced the leaders and assistants.

Mrs. Gerald Wheat, Horizon Club leader, was in charge of the program. The five Horizon Club members, who were given recognition on Sunday at First Presbyterian Church, were Jayne Marchant, Sally Robinson, Marilyn Seifried, Susan Stolsenberg and Becky Wheat. They received the God and Community Award for completing a year of study and service to the church. Each girl gave 90 hours of service.

Mrs. Wheat gave the first point of the Camp Fire Law which is to "Worship God." Girls are encouraged to learn more about her own faith and the faith of others. To "seek beauty" was the second point stressed, and all joined to sing "White Choral Bells" and "Let Us Sing Together."

The third point stressed by Mrs. Wheat was to "give service!" All girls were recognized for having participated in the Heart Balloon sale, Muscular Dystrophy Carnival, Community Chest group work and care of the Old Cemetery.

"Be trustworthy" was exemplified by a skit entitled "The Lamp Went Out". Teri Cox, Crista Creamer, Kathy Ginn and Marilyn Seifried took part.

"Hold on to Health" was the title of a skit done by Becky Wheat and Sandy Harris. To "Glorify Work" was stressed when all joined in for the singing of "I've Been Working the Railroad." To "Be Happy" was the theme for the evening.

The program was concluded with the Adventure, Camp Fire and Horizon Club girls leading the singing.

Judge nixes television talk by inmates in Hearst kidnap

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — Randolph A. Hearst says he's disappointed that two accused murderers have been denied permission to read for television a statement they claim could help free his kidnaped daughter.

Contra Costa County Superior Court Judge Sam Hall ruled Tuesday that a television appearance by alleged Symbionese Liberation Army "soldiers" Joseph Remiro and Russell Little could hurt their chances for a fair trial.

After learning of the ruling, Hearst said, "I don't see how any statement that might possibly bring about the release of our daughter could keep the defendants from getting a fair trial."

Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, promised further comment today on Judge Hall's ruling.

In turning down the request, Hall said, "If I agreed to this motion I would create an atmosphere that would result in the possibility of these men not receiving a fair trial in any part of this state and possibly the nation."

In nearby Oakland, where Little and Remiro are charged with the Nov. 6 cyanide-bullet assassination of Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster, Municipal Court Judge Stafford Buckley is scheduled to rule today on the television proposal.

It was unclear what the effect of a positive ruling by Buckley would be since the consent of both judges is required because Little and Remiro face charges in both Contra Costa and Alameda counties.

Defense attorneys had said either Little or Remiro wanted to make a 5-to-10-minute statement before a lone cameraman and reporter in a courtroom with no questions permitted.

Meanwhile, organizers of Hearst's $2 million People In Need food giveaway promised a new progress report on efforts to revamp the program to meet SLA demands that high quality food be given to California's needy as a prerequisite to negotiations for Miss Hearst's release.

Nixon takes easier stance on relations with Europe

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — President Nixon says he believes the United States and its European allies will "work out the differences that we have in the economic and political fields."

Nixon's tone at his Tuesday night news conference was more conciliatory than his warning last Friday that transAtlantic cooperation "is not a one-way street."

The President said he would continue to oppose unilateral U.S. troop cutbacks in Europe, which he had posed as a possible threat during his Friday appearance in Chicago.

Speaking at a convention of the National Association of Broadcasters, Nixon also made an indirect appeal for Soviet help in settling tensions in the Middle East.

"There cannot be permanent peace in the Middle East if the Soviet Union is against it," the President said.

Earlier Tuesday, it was announced in Washington that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will reopen his drive for a military disengagement between Israel and Syria March 29 in Washington.

The disengagement talks are to resume with Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan after Kissinger returns from a trip to Moscow to discuss strategic arms limitation negotiations.

The American secretary plans to deal with the Syrians separately later in trying to bridge the "very wide gap" that U.S. officials say divides the October war foes on how much captured territory Israel should yield in the Golan Heights.

At the news conference, Nixon said the United States will remain Israel's friend but that he believes "it is much better to have the United States as a friend of Israel's neighbors and thereby able to influence and perhaps restrain their policies."

Nixon said he is optimistic the Arab oil embargo will not be renewed, even though the Arabs said they would review June 1 their decision to lift the embargo.

On the U.S.-European cooperation issue, Nixon said he was happy with the initial response of French officials to his criticism of lack of progress in adopting a common set of economic and political principles with the United States.

No charges in shooting

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Police said Tuesday no charges will be filed in an unusual carramming and shooting incident on Interstate 75 in downtown Dayton.

They said the Monday incident began when James Burchett, 28, of Dayton suffered a seizure and his auto began ramming the rear of a car driven by Donald Rosenberger of Flint, Mich.

Rosenberger then pulled out a gun and fired four shots through the left side of Burchett's car, wounding the man in the neck and shoulder, police said.

Officers said Burchett told them he had no recollection of the incident.

President takes press under fire

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Declaring he has a right to self-defense, President Nixon has told newsmen he will be just as fair with them as they are with him.

In a question-and-answer session at the National Association of Broadcasters convention Tuesday night, Nixon sparred with reporters and aimed barbed comments at the media — and drew applause from his audience.

One of those he exchanged quips with was CBS White House correspondent Dan Rather, who drew a mixture of applause and boos when he stepped to a microphone to ask a question.

"Are you running for something?" Nixon asked Rather.

"No sir, Mr. President," Rather replied. "Are you?"

Rather has had verbal exchanges with Nixon in the past.

Earlier, Nixon used a question from another newsman to take a jab at the networks. He was asked why polls showed a majority of Americans believed there was a recession, when Nixon has declared there will be no recession.

The President replied: "Because 80 per cent of the people listen to television and radio."

Nixon called the news conference "a very useful medium through which the president can convey his views to the American people." And he said he would be having "a considerable number of meetings with the press" in Washington and elsewhere in the future.

White House aides were delighted with the prime time nationally televised and broadcast session from a Houston opera house.

"It went well," said one adviser. "We thought the questions covered a wide range of subjects, and the responses were good."

The White House allowed the NAB to decide who would question Nixon and how. The organization settled on a group of radio and television news directors and a sprinkling of White House correspondents.

Hearing on sex charges delayed

A preliminary hearing scheduled in Municipal Court Tuesday was postponed due to the emotional condition of the prosecuting witnesses.

Hearing for Elmer Thomas, 83, of 513 Fourth St., who is charged with five counts of sexual violations involving three Washington C.H. girls, was postponed until 3:30 p.m. Wednesday. Thomas was arrested Friday by city police.

The girls, ages 11, 10 and 7, had never been to a courtroom and became upset by the bustle of the court while they were waiting for the hearing to begin. Numerous other cases had been scheduled Tuesday and the courtroom was packed.

Even though acting Municipal Judge John P. Case cleared the court prior to the beginning of the hearing, the girls could not be quieted.

Only a few cases are scheduled for Wednesday and the courtroom should be empty prior to the hearing.

Booth sees Nixon out before 1977

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Odds are less than 50-50 that President Nixon will complete his second term in office, the president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States says.

Arch Booth offered the forecast Tuesday, the day before the annual meeting of the Ohio State Chamber of Commerce. Booth was the scheduled keynote speaker.

Booth said the chances President Nixon will resign or be impeached appear to be growing daily. But he said he's against such a move—unless Nixon is guilty of criminal offense.

Resignation, in particular, would "weaken our government," he declared. Instead, constitutional procedures for the removal of the President should be followed.

Booth added he presumes the President is innocent, until proven guilty.

The chamber, meeting in a business session, elected 14 new members to its board of directors and re-elected 25 others.

Stock list at stand still

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.68 at 871.25, but losers led gainers by a small margin in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said Wall Street was welcoming President Nixon's announcement Tuesday night of increased fuel allocations. However, they said, the enthusiasm was dampened by a quarterpoint increase in the prime lending rate posted by New York's Bankers Trust.

A 100-000-share block trade at 10 helped push CNA Financial down ⅝ at 9⅞, to the top of the Big Board's most-active list.

Spring comes to Ohio officially at 8:07 p.m. Wednesday accompanied by increasing cloudiness as a low pressure approaches the lower Appalachian area.

Cloudy to partly cloudy skies are to prevail during the day and afternoon temperatures will rise only into the 30s and 40s.

Rain will move into the Ohio Valley Thursday and some rain or snow will fall in the central counties with some snow in the north. Afternoon temperatures Thursday will continue chilly and climb only into the 30s and 40s.

The National Weather Service predicted winter will continued to grip the state for the next couple of days with daytime highs in the 30s and night time lows in the upper teens and the lower 20s.

Snow flurries are forecast Friday and Saturday. Sunday will be fair. Highs through the period will be in the 30s and lows in the upper teens and 20s.

Snow falls on final day of winter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow and freezing temperatures rolled over the central Rockies and adjacent Plains today, the last day of winter.

Spring begins at 8:07 p.m. EDT, but the message was misplaced in Lander, Wyo., where 4 inches of snow covered the ground. Valentine and Scottsbluff, Neb., both measured 2 inches of snow.

Heavy-snow warnings were posted for the mountains of Colorado and Wyoming and for northeastern Colorado.

Stockmen's advisories were issued for the central high Plains because of snow and cold winds. Winds gusting to 40 miles per hour lashed Rapid City, S.D., before dawn.

Thundershowers spread from the lower Mississippi Valley to the southern Appalachians with more than an inch at Greenwood and Columbus, Miss., and Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Kidnaping attempt bungled

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A gunman forced himself into a Decatur residence in an apparent kidnap attempt, only to find out he had the wrong victim, police have disclosed.

Police and FBI agents said Tuesday they were looking for a man who appeared Monday at the home of John H. Burns, a Decatur businessman. They said the man, who identified himself as a pottery salesman, produced a gun when Mrs. Burns appeared at the door and forced his way into the home. Burns was at work at the time.

The man thought he was in the home of Charles Huthmacher, an attorney and trust officer at Citizens National Bank of Decatur, police said.

The intruder phoned Huthmacher at the bank and told him he was holding Huthmacher's wife and would kill her unless Huthmacher paid him $35,000, police said.

Huthmacher contacted police and together they went to the Huthmacher home, where they found that everything was all right.

Ministerial Society to convene Thursday

The Fayette County Ministerial Association will meet at 8:45 a.m. Thursday at Grace United Methodist Church.

The ministers will make plans for the interdenominational community Good Friday services to be held from 12 until 3 p.m. at Grace Church.

The group will also discuss the variety of meanings which are often associated with some common religious terms such as God, Holy Spirit, prophet, prayer and others.

Card Of Thanks

I would like to thank the nurses, and aides on the 400 Wing at Fayette Memorial Hospital, Dr. Herbert, Dr. Hancock, Dr. Roszmann, Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home and all my family, friends and neighbors for the gifts, flowers, cards, food, calls and for their help and kindness while I was a patient in the hospital.

Radiation safeguards

The problem of nuclear radiation is an insistent one that keeps cropping up despite a common inclination to just let well enough alone and hope for the best. The problem is not going to go away. It will become steadily more pressing as nuclear energy use grows.

Nor are nuclear power plants and their wastes the only source of this difficulty. The Atomic Energy Commission and the congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy are concerned, for example, with possible radiation danger at abandoned uranium mills in Western states.

Some of these are remote, not likely to cause problems in the foreseeable future. Some are in developing areas, and thus a potential hazard to people. The AEC's assistant general manager for environmental research and safety, Dr. James L. Liverman, told the Joint Committee recently that the uranium dump at one site in Utah is in one of the Rocky Mountain region's fastest growing residential areas.

At the same hearing an Environmental Protection Agency official testified that cancer and adverse genetic effects may be caused by exposure to gamma radiation. He noted that at the Utah site tests in buildings near the dump show gamma radiation up to 10 times higher than normal background radiation.

This testimony suggests the wisdom of great care in dealing with such mill wastes. The Joint Committee is considering legislation with this purpose. The AEC sensibly recommends waiting until the agency has completed a study of how best to eliminate radiation danger at such sites. We believe this should be done. The radiation problem demands a thoroughgoing solution which takes all relevant factors into consideration.

THESE DAYS. . .by John Chamberlain

Saving energy from the gabfest

We are certainly long on talk. President Nixon wants us to be self-sufficient for energy by the 1980s, but if it is left to government to do the job, it won't be done.

We are in the talk stage at the moment, with our policymakers busy mounting their steeds and riding off in all directions. Some want an oil-tariff wall to force the exploitation of more costly domestic fuel resources.

Others advocate an "oil bank," to be replenished from time to time whenever the international price dips.

Then there are the subsidy advocates who would shell out some $100 billion over a 14-year period to support shale oil and coal gasification technology.

The significant thing about the gabfest is that nobody trusts the market to bring about self-sufficiency if and when it is needed. We try, vainly, to allocate by "need," not by letting the price mechanism do the job.

Meanwhile, the West Europeans, who have had their fill of government interference with the market, have decided to let free pricing take over. Result: in West Germany the "crisis" has disappeared. In other countires Sunday driving is once more permitted.

EUROPEAN PRICES for gasoline are, of course, horrendous by older American standards — the West Germans now pay at a $1.30 a gallon rate. But the high cost of importing fuel is forcing a better use of native West German coal resources.

An Essen firm is about to construct a 3,200-megawatt coal-fired power plant for the city of Dorsten in the coal-mining Ruhr that will be the "most-advanced. . . in the world — including absence of smoke, soot and sulfurous emissions."

Wherever economics forces it, the movement away from paying the Middle East sheiks their price for oil gathers quick momentum. South Africa boasts the "only oil-from-coal project in the world that is operating profitably." It is Sasol (South African Coal, Oil and Gas Corp).

Sasol has been in the business of making natural gas from coal since 1955. Recently its petroleum production has had a spectacular increase, reaching a total capacity of 218 million gallons a year. The by-products in fertilizers, plastics, detergents and industrial acids run to $45 million a year out of $107 million.

What should be significant to Washington is that two large American gas companies have made Sasol their main consultant in designing and building plants for the production of coal-derived gas in the U.S.

AMERICAN AIRLINES complain that the high cost of aviation fuel is menacing their profits. In Europe they complain less and act more. Accustomed to high prices for jet fuel, the Airbus Industrie of Toulouse, France, a consortium of French, British, Dutch, West German and Spanish interests, is building a short-to-medium wide-bodied plane that, if it were to be purchased by a typical U.S. Trunk carrier, would save up to 27 per cent on current fuel costs.

Use of the Airbus would enable U.S. companies to take 38 planes from the skies without cutting back on an available seat-mile capacity of 88 million per day. General Electric, which makes the fanjet engines for the European Airbus, gets a portion of the profits from the sales.

Walter J. Levy, who, as dean of U.S. petroleum consultants headed the petroleum operations of the Marshall Plan, knows the value of action as compared to "central planning" talk. His action plan for energy self-sufficiency would involve Washington in a minimum of direct work.

One: he would start a "regularized and expedited" leasing program for the outer Continental Shelf.

Four: he would give specific tax credits for new oil exploration and for secondary and tertiary recovery.

Five: he would provide investment credits, accelerated amortization, and a guaranteed profit margin for the production of synthetic oil and gas.

Six: he would cut out the "gimmickry" on oil imports.

And, finally, he would free our nuclear energy program from the years of argument that keeps it from going ahead woth plants that have had a proven safety record for 20 years.

There is no mystery about combating shortages. The "market" can solve anything if private incintive is allowed to take over.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

THURSDAY, MARCH 21

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Not everyone will say what he really means or make his best impression now, go give others the benefit of the doubt and most will do the same for you.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

You are always ambitious, and this day will open new areas for you to profit by your know-how. Results may not be immediate, so be patient.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

What you want and what you actually need may be widely different. Be realistic about your affairs and don't put the cart before the horse, falling witlessly into traps.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

In a defensive position, be circumspect in voicing opinions, in your approach to others. On the offensive, be gently persuasive rather than argumentative.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Superior quality of workmanship and tact is all matters advised. Balance things; gear endeavors in keeping with high hopes. Results can be gratifying.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Organize your program so as to eliminate time-wasting confusion. A good activity day for those born under this Sign.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Your capabilities may not need improvement as much as they need the right exposure. Try to discuss the situation with interested persons.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Others are watching your example now. Some may be uncertain until YOU act, so be fully aware, and determined to present the proper image.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You may receive several suggestions. Accept only those worth their salt. But be careful not to overlook the helpful through miscalculation.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Poor scheduling could distract, send you completely off the track in some cases. A favorable period for capitalizing on new ideas, however.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Good Uranus influences favor innovations and clever strategies. A fine period in which to put over unusual ideas.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Opponents of your ideas may have a point or two. Try for clarification. Some differences can be avoided, others ironed out.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a great spirit of enterprise, a gregarious personality and outstanding ingenuity. You are ambitious and strive hard to attain your goals, but sometimes are too materialistic in your aims. For you, the reward for effort is more important than the effort itself. Try to find more joy in the means of achievement.

Modified school plan turned down

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Federation of Teachers (CFT), to the surprise of their president, Tuesday night unanimously rejected a modified school board plan for integrating the city's teaching staffs.

CFT President Roger Stephens indicated prior to the 50-member turnout that he was confident that changes announced by the school board Monday would be acceptable to his group.

After the meeting he said the CFT would push for integration by redistricting the city's 105 public schools.

Stephens said a threatened lawsuit would be withheld, but his group had another plan "to get the message across."

He said a teachers action committee will be formed to work with a number of organizations including the AFL-CIO, with which CFT has strong ties.

The board Monday relented to mounting pressure from teachers, civic groups and civil rights leaders and relaxed a 75-25 white-to-black faculty racial balance policy.

Shaul-Rhodes collision builds

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former Gov. James A. Rhodes claims he never used his controversial real estate broker's license, but "I'll fight all the way before I ever give it up."

Commerce Director Dennis Shaul, who questions the legality of the way Rhodes got his license, is just as determined to fight all the way to make him return it.

For a year the battle has raged. There still is no answer.

Rhodes has been told the license will be revoked if he doesn't agree to a hearing on the issue within the month.

"I'll go to court," vowed Rhodes.

Shaul began the battle when he learned that Rhodes received the license from his own appointees on the Ohio Real Estate Commission four days before he left office in 1971.

Rhodes took an oral examination in governor's office. He said the commission and its executive secretary felt that giving the governor a written examination with 200 others would have been disruptive.

The former Republican governor claims the inquiry into his license began only after he announced he would be a candidate for office again.

Rhodes attempted to file Jan. 24, 1973, but his candidacy initially was disallowed on constitutional grounds. The Ohio Supreme Court ruled he could run and he filed again June 6.

The hearing bogged down when Paul Everson of Euclid, a Republican holdover on the commission, refused to testify. Shaul threatened him with a court order, but Everson didn't budge.

The board, now made up entirely of appointees of Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan and with a new executive secretary, Robert Gippin, has discovered some others holding licenses it considers to be given in an unusual manner.

Among those is one held by Gerald Wedren, acting commerce director under Gilligan before Shaul received permanent appointment to the post.

In a letter to Gippin, Wedren said he thought his successor was "attempting to publicly embarrass people on technicalities which are totally erroneous."

Rhodes adopted much the same attitude with some politics thrown in. "I welcome the opportunity to go to court and settle this matter," said Rhodes. "Gov. Gilligan should stop hiding behind the political propaganda of Dennis Shaul."

Conservation fund increase promoted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation to increase from $300 million to $900 million the annual authorization of the Land Water Conservation Fund Act was introduced Tuesday by U.S. Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio.

The act provides funding for the acquisition of park and recreation lands.

Seiberling said estimates of funds needed by the National Park Service to acquire lands already authorized by Congress ranged from $400 million to $2 billion.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Why not try to pick up broken pieces?

DEAR ABBY: My experience may help some married man avoid a tragic mistake. This is a true letter. If you find it column worthy, you may print it, but please do not use my name:

Past 70 years of age and married to a faithful wife for 35 years I fell madly in love with a music teacher 20 years my junior. I courted her magnificently, gave her gifts of jewelry, clothing, appliances for her home, weekend trips-even a beautiful piano.

I divorced a faithful wife and gave up a highly respected position to marry this lady in Las Vegas.

Now, after a few months of marriage, a divorce is being processed, and I now find myself with a completely loused up life. My "bride" got as much as she could out of me and is seeking her freedom.

A lifetime reputation has gone down the drain. I have broken my first wife's heart, and my children have lost their respect for me. My health is failing, my heart is heavy, and I am living proof that there is no fool like an old fool.

LOVED AND LOST

DEAR LOVED: Regret is the cancer of life. It may not be too late to pick up the pieces. Why not try?

DEAR ABBY: My mom counts calories and she doesn't like to see any high-calorie food on her own plate, so she takes a little bit from me, a little bit from my sister, and a little bit from my father, and all those little bits add up.

If she gains a pound she is very unhappy and yells at us.

Please publish your advice before we all die of malnutrition and Mom chews our heads off.

HER FAMILY

DEAR FAMILY: Next time Mom reaches for something on your plate remind her that it's in her mouth for a moment-and on her hips for the rest of her life. That should help.

DEAR ABBY: This is my third letter to you, and it will be my last if you do not answer it. My problem is a lot more serious than some of the junk I read in your column, and I want to know why I have not received an answer. I asked you for a personal reply.

MY LAST LETTER

DEAR LAST: If your newspaper doesn't run a line indicating that for a personal reply you should write to Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope, they should. Everyone who follows the above instructions receives an answer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO VIRGO: To mispronounce a word in ignorance. To correct one in the presence of others for having mispronounced a word is cruelty. In my book cruelty is a far more serious offense than ignorance.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, March 20, the 79th day of 1974. There are 286 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1852, Harriet Beecher Stowe's influential novel about slavery, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was published.

On this date—

In 1602, the Dutch East India Company was formed.

In 1727, the English mathematician who discovered the law of gravity, Sir Isaac Newton, died.

In 1828, the Norwegian dramatist and poet, Henrik Ibsen, was born.

In 1942, Gen. Douglas MacArthur made his famous pledge: "I shall return." He had fled from the Philippines to Australia as the islands were invaded by Japan.

In 1967, former U.S. Vice President Richard Nixon was making a private visit to Moscow.

Ten years ago: two Cubans hijacked a Cuban military helicopter in a bloody gun battle over the Atlantic, killed the pilot and flew to Key West, Fla.

Today's birthdays: Broadcasting executive Frank Stanton is 66. Actor Michael Redgrave also is 66.

Thought for today: The true wealth of a country lies in its men and women — Richard Aldington, English writer, 1892-1962.

Uphold regulation on air pollution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Environmental Board of Review Tuesday upheld an Ohio Environmental Protection Agency regulation that requires use of an air curtain destructor in certain circumstances for open burning of landscape wastes. Seven Ohio utility firms last fall questioned use of the device. The board said it agreed with the EPA that pollution is decreased when an air curtain destructor is used properly.

Antique weathervanes, individually created by craftsmen, are highly prized today as examples of folk art, the National Geographic Society says.

2 sentenced to prison for forgery

Two men have been given prison sentences by Common Pleas Court Judge Evel[illegible]W. Coffman after entering guilty pleas to forgery charges.

Charles E. Tillis Jr., 18, of 513 S. Fayette St., was sentenced to a six-month to three-year term in the Mansfield Reformatory after pleading guilty to three counts of forgery and one count of grand theft.

Tillis received a six-month sentence on each of the forgery counts, to run concurrently with a six-month to three-year sentence he received on a grand theft charge.

He was arrested Feb. 22 by Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson and Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks in connection with the theft of checks from Paul Holtschulte, of Bloomingburg. Tillis had forged the stolen checks and had cashed them at Evans' Market, Bloomingburg, and the First National Bank in Washington C.H.

Sheriff Thompson said Holtschulte discovered the checks had been stolen when his banking statement was returned.

Tillis had been lodged in the Fayette County jail in lieu of $2,500 bond in connection with the fourth-degree felony charge of grand theft.

Judge Coffman also sentenced Edward J. Hoagland, 29, of Waynesville, to a term of 1-20 years in the Chillicothe Correctional Institute after he pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery and uttering a forged instrument.

Hoagland was arrested Feb. 12 by Sgt. Crooks after secret indictment had been returned by a Fayette County grand jury.

The checks allegedly were prepared by Hoagland and cashed last November at a Sagar Dairy store and the J&R carryout.

W.I.S.H. COMES THROUGH — The Women in Service Helping sorority has donated $100 to the city's and $100 to the county's learning disability classes. The money was raised through bake sales and skating parties sponsored by W.I.S.H. Five of the women in W.I.S.H. donate their time as teacher's aides in learning disability classes by helping in the classroom and on field trips. Pictured are: Edwin M. Nestor, superintendent of city schools; Luana Schneider and Bev Loudner, W.I.S.H. members who help with the learning disability classes; Mrs. Leona Morrison, the learning disabilities teacher for the county; Bobbie Van Bargen, another W.I.S.H. member who helps with the learning disabilities classes; Mrs. Carol Thomas, learning disabilities teacher for the city and Guy M. Foster, superintendent of county schools. Nestor and Foster accepted the $100 checks from the W.I.S.H. group.

Parents hopeful for son's life

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — "If we can just keep Stephen, we want nothing else," said Miami, Fla., policeman Raymond Southerland, who fears his third son has been stricken with a deadly form of cancer.

The agonizing wait continued today for Southerland and his wife, Sara. Word is expected soon whether Stephen, 13, must lose his left leg.

If it is bone cancer, as doctors fear, the boy is given a 30 per cent chance of survival.

"You have to hope," Mrs. Southerland said Tuesday while at the bedside of her oldest son.

The Southerland's lost their youngest son, Jeffrey, to lymphatic leukemia five years ago. The day before Jeffrey's death, doctors discovered a rare malignancy in the spine of a second brother, Michael, now 9. He has apparently overcome the disease through lengthy treatment.

Despite the series of tragedies, Stephen "took this all a great deal better than his mom and dad," said the boy's father.

"I'm really not worried," said Stephen, who turns 14 in May. "It's really an experience you have to put up with. I think I can face it.

"We're a strong family," he added.

A growth on his leg was discovered last week by doctors in Miami. Doctors said odds are it is bone cancer, but officials confirmation has not yet been made by attending physicians at Cincinnati Children's Hospital, where Stephen was transferred last week.

One doctor said Tuesday it might be one of several cancer forms or an infection that could be treated with antibiotics.

If confirmed as bone cancer, the doctor said chemotherapy or amputation would be needed.

The only other trace of cancer in the family was Southerland's mother, who was cured of breast cancer.

Stephen was always considered the healthiest of the three boys, according to Mrs. Southerland. "He never had any sickness."

When he complained of pain in his leg last December, his parents thought he pulled a muscle riding a bicycle.

While the Southerland's await the decision, Stephen fidgets, fighting boredom and a "hard as a rock" bed.

Stephen said the leg amputation performed on Edward Kennedy Jr., son of U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., "gives me more hope that I can make it and makes me feel it's not really that big a thing."

Nixon-panel dispute to continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's words were different, but his message to the House Judiciary Committee was the same: no more White House files until the panel defines an impeachable offense.

During a televised question-and-answer session Tuesday night before the National Association of Broadcasters convention in Houston, the President said:

"It is the Constitution that defines what the House should have access to and the limits of its investigation. Now, I'm suggesting that the House follow the Constitution. If they do, I will."

What prompted that statement was a question in which the President was asked if he weren't seeking to define the limits of the impeachment inquiry by saying what he would and would not give the House committee.

Nixon replied that the Constitution defines grounds for impeachment as "treason, bribery and other high crimes and misdemeanors."

He then seemed to suggest that the House committee should limit its requests to material that would bear on what are found to be "high crimes and misdemeanors."

But a problem is that the House committee and the President disagree on the definition of impeachable offenses.

At a news conference on Feb. 25, the President said, "The Constitution is very precise in defining what is an impeachable offense.... A criminal offense on the part of the president is the requirement for impeachment."

The House Judiciary Committee hasn't made any final determination of what it will regard as an impeachable offense.

But a staff memorandum given members of the commitee just four days before President Nixon gave his definition said that, "in drawing articles of impeachment, the House has placed little emphasis on criminal conduct....

"Much more common are allegations that the officer has violated his duties or his oath or seriously undermined public confidence in his ability to perform his official functions."

Members of the House panel didn't necessarily agree with the staff study.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., the ranking Republican, said the study "speaks to the committee, it does not speak for the committee."

The President has portrayed the House committee as making broad requests for material in an attempt to find something that would fit an unspecified definition of an impeachable offense.

For example, last Friday before a group of business executives in Chicago, Nixon said some people would have him give the committee "a fishing license" to go through presidential files "in order to find out whether or not there is a possibility that some action had been taken which might be and might result in an impeachable offense."

His message then, repeated Tuesday night, was that to permit such a broad search would irreparably weaken the presidency.

Body recovered

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP)— The body of Al Bojanowski of Elyria was recovered Tuesday from Salt Fork Lake. Bojanowski disappeared Monday night after he went to the lake to do some night fishing.

Chrysler hikes prices

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has announced a retail price increase averaging $28 on its 1974 model cars.

The increase, effective Monday, is the first since price controls were lifted last December. It is the second increase by Chrysler since it introduced its 1974 cars last fall.

The increase averages seven-tenths of a per cent per unit and ranges from $15 for the Dodge Dart and Plymouth Valiant to $67 for the Plymouth Fury, Dodge Monaco, Chrysler and Imperial, Chrysler said.

In the announcement Tuesday, Chrysler said the price increase is necessary to offset "rapidly increasing costs of both labor and materials."

General Motors and American Motors would not comment Tuesday on Chrysler's latest increases. Both Ford and GM have hinted they may raise their prices before the 1975 model year.

Rotary Club gets preview of Miami Trace musical

Members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club received a sneak preview of the musical, "No, No Nanette," which will be staged April 5-6 in the Miami Trace High School auditorium, during their regular weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Country Club.

Mrs. Cinda Stinson, vocal music director at Miami Trace High School, and 10 of the performers whetted the appetites of the Rotarians with a capsule performance of the musical, which was revived on Broadway last year and was a smash hit.

The 10 performers presented brief descriptions of the characters they will be portraying in the two-performance musical and presented a half dozen exerpts from the show.

Mrs. Stinson said the musical will feature a 40-piece orchestra, including some Washington Senior High School musicians and some members of the Cecilian Club. Carmen Johnson is the choreographer for the musical.

Cast members attending the meeting were Lynette Anderson, Dawn Schlichter, Doug Joseph, Greg Detty, Connie Stayrook, Eric Krieger, Cindy Mountcastle, Jeanette Anderson, Kim Fleming and Nancy Bentley. The pianist was Elise Hill.

Bill Williams, club secretary, conducted the business meeting in the absence of the president, Phil Grover, and the vice president, Paul Crosby. Bruce Galloway arranged the program.

John Woodrow, of MTHS, was a student guest. Other guests were Ray Baker, of Lancaster, Ron Steinbrenner, of Dayton, and Kenneth Kelley, of Washington C.H., with Jack Brennan. Mike Domenico with his father, Fred Domenico, and Dan Ray, of Washington C.H. with Billie Wilson.

Visiting Rotarians were Wade Pierce, of Cincinnati, Charles Pitts, of London, Darrell French, of Wilmington, Ottie Hockman, of Mount Sterling, and Merrill Kaufman, of Delaware.

Nixon recalls Saxbe jab

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — President Nixon referred to a statement once made by Atty. Gen. William Saxbe while still a senator when he pointed out Tuesday night how even his supporters criticized him over unpopular decisions.

Answering questions before the National Association of Broadcasters, Nixon was saying a President should not think of resigning every time his popularity goes down in the polls.

He noted newspapers that had supported him and many senators and public figures criticized his decision to resume bombing of North Vietnam after peace negotiations broke down in 1972. And he added:

"As a matter of fact, one senator said the President has taken leave of his senses. I had no hard feelings about that, I made him attorney general."

Saxbe made the remark while serving as a Republican senator from Ohio.

Ferguson signs under attack

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Whitehall man who claims he represents Ohio's taxpayers has charged state Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson with using state money to further his personal interests.

Max Graf said in the lawsuit filed in Franklin County Common Pleas Court the auditor misappropriated $4,572 by erecting billboards on which Ferguson's name is prominent.

The billboards advertise a toll free phone line for information on state spending.

Graf asked the court to order the signs torn down and the money returned to the state.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Should cable-TV operators pay broadcasters and others copyright fees for TV shows the operators pick off the air? It's a question that's been kicking around in Congress since 1971.

It's still there today, despite a Supreme Court decision this month that cable-TV companies don't have to pay such fees for TV shows they import from distant cities and provide subscribers in their own communities for a monthly charge.

The ruling was viewed in the cable-TV industry as a major victory. And you'd think the major industry group — the National Cable Television Association (NCTA) — would be more than happy to let the ruling answer the copyright question for good.

But NCTA president David Foster says otherwise. On the day the ruling came, he allowed himself a brief cheer, then insisted his group still wants Congress to make cable TV operators pay copyright fees, even though it'll cost them hundreds of thousand of dollars annually. "We have always felt that as a matter of qualifying cable to become a first-class member of the communications fraternity, we should accept this responsibility," says Foster, whose group represents 1,300 of the nation's 3,000 cable TV systems.

"This has been a difficult position for the cable industry to come to," he noted. "There are still many cable operators who don't feel they should pay copyright fees."

However, he added, "quite candidly, a whole lot of our regulatory problems, I think, will either go away or be minimized once we've got the copyright issue behind us."

In 1971, the National Association of Broadcasters, NCTA and copyright owners came to an agreement — sponsored by the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy — to jointly support legislation that would, among other things, make cable-TV liable for copyright fees.

"We still feel that's the way to do it," said NAB president Vincent Wasilewski, referring to the three-way effort.

But Wasilewski, whose group represents 531 commercial TV stations, was skeptical about how hard Foster's association would press Congress for copyright legislation in the wake of the Supreme Court ruling.

But he conceded the NAB's pursuit of the legislation wouldn't be all that vigorous, either, because "this would not be our top-priority legislation." The big push, he said, is for pending legislation to increase the number of years a broadcast license can be held.

Teen breakfast attendance up

The prayer Breakfasts are held each Tuesday at 6:45 a.m. at the South Side Church of Christ to help youth relate their faith with their everyday life. The program is supported by contributions from orgainzations, churches, individuals, and businesses of the community.

"A Time to Say Yes and A Time to Say No" was the theme used by Charles J. Richmond, minister, at the meditation time.

Opening lead - queen of clubs.

It is desirable to have at least eight trumps in the combined hands to play a suit contract, but there are times when one must settle for less.

Consider this deal from a team of four match where, at the first table, South got to four hearts on a 4-3 fit. This contract proved to be satisfactory, even though declarer's trump margin over the defenders was only seven to six.

He won the queen of clubs lead with the ace and played a diamond to the queen. West took the king and led another club, the eight forcing the king, which declarer ruffed.

South ruffed a diamond in dummy and cashed the A-K-Q of trumps, leaving West with the one and only remaining trump, the ten. But West found himself powerless—despite his apparently commanding position—when declarer proceeded to run his diamonds. West ruffed the fifth round of diamonds, but then had to lead a spade to declarer's king and so hand South his tenth trick.

At the second table, South got to three notrump and went down one when he encountered superb defense. West led the four of spades, the unbid suit, covered by dummy with the six, and East made the fine play of the five, declarer winning the trick with the ten.

The non-appearance of the deuce or three made it clear to West that East's five was a come-on signal, so, when South entered dummy with a heart and tried a diamond finesse, West took the king and played the ace and another spade to put an end to declarer's hopes.

How a Doctor Diagnoses a Case

Many readers have expressed wonder how doctors without benefit of laboratory reports can come to a conclusion about a medical problem.

The art and science of medical diagnosis depends on special perceptive qualities acquired by training.

The general appearance of a patient, the color and texture of the skin, the clouding of the eyes, a spiritless expression, weakness in speech patterns, how a patient walks, are all meaningful in the preliminary pursuit of a diagnosis.

The stethoscope reveals the regularity of the heart, the presence or absence of murmurs, and the clear breath sounds of the normal lungs.

These and similar findings make up the clinical judgment that is so often referred to in these columns. A physician comes to a tentative conclusion and then proceeds to verify it.

There are some general classifications of diseases that categorize most illnesses.

Infections caused by bacteria, viruses, and molds are always considered. Allergy to food, drugs, inhalants and contactants is a major cause of many body disorders.

Tumors are carefully inspected and suspicious ones that suggest cancer are further investigated.

Injuries, of course, are readily recognized.

Degenerative changes due to advancing age, with narrowing of the blood vessels and weakening of the muscles and joints, are of special diagnostic importance in the doctor's office.

It is firmly established that the emotions are vitally involved in every phase of the body, in health and disease.

In this frenetic, highly geared civilization it is virtually impossible to practice medicine without a constant awareness of the close interplay between the emotions and all physical illness.

The practice of medicine is, indeed, an artistic endeavor. In this age of specialization, the family physician is still the bulwark of the nation's health.

Youth Activities

TO LO LI RE MA KI

Missy Krieger, president, opened the To Lo Li Re Ma Ki Camp Fire meeting with the Sign of the Fire. Sharon Ingram, treasurer, called the roll and collected dues. Each girl answered with her Indian name.

We made plans to attend church this Sunday for Birthday Week. We also talked more about Birthday Week, and discussed the annual trip and ways to earn money to help pay the cost of the trip.

BUSY BEES 4-H

Lana McCoy opened the Busy Bee 4-H Club meeting with the 4-H Pledge. Terri Vermillion, vice president, conducted the meeting and reports were given.

Mrs. Campbell appointed committees: Constitution, Julie Blake and Lana McCoy; program, Terri Vermillion, Jenny Martin and Becky Merriman; Mother's Tea, Julia Blake, Rita Berwanger, Jill Dorn, and Kim Bryant.

Plans for the Mother's Tea were discussed and it will be May 14 at the Landmark Building.

BEST FRIENDS 4-H

This year the Best Friends 4-H Club has a Pilot Dog project. Lu Brown is taking Heidi, a black Labrado retriever, through basic training to prepare her for her role as a "Seeing-Eye" dog.

At the regular club meeting Thursday, Lu talked about the project and the requirements for it. The trainer keeps the dog for about 11 months when it completes training. Only one of six dogs trained for the work passes the final test. If the dog doesn't pass the test, the person who kept it gets the dog back.

Gary Cobb, president, read the club constitution and appointed Kevin Persinger, Leora Burdge, and Jeff Harper to make amendments. The committee reported several changes and amendments and the new constitution was accepted.

At the next meeting Mrs. Elmer Haymaker, an area dog groomer, will speak on the "Care and Grooming."

Club membership has now reached 13 and membership is closed.

All members are urged to attend the next meeting to be held in the home of Jana Hanawalt, so they may sign the new constitution.

Lu Brown and Jana Hanawalt served refreshments.

Bride-elect is honored

Miss Wanda Downar, bride-elect of Daniel D. O'Malley, was honored at a luncheon and miscellaneous shower recently by co-hostesses Mrs. Kenneth J. Johnson and Mrs. William A. Boylan, at the Johnson residence. Table and bridal decorations of yellow rosebuds were used throughout the rooms. Immediately following the luncheon, the guest of honor opened her lovely gifts, for which she expressed her thanks and pleasure. The ribbon corsage was arranged by Miss Curryann Kruse, sister of the prospective groom.

The guest list included Mrs. Joseph Downar of Steubenville, mother of the bride-elect; Miss Christine Downar of Columbus, sister of the bride-elect; Miss Sue Forney and Miss Lorane C. Kruse of Columbus; Mrs. Glenn Milstead of Newark; Mrs. Michael Boylan of Lancaster; Dr. J. Lynne Boylan of Pico Rivera, Calif.; and Mrs. Jack P. Boylan of Blissfield, Mich.

Guests from Washington C.H. were Mrs. Virtus J. Kruse, mother of the prospective groom, her daughter, Curryann, Mrs. L.A. Salender, grandmother of the prospective groom, Mrs. Gordon Davis, Mrs. Joe Boylan, Mrs. Roger Whitmore, Mrs. Benjamin Wright, Mrs. Charles Funk, Mrs. Harold Heckaman, Mrs. James Chakeres, Mrs. Gilbert Whiteside, Mrs. Douglas Dye, Mrs. Maynard Denen, Mrs. Jack Shoemaker, Mrs. Darrell C. DeBolt, Mrs. Robert Woodmansee, Miss Robin Smith, Mrs. Edmond S. Woodmansee, Mrs. Homer Ruley and Mrs. Robert Lisk.

The wedding will be solemnized April 16 in the Steubenville Catholic Church.

Parents guests at musicale

Young people of junior and high school ages met at the resident studio of Mrs. Robert E. Willis, 11 Willis Court, Sunday afternoon. Barry Cupp was at the door to receive parents as guests for an hour of 'good listening'. Debbie Dickey of Wilmington had complete charge of the program.

An Irish song, "Believe Me Of All Those Endearing Young Charms" was sung by the group, with John Huffman at the piano.

Kathy Ginn read a history sketch of the composers called 'The Three B's.' They are Johann Sebastian Bach, Ludwig Von Beethoven and Johannes Brahms, with 'listening' of the following illustrations: Pastoral Symphony recording by Beethoven and Minuet in G by Beethoven, a violin recording by Mischa Elman. A Lullaby by Brahms was sung by Janice Ragland with Susan Wilson at the piano, and Prelude in C by Bach by Kitten Sagar at the piano.

Piano solos followed by Barry Cupp, Kathy Ginn, Susan Wilson and Debbie Coulter, who played First Movement of Sonata D by Haydn.

Hosts for the occasion were Mrs. Donald Ginn and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Coulter.

Lenten traditions reviewed

The Women of St. Colman Catholic Church met for the March meeting in Parish Hall Monday evening. Mrs. Robert Pero opened the meeting with some thoughts of spring and a prayer. Mrs. Robert Garland read minutes and Mrs. Raldin Smith gave the treasurer's report.

The recently cleaned and redecorated kitchen was a conversation piece. Mrs. Pero, Mrs. Ben Wright, Mrs. Betty Byron and Mrs. George Spilker composed the committee.

The group voted to sponsor two children from Fayette Progressive School to King's Island later this spring.

Mrs. Bart Mahoney announced the dessert-smorgasbord for April 18 at Mahan Hall for the cancer Society, and all were urged to attend.

All were reminded again of the bake sale to be held following each Mass on Palm Sunday, and the Saturday evening Mass.

Mrs. Gene Carmen presented a program on Lenten traditions and customs and particularly those associated with foods which may be served during Holy Week. She suggested a menu which can be served on Holy Thursday and told what each dish symbolized.

Following this, Mrs. Smith showed slides of a trip which she and her husband had taken to Rome, Italy. A flower and seed exchange followed.

Mrs. William Himmelspach and Mrs. Agnes Ford served refreshments.

The next meeting will be held in Parish Hall and the main feature will be a party, and each person is asked to bring an item worth at least 25 cents, to be used for a prize.

King's Daughters Class meets

The King's Daughters Sunday School Class met in the home of Mrs. Carl Meriweather for their regular business session, with 15 members present.

The president, Mrs. Edith Parsley, called the meeting to order.

Miss Delores Cadwalader, devotional leader, read for Scripture the 23rd Psalm from the Living Bible; read also from selected items included a quote "Cure for Frustration." The group sang the hymn "God Will Take of You" which was the devotional theme, followed by pertinent thoughts and closed with the hymn "He Leadeth Me." Miss Carolyn Haggard accompanied for the hymns.

The president expressed appreciation and thanks for the Greeters who served at the Sunday Morning services.

Mention was made concerning the project "Out Reach" and volunteers requested to attend the two meetings. Mrs. Harry Butler and Mrs. Clark Gossard will represent the King's Daughters class.

The class will follow the custom of providing a potted flower for Easter Services. From a pamphlet concerning 'bonus coupons' the president explained what and how benefit could be derived.

In closing the session, the president read from the Morning Prayer by Ella Wheeler Wilcox. The meeting was adjourned by repeating the class benediction.

The hostess, assissted by Miss Cadwalader, Miss Haggard and Mrs. Meriweather, served a delicious dessert with a St. Patrick motif.

Stitch and Chat Club members get together

The Stitch and Chat Club of Jeffersonville met in the Lions Club room at noon for a sack lunch. The hostesses served a salad, dessert and coffee.

Mrs. Joe Ferguson conducted the meeting for the 16 members which answered roll call. In the absence of Mrs. Earl Swaney, Mrs. Harold Cline served as secretary.

Cheer cards were signed for members who are ill. There will be no Easter bazaar this year by the group.

Cancer pads will be made at the next regular meeting in April beginning at 10 a.m. This meeting will feature a carry-in noon luncheon, and the hostesses will be Mrs. Kennith Spahr, Mrs. Reba Straley and Mrs. Olive Brookover.

The club welcomed Mrs. Jean Warner as a new member. Mrs. Helen Dunkle of Dayton was a guest.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Dorothy Knisley, 718 E. Temple St., was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Straud Mathena, 1097 Spring Lake Ave.

Delta CCL donates to three funds

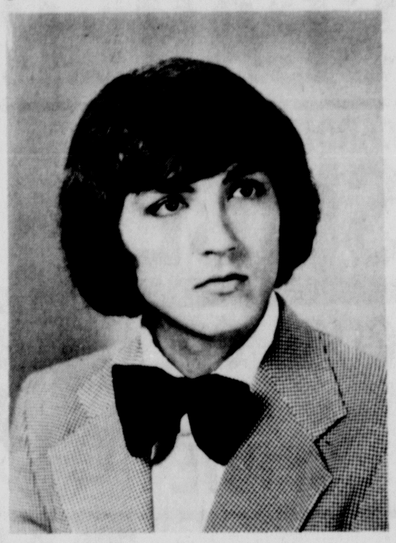
The Delta Child Conservation League met in the home of Mrs. Arthur Schaefer, Mrs. Ferol Lewis, vice president, opened the meeting and Mrs. Thomas Mossbarger gave devotions. She read verses from the Bible concerning 'mothers' and a poem, "Holding the Home Together." In closing, she told that kind words and good deeds help to keep homes together.

Discussion pertaining to the CCL scholarship fund, AFS and Delmar Mowery fund was held, and the group voted to donate to all three funds.

A reminder of the Spring Conference in Lebonon for March 23 was made and a social hour followed. Mrs. Fred Cook and Mrs. Lewis assisted Mrs. Schaefer in the serving of refreshments to guests in the spacious recreational room.

Pianist to give concert at Society meet

John Kim Bell, son of Mrs. Beth H. Bell of Columbus, will be guest pianist at a recital on Thursday at a noon luncheon-meeting of the National Society of Arts and Letters, Columbus chapter, of which Dr. Lois Lampe Zimmerman is president. The recital will take place at The Faculty Club of the Ohio State University beginning at 2 p.m.



Bell, received superior ratings on both piano and violin in a State Contest and also won first place in the senior division of the Graves Piano Contest. He was previously a violinist with the Columbus Youth Symphony and the All-Ohio Youth Symphony. Last summer he held the job of assistant musical conductor for Kenley Players and the Star Theatre of Flint, Mich.

A pupil of pianist George Haddad for five years and now a senior in music at OSU, he plans to work for further degrees in graduate school, following graduation.

Co-workers honor bride-elect

Mrs. Daniel Montgomery was hostess in her home recently for a personal bridal shower for Miss Johnny Sue Dye, bride-elect of Bill Rowe, who will be married April 6 in the chapel of Grace United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Montgomery served a fondue dinner, and a dessert which was a bride doll in keeping with the occasion.

Contests were conducted and winners were Mrs. David Kearney, Mrs. Thomas Rankin and Mrs. Burnham Light. They in turn presented the prizes to the guest of honor.

Those present were co-workers in the office of Drs. Gebhart and Heiny. They were Mrs. John Gifford, mother of the honor guest, Mrs. Rankin, Mrs. Kearney, Mrs. Light, Mrs. Larry Lane, Mrs. Mike Smith, Mrs. James Bonham and Mrs. Wendell Morrison.

2 sentenced to prison for forgery

Two men have been given prison sentences by Common Pleas Court Judge Evel[illegible] W. Coffman after entering guilty pleas to forgery charges.

Charles E. Tillis Jr., 18, of 513 S. Fayette St., was sentenced to a six-month to three-year term in the Mansfield Reformatory after pleading guilty to three counts of forgery and one count of grand theft.

Tillis received a six-month sentence on each of the forgery counts, to run concurrently with a six-month to three-year sentence he received on a grand theft charge.

He was arrested Feb. 22 by Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson and Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks in connection with the theft of checks from Paul Holtschulte, of Bloomingburg. Tillis had forged the stolen checks and had cashed them at Evans' Market, Bloomingburg, and the First National Bank in Washington C.H.

Sheriff Thompson said Holtschulte discovered the checks had been stolen when his banking statement was returned.

Tillis had been lodged in the Fayette County jail in lieu of $2,500 bond in connection with the fourth-degree felony charge of grand theft.

Judge Coffman also sentenced Edward J. Hoagland, 29, of Waynesville, to a term of 1-20 years in the Chillicothe Correctional Institute after he pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery and uttering a forged instrument.

Hoagland was arrested Feb. 12 by Sgt. Crooks after secret indictment had been returned by a Fayette County grand jury.

The checks allegedly were prepared by Hoagland and cashed last November at a Sagar Dairy store and the J&R carryout.

Chrysler hikes prices

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has announced a retail price increase averaging $28 on its 1974 model cars.

The increase, effective Monday, is the first since price controls were lifted last December. It is the second increase by Chrysler since it introduced its 1974 cars last fall.

The increase averages seven-tenths of a per cent per unit and ranges from $15 for the Dodge Dart and Plymouth Valiant to $67 for the Plymouth Fury, Dodge Monaco, Chrysler and Imperial, Chrysler said.

In the announcement Tuesday, Chrysler said the price increase is necessary to offset "rapidly increasing costs of both labor and materials."

General Motors and American Motors would not comment Tuesday on Chrysler's latest increases. Both Ford and GM have hinted they may raise their prices before the 1975 model year.

W.I.S.H. COMES THROUGH — The Women in Service Helping sorority has donated $100 to the city's and $100 to the county's learning disability classes. Foster, superintendent of county schools. Nestor and Foster accepted the $100 checks from the W.I.S.H. group.

'No, No Nanette' April 5-6

Rotary Club gets preview of Miami Trace musical

Members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club received a sneak preview of the musical, "No, No Nanette," which will be staged April 5-6 in the Miami Trace High School auditorium, during their regular weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Country Club.

Mrs. Cinda Stinson, vocal music director at Miami Trace High School, and 10 of the performers whetted the appetites of the Rotarians with a capsule performance of the musical, which was revived on Broadway last year and was a smash hit.

The 10 performers presented brief descriptions of the characters they will be portraying in the two-performance musical and presented a half dozen exerpts from the show.

Mrs. Stinson said the musical will feature a 40-piece orchestra, including some Washington Senior High School musicians and some members of the Cecilian Club. Carmen Johnson is the choreographer for the musical.

Bill Williams, club secretary, conducted the business meeting in the absence of the president, Phil Grover, and the vice president, Paul Crosby. Bruce Galloway arranged the program.

John Woodrow, of MTHS, was a student guest. Other guests were Ray Baker, of Lancaster, Ron Steinbrenner, of Dayton, and Kenneth Kelley, of Washington C.H., with Jack Brennan. Mike Domenico with his father, Fred Domenico, and Dan Ray, of Washington C.H. with Billie Wilson.

Visiting Rotarians were Wade Pierce, of Cincinnati, Charles Pitts, of London, Darrell French, of Wilmington, Ottie Hockman, of Mount Sterling, and Merrill Kaufman, of Delaware.

Nixon recalls Saxbe jab

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — President Nixon referred to a statement once made by Atty. Gen. William Saxbe while still a senator when he pointed out Tuesday night how even his supporters criticized him over unpopular decisions.

Answering questions before the National Association of Broadcasters, Nixon was saying a President should not think of resigning every time his popularity goes down in the polls.

He noted newspapers that had supported him and many senators and public figures criticized his decision to resume bombing of North Vietnam after peace negotiations broke down in 1972. And he added:

"As a matter of fact, one senator said the President has taken leave of his senses. I had no hard feelings about that, I made him attorney general."

Saxbe made the remark while serving as a Republican senator from Ohio.

Ferguson signs under attack

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Whitehall man who claims he represents Ohio's taxpayers has charged state Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson with using state money to further his personal interests.

Max Graf said in the lawsuit filed in Franklin County Common Pleas Court the auditor misappropriated $4,572 by erecting billboards on which Ferguson's name is prominent.

The billboards advertise a toll free phone line for information on state spending.

Graf asked the court to order the signs torn down and the money returned to the state.

Parents hopeful for son's life

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — "If we can just keep Stephen, we want nothing else," said Miami, Fla., policeman Raymond Southerland, who fears his third son has been stricken with a deadly form of cancer.

The agonizing wait continued today for Southerland and his wife, Sara. Word is expected soon whether Stephen, 13, must lose his left leg.

If it is bone cancer, as doctors fear, the boy is given a 30 per cent chance of survival.

"You have to hope," Mrs. Southerland said Tuesday while at the bedside of her oldest son.

The Southerland's lost their youngest son, Jeffrey, to lymphatic leukemia five years ago. The day before Jeffrey's death, doctors discovered a rare malignancy in the spine of a second brother, Michael, now 9. He has apparently overcome the disease through lengthy treatment.

Despite the series of tragedies, Stephen "took this all a great deal better than his mom and dad," said the boy's father.

"I'm really not worried," said Stephen, who turns 14 in May. "It's really an experience you have to put up with. I think I can face it.

"We're a strong family," he added.

A growth on his leg was discovered last week by doctors in Miami. Doctors said odds are it is bone cancer, but officials confirmation has not yet been made by attending physicians at Cincinnati Children's Hospital, where Stephen was transferred last week.

One doctor said Tuesday it might be one of several cancer forms or an infection that could be treated with antibiotics.

If confirmed as bone cancer, the doctor said chemotherapy or amputation would be needed.

The only other trace of cancer in the family was Southerland's mother, who was cured of breast cancer.

Stephen was always considered the healthiest of the three boys, according to Mrs. Southerland. "He never had any sickness."

When he complained of pain in his leg last December, his parents thought he pulled a muscle riding a bicycle.

While the Southerland's await the decision, Stephen fidgets, fighting boredom and a "hard as a rock" bed.

Stephen said the leg amputation performed on Edward Kennedy Jr., son of U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., "gives me more hope that I can make it and makes me feel it's not really that big a thing."

Nixon-panel dispute to continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's words were different, but his message to the House Judiciary Committee was the same: no more White House files until the panel defines an impeachable offense.

During a televised question-and-answer session Tuesday night before the National Association of Broadcasters convention in Houston, the President said:

"It is the Constitution that defines what the House should have access to and the limits of its investigation. Now, I'm suggesting that the House follow the Constitution. If they do, I will."

What prompted that statement was a question in which the President was asked if he weren't seeking to define the limits of the impeachment inquiry by saying what he would and would not give the House committee.

Nixon replied that the Constitution defines grounds for impeachment as "treason, bribery and other high crimes and misdemeanors."

He then seemed to suggest that the House committee should limit its requests to material that would bear on what are found to be "high crimes and misdemeanors."

But a problem is that the House committee and the President disagree on the definition of impeachable offenses.

At a news conference on Feb. 25, the President said, "The Constitution is very precise in defining what is an impeachable offense.... A criminal offense on the part of the president is the requirement for impeachment."

The House Judiciary Committee hasn't made any final determination of what it will regard as an impeachable offense.

But a staff memorandum given members of the commitee just four days before President Nixon gave his definition said that, "in drawing articles of impeachment, the House has placed little emphasis on criminal conduct....

"Much more common are allegations that the officer has violated his duties or his oath or seriously undermined public confidence in his ability to perform his official functions."

Members of the House panel didn't necessarily agree with the staff study.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., the ranking Republican, said the study "speaks to the committee, it does not speak for the committee."

The President has portrayed the House committee as making broad requests for material in an attempt to find something that would fit an unspecified definition of an impeachable offense.

For example, last Friday before a group of business executives in Chicago, Nixon said some people would have him give the committee "a fishing license" to go through presidential files "in order to find out whether or not there is a possibility that some action had been taken which might be and might result in an impeachable offense."

His message then, repeated Tuesday night, was that to permit such a broad search would irreparably weaken the presidency.

Body recovered

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP)— The body of Al Bojanowski of Elyria was recovered Tuesday from Salt Fork Lake. Bojanowski disappeared Monday night after he went to the lake to do some night fishing.

Tank car blazes in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A stream of fire poured out of the ruptured railroad tank car and into a 15-foot pool of flame to form a blazing, billowing column 40 feet high.

Firemen stood 1,000 feet away, helpless except for their efforts to keep the car cool by pouring water onto it from stationary hoses.

Officials, fearing the car, which contained 32,000 gallons of ethylele, would exploded, evacuated 3,500 workers from nearby industries.

But as flames continued to consume the liquid, a petroleum derivative used in the production of gasoline, the chances of an explosion lessened.

Firemen from Columbus and townships near the accident, just outside the western city limits, remained on the scene overnight.

Officials said the fire was expected to have burned itself out by 4 or 5 a.m. today.

The trouble began Tuesday afternoon when the Union Carbide Co. tank car en route from Columbus to Charleston, W. Va., derailed at the Penn Central-Phillipi Road crossing.

A valve broke off in the derailment and a spark apparently ignited the spilling liquid, Franklin County sheriff's deputies said. Several hours later a seam in the tank car ruptured, causing a much larger fire.

The tanker was the only car to leave the tracks. Other cars, some of them also tankers, were pulled away from the burning car.

Officials said there was no means of extinguishing the fire.

Firemen placed hoses on tripods to continuously spray water on the tank car and moved back a safe distance from the fire.

The water kept the car's temperature down so pressure wouldn't build up, officials said.

Police evacuated workers from about 10 industries in the area, including a Westinghouse plant where employes on the second and third shifts Tuesday and first shift today lost work.

There are no homes in the area.

Also worrying officials was the presence nearby of a tank farm where the Marathon and Texaco had eight million gallons of refined petroleum products stored.

Traffic was detoured a halfmile in each direction of the accident.

Power in the area was turned off, but that generally affected only the industries which had shut down.

Later in the evening, an explosion expert brought here from Toledo by the Penn Central Railroad used meters to read the gas content of the air around the tanker.

"We're getting zero on our explosion meters," Larry Baggerly, a division superintendent for the railroad, said late Tuesday night.

The cause of the derailment was not determined immediately. No one was injured.

Grain reserves buildup possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — A buildup of world grain reserves by mid-1975 is likely if record crops materialize for U.S. farmers this year, says the Agriculture Department.

But more ample supplies of wheat and feed grains will bring mixed possibilities: lower food costs for consumers and a cutback in farm income because of reduced grain prices.

The possibilities were raised Tuesday by a report showing world grain output — wheat and feed grain — is now expected to jump 7.5 per cent to a record 965.5 million metric tons for the year ending June 30.

Looking ahead, the Foreign Agricultural Service said prospects point to world grain harvests totaling another record of 996.8 million tons in the 1974-75 season, a 3.2 per cent from this year.

Officials said most of the increase would result from record U.S. wheat and corn crops projected for 1974 harvests.

Although large demand for grain in international markets is expected to continue, world harvests could outgain total use, meaning additional reserves by July 1, 1975, the report indicated.

However, analysts said a number of factors make estimates difficult, including current high prices of grain which could reduce the rate of grain consumption.

Prices have soared the past year as many countries turned to the United States to help replenish graneries following reduced harvests in 1972-73.

"A serious slowdown could possibly cut 10 million tons off the projected consumption level," the report said. "If this happened stocks in major exporting countries as of June 30, 1975, could recover roughly four-fifths of the sharp decline which had occurred in the preceding two years."

The experts said also that larger harvests this year in other grain exporting countries will mean stiffer competition in international trade for U.S. farmers.

Thus, the report said, U.S. farm exports will decline in 1974-5. In earlier projections, department officials had estimated wheat exports, for example, will drop to about 1 billion bushels from a record 1.2 billion forecast for the year ending June 30.

Milk protesters hear other side

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A group of Cleveland area housewives protesting high milk prices visited a dairy farm Tuesday and were told that farmers don't think milk prices are high enough.

Ten members of a group calling itself "Milking the Consumer" visited the Lorain County farm of Dave Brockmore.

Brockmore told the women he has about $150,000 worth of equipment and animals but no longer makes a profit farming.

"I'm getting nothing back on my investment," Brockmore said after showing the women his 250-acre farm.

African plane hijacked

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A man and a woman hijacked an East African Airways plane with 35 people aboard today and airline sources said the couple was reported arrested when the plane landed in Uganda.

L. LESTER BOWER

Bower joins Fayette Bank

A native of Greenfield has joined the staff of the Fayette County Bank.

L. Lester Bower, 33, a 1958 graduate of McClain High School, has been employed by the bank in the area of consumer finance.

Bower, who previously had been manager of the City Loan and Savings Co. office in New Boston, is married to the former Joyce Ann Rooks, of Greenfield, and they have three children, Deborah, 7, Bradley, 3, and Stephanie, 2. The family presently resides in Portsmouth but is planning to move here shortly.

After graduating from McClain, Bower entered the Navy where he attended radio electronics school. He then worked for Redman Industries in Washington C.H. before joining City Loan in 1967. He was assistant manager of the office here for 3 years prior to taking the post as manager of the New Boston office.

Probe finding of dead body

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati police are investigating the discovery of what they say is the "mummified" body of an elderly woman found sitting in the hallway of a Bond Hill home.

Police said they do not know how long the woman, who was about 80 years old, had been dead.

The body reportedly was discovered by the dead woman's nephew.

SEC Chairman to take stand

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Securities and Exchange Commission chairman William J. Casey's name appears on eight pages of the criminal conspiracy indictment against John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans. Only the defendants are mentioned more often.

Thus it was as a crucial prosecution witness that Casey was expected to take the witness stand today at the trial of former Atty. Gen. Mitchell and one-time Commerce Secretary Stans. The trial is midway in its fifth week.

The indictment defines Casey as a prime target in a conspiracy by Mitchell and Stans to impede an SEC fraud investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco, in return for the latter's secret $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign.

Casey, whose name also figures in perjury counts against both defendants, resigned as SEC chairman early last year to become undersecretary of state for economic affairs. He is now president of the Export-Import Bank.

Two former secretaries of Vesco closed out Tuesday's trial testimony. They were Shirley Bailey and Helen Force.

Each testified that she played a part in the transfer of the $200,000 contribution to a Vesco associate, Laurence Richardson, who in turn paid the money to Stans April 10, 1972.

The government claims it was this information that Vesco, Mitchell and Stans sought to conceal from the SEC, thus obstructing justice. The two women eventually were subpoenaed to tell SEC investigators about the money.

The prosecution said the device hit upon by the defendants was to obtain a lawyer for the two women, who would tell them to take the Fifth Amendment before the SEC.

The late Walter Van Riper, one-time attorney general of New Jersey, was the attorney selected by a Vesco associate, according to the two women. They said the first and last time they ever say him was the morning of their SEC appearance.

The witnesses said Van Riper asked for an adjournment, pleading that he needed more time to familiarize himself with the case. When the request was denied, he replied that he must reluctantly direct the two women to take the Fifth Amendment and refuse to testify, the witness stand account continued.

The government contends that under a smokescreen over adjournment, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Force were able to withhold testimony about the $200,000.

Bill to abolish mayor's courts postponed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee has postponed until next week a vote on a big bill that creates more than three dozen new judgeships and abolishes mayors' courts in Ohio.

Chairman Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, switched signals Tuesday night when the vote had been planned, saying the committee may want to hear additional testimony.

The abolition of mayors' courts has been proposed at least the last four legislative sessions, but unable to muster the necessary support in the face of political pressure on lawmakers.

Wilkowski and others wanting to do away with the so-called "speed traps" revived their efforts after the U.S. Supreme Court took away most of the mayors' courts' authority.

As a result of the 1972 ruling, the estimated 500 mayors' courts in Ohio have been limited to hearing only those cases in which the defendant pleads guilty. If he pleads innocent, his case has to be transferred to a county court or another court of record.

Wilkowski came up with the idea of putting the abolition in with the omnibus bill creating new judgeships, hoping to coax would-be opponents into supporting the entire package for other reasons.

The bill proposes to add three judges each to state appellate courts in the eighth (Cleveland) and first (Cincinnati) districts. Nineteen common pleas judgeships would be created, along with 14 municipal judgeships.

In other business Tuesday night, the Senate-House subcommittee labored over proposed amendments to a bill that would establish a state energy board which could declare states of emergency and make specific legislative recommendations to the General Assembly.

Chairman Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, said, "We expect to have a substitute bill ready by next week."

He said the proposal would go back to the respective standing committees of the two chambers for their consideration, since the "ad hoc" panel lacks authority to act on measures officially.

The joint subcommittee had expected to hear from Michael Scanlon, director of intergovernmental relations for the Federal Energy Office, but his trip to Ohio had to be canceled.

Maloney said the federal official cited "some kind of minor crisis" in Louisiana as the cause of a schedule change, but offered to appear before the committee at a later date.

Carlton Dargusch Jr., counsel for the Ohio Association of Broadcasters, and William Oertel, executive director of the Ohio Newspaper Association, urged the energy panel to approve an amendment assuring that the proposed bill will not curtail the rights of industries and their other advertisers.

The measure, as written, would ban all advertising that suggested more use of electricity and other energy sources.

Dargusch said that to put such a restriction into the law would be wrong, since "it would be interfering with freedom of speech." He indicated his organization had no objection for a state energy board to have the power to impose such a restriction if a real crisis did arise.

In other developments, the House Environment and Natural Resources Committee finished hearing testimony on an embattled proposal to require a five-cent deposit on beverage containers. Manufacturers and big labor in Ohio both oppose the measure on grounds it would cost jobs and otherwise have an adverse effect on the state's economy.

Adding their voices to the chorus of opposition sounded on the bill last week were representatives of the Ohio AFL-CIO, the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, and a spokesman for an Ohio Glass Bottle Blowers Association.

The Senate Education & Health committee rejected 5-2 a bill that would take away a requirement for the teaching of oral language in schools for the deaf. Present law enables a teacher to switch to sign language after unsuccessful experimentation with the oral system.

An interesting program on diamonds was presented to members of the Washington C.H. Lions Club following their regular dinner meeting Tuesday night in the Country Club.

Andre Metais, owner-operator of the C.A. Gossard Co. jewelry store, Court and Fayette St., explained to the 80 club members attending the history, mining, cutting and marketing of the precious gems.

Also, during the meeting a slate of new officers for the April election was announced, reports were heard on the club's annual variety show and the Babe Ruth baseball program and five new members were welcomed.

Metais, who came to Washington C.H. in 1952 as a watchmaker and jeweler, told Lions that there are no mysteries in the diamond world. He said most of the mysteries regarding the gem are created by the ignorance of the consumer and unethical business practices of some jewelers.

He said diamonds, which are described by scientists as crystals of pure carbon, are formed by intense heat and pressure beneath the earth and are the hardest substance known to mankind.

METAIS, who distributed samples and replicas to further illustrate his talk, pointed out that diamond mining first started about 600 B.C., mostly in India. He said that 98 per cent of today's diamonds are mined in South Africa, but there are also some diamond mines in Russia now.

Around 1865, a Dutch geologist actually started the diamond mining by accident in South Africa. He was visiting a South African family when their son discovered an 83-karat gem. He sold the stone, worth about $57,000, to the Dutchman for some livestock, according to Metais. The gem was later cut, increasing the worth to $4 million.

The well-versed jeweler explained the mining process to club members and said 250 tons of ore are required to be processed to get one karat of diamond today.

He also explained diamond cutting processes and said that it is one of the most demanding professions today. He said cutting mistakes will appear in loss of brilliancy and loss of value.

Metais was born in Limoges, France, but spent most of his early life in Paris where he learned watchmaking and the jewelry business from his family which had followed the trade for two generations.

Before fielding a variety of questions from the audience, Metais said the quality of a diamond is determined by the karat weight, the color of the crystal body, the cut and the gem's clarity, which deals primarily with flaws.

Howard McDonald, chairman of the nominating committee, announced the slate of officers to be elected during the second meeting in April. Prospective officers are Ralph Cook, president; Richard Coates, first vice president; Persinger, second vice president; Bernie Light, George Naylor and Wiley Witherspoon, third vice president; Robert Herron and Ben Roby, secretary; Bill Lucas and S.E. Vaughn, assistant secretary; Jim Polk, treasurer; Donald Crabtree and Harold Thompson, assistant treasurer; Ralph Hyer and Gene Sagar, tailtwister; David Boswell and Daryl Stewart, Lion tamer, and director (two to be elected) Wesley Cox, Dr. Warren Craig, Otis Hess and Larry Lehman.

Coates said a coach is needed for one of the Washington C.H. teams in the Fayette County Babe Ruth Association. The Babe Ruth program is a Lions Club project.

Paul Johnson,and Lehman, co-producers of this year's musical comedy program, reported that 98 per cent of the club members participated in the show. They said a financial report on the show will be available soon.

New members welcomed were Allen Willoughby, James Wilson, Gary McMurray, H. Alvin Sohn and Mike Flynn. Guests were William Jones with Robert Kunz and Chester Dean with Johnson.

Garfield Commandery has annual inspection

The annual inspection of Garfield Commandery No. 28, Knights Templar, was held at the Masonic Temple with 125 knights and guests attending.

The degree work was displayed to the candidates by officers of Garfield Commandery. During the degree work the ladies were entertained in the fellowship hall with Mrs. Ronald Sears in charge of the activities. Later in the evening, the knights and their guests were served a fried chicken dinner, prepared by Eastern Star members. Serving the meal were members of Job's Daughters and DeMolay chapter members.

Ronald Sears, commander of the Garfield Commandery, introduced the other officers. They were Willard G. Ward, generalissimo; Daniel Terhune, captain general; Charles Duff, senior warden; Dale Evans, junior warden; John W. Craig, prelate; Dennis Hawk, treasurer; Kenneth L. Chaney, recorder; Eldon McBee, standard bearer; John Ringer, sword bearer; Albert Briggs, warden, and Alfred Browne, sentinenel.

Heads of the different commanderies in the Fifth Division introduced sir knights traveling with them. Ray Bennett, of the Columbus Commandery No. 69 who is in charge of the Knights Templar eye foundation for southwestern Ohio, said he had been contacted by a woman in the Washington C.H. area who said she was going blind and in need of an operation, which she could not afford.

Following an investigation in the matter, the organization's eye foundation made arrangements for the surgery and will provide the total cost.

Distinguished guests attending were 20 Knights of the York Cross of Honor, and one member of the Knights Templar Cross of Honor. Those from the Grand Commandery of Ohio were Larry Looker, deputy grand commander; George Fity, grand recorder; Aaron Hard, grand sentinel, and Ellsworth Nelson, grand sword bearer who served as the inspecting officer.

Dog charges bring fines

Acting Municipal Court Judge John P. Case faced a heavy docket Tuesday when 12 non-traffic cases were scheduled for hearing. In addition there were nine traffic cases and a preliminary hearing scheduled.

Four residents of the east side of Washington C.H. were fined for allowing their dogs to run loose. The charges were filed by a resident of the area.

Edward E. Fisher, 42, of 149 Carolyn Rd., was fined $50.

Gary L. Knisley, 25, of 146 Carolyn Rd., Pauline A. Johnson, 43, of 145 Eastview Dr., and E.R. Rudolph, 51, of 136 River Rd., were each fined $50, but $20 of each of their fines was suspended.

Ricky A. Smith, 23, of 210½ W. Elm St., was fined $25, for intoxication but a charge of petty larceny was dismissed.

Donald E. Zurface, 35, Sabina, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50 after he pleaded guilty to an assault charge which had been filed on a private warrant. Judge Case suspended 24 days of the jail term.

The other defendants forfeited bond.

POLICE

SHERIFF

Michael W. Johnson, 716 Peabody Ave., $50, intoxication.

More wire theft arrests

As a result of a continuing investigation by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, two more persons have been arrested in connection with the rash of recent thefts of copper telegraph wire.

Sgt. John L. Emrick Monday arrested Thomas E. Wheeler, 30, of Sabina, on a charge of larceny. He currently is free under $1,000 bond pending appearance in Municipal Court.

Tuesday, a complaint charging theft was filed in Juvenile Court against a 17-year-old Sabina boy. He was released to his parents pending a hearing.

A total of seven charges have been filed to date charging offense related to the theft of copper telegraph cable from the B&O Railroad. Sheriff Don Thompson said that more arrests are expected as the investigation continues.

Driver cited after crash

A hitskip driver who crashed into the glass enclosed entrance on the Main Street side of the Washington Inn just after midnight was arrested at 6 a.m. Wednesday and charged with reckless operation and leaving the scene of an accident.

John P. Kelly, 57, address unknown, was arrested at the M&M Restaurant, U.S. 35-W, after a tip was received by the Sheriff's Department.

Kelly told city police officers who investigated that he was pulling into a parking space and failed to hit the brake pedal. The car jumped the curb, striking the glass.

Amtrak boosts fares effective April 16

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak says mounting fuel and labor costs as well as inflation are forcing it to raise fares nationwide by 5 per cent.

Amtrak, the National Rail Passenger Corp., announced Tuesday that the fare hike would go into effect April 16.

The rate boost is intended to produce about $12 million in additional revenue, the corporation said.

County board renews supervisory contracts

Contracts for three administrators and one supervisor in the Miami Trace system were renewed by the Fayette County Board of Education at its regular meeting Tuesday night in the board office on Court Street.

Steve Yambor will serve as assistant superintendent for another three years starting Aug. 1; June Slaughter will serve as supervisor of elementary education for three more years, starting Aug. 1; Curtis Fleisher will serve three more years as secondary supervisor and principal of Miami Trace High School, starting Aug. 1, and Ronald Grottendick will serve two more years as principal of Bloomingburg Elementary School starting Aug. 26. There were no changes in salary schedules.

THREE NEW policies adopted by the board last night concern job description for the school psychologist, special education placement procedure and legal dismissal from school attendance.

In order for a student to be legally dismissed, a complete psychological evaluation of the student will be executed when found necessary, a conference will be held between psychologist and parents to discuss the study of the child and a legal dismissal committee will evaluate all information about the minor and make recommendations concerning placement.

The legal dismissal committee will be composed of the school psychologist, the elementary advisor, the director of the Progressive School and others who might be requested to appear. No legal dismissal will be considered unless written parental permission is obtained or until all appeals are completed.

The special education placement procedures approved by the board read much like the legal dismissal procedures. Once again, no action will be taken without parental consent.

THE BOARD approved the termination of Mrs. Carrie Stephenson's contract due to health reasons, effective March 29. Twenty-five of her 27 years teaching were spent in Wilson and Chaffin schools. Presently a second grade teacher, at Chaffin, she will be on disability retirement pay when the contract terminates on March 29.

The transfer of Mrs. Betty Lininger, executive secretary in the Miami Trace office, to secretary to the superintendent in the county office on April 1, was approved by the board. Mrs. Lininger's old position will not be filled due to automation and her new position will require a working day of 7½ hours. A salary increase of $300 per year was approved.

Mrs. Ruby Crawford was approved as janitor at Wayne Elementary School, Good Hope. She will begin her full custodial status March 25, and continue thru June 30.

THE BOARD reviewed the monthly financial statement for the district, along with monthly activity account statements from the elementary schools; the Miami Trace High School financial statement for February; the Miami Trace High School student activity accounts; the athletic report which listed a donation of $750 to the Miami Trace High School marching band, and the vocational school report.

Registration of kindergarten pupils for 1974-75 and enrollment of first graders who have not attended kindergarten this year will be as follows, according to the schedule established by Mrs. Slaughter and approved by the board: May 13 - Madison Mills, May 14 - Good Hope, May 15 - New Holland, May 16 - Staunton, May 17 - Bloomingburg, May 20 - Jeffersonville, May 21 - Chaffin and May 23 - Jasper. All sessions will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Professional meetings were approved by the board as follows: Foster - law conference at Miami University March 27; Ronald Lott - regional psychologist meeting, Hillsboro, March 22; Gordon McCarty - Southwest principal's meeting in Dayton April 4; a spring reading and language arts conference at Bowling Green April 20, involving Mrs. Evelyn Reser, Mrs. Mary Etta Watts, Mrs. Peggy Gass, Mrs. Nancy Harper and Mrs. Slaughter; Mrs. Gass - "Right to Read" conference in Columbus April 25 and 26; Miss Leslie Johnson, kindergarten meeting in Columbus; and Mrs. Slaughter - science workshop at Miami University March 27, psychological council at Hillsboro March 28, Ohio State supervisors' meeting in Columbus April 4 and 5 and International Reading Association in New Orleans April 29 - May 3.

YAMBOR brought to the attention of the board that janitorial supplies can no longer be bid on an annual basis because of shortages and fluctuating prices.

The board discussed recent legislative action which placed pregnancy into the sick leave policy. A local policy will be adopted after consulation with the county prosecutor.

The board decided to begin a program of experimental mini-courses in photography, astronomy and other related subjects for a one-year period at Miami Trace High School.

It was disclosed that two school buses were taken off the road by the Ohio Highway Patrol after a safety inspection because of rusting floors. Four new buses are on order, but if they do not arrive by summer, the board moved to lease buses, rather than repair the rusting vehicles.

Voting precincts at Eber, Chaffin and Wilson elementary schools will be continued as in the past, the board announced.

A fashion show and smorgasbord, sponsored by the Child Conservation League, will be held at Miami Trace High School March 22. The board granted permission as long as the CCL compensates the janitor and cook.

A request to use an auditorium for a dance program involving 20 Miami Trace and 20 Circleville students at one of the county schools was granted to Patty Van Bursek. The performance will be held at Bloomingburg Elementary School.

LaFatch faces bribery trial in Columbus

He is accused of demanding a payoff from John Vogel, chairman of Realty National Corp., to assure that the Ohio Commerce Department would approve a $10 million stock sale.

The Commerce Department has denied that LaFatch influenced approval of the stock sale, although Commerce Director Dennis Shaul has admitted giving LaFatch information about the sale.

Art prize questioned

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio American Revolution Bicentennial Commission was expected to decide today whether to accept or disqualify what Tuesday was named the winning entry in its medallion contest.

Beverly Robinson, a 16-year-old Wapakoneta high school junior, has admitted that she used a famous painting as a model for her entry.

"The contest rules were quite explicit" that entries were not to be copied, said Robert Cecile, chairman of the bicentennial commission.

Shortly after the award was announced, it was discovered that the design was modeled after a painting by George Caleb Bingham, known as "Daniel Boone Coming Through the Cumberland Gap."

Cecile said that if the award is withdrawn, it will go to the second place winner.

Northeastern school voters approve levy

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)— The 10th time was the charm in the Northeastern Local School District in Clark County Tuesday.

Voters approved 2,279-1,501 a $3,990,000 bond issue for construction of a new high school and remodeling of other buildings. After defeating the proposal nine straight times.

Alston sees Dodgers doing well

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Walter Alston says his young baseball team shouldn't be ashamed of its second-place finish in the National League West last season and will be better this year.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, managed by Alston for 21 years, have a strong nucleus returning and have added ace relief pitcher Mike Marshall.

Gone is veteran centerfielder Willie Davis, who was the team captain but had disagreements with Alston. He went to Montreal in exchange for Marshall.

To fill the key position in centerfield, the Dodgers traded left-handed pitcher Claude Osteen to Houston for Jim Wynn, the "toy cannon" who always has hit well in Dodger Stadium.

Alston has promised more communication with his players, something most necessary in a year when there are so many youngsters on the squad.

There will be platooning, but some of the young players earlier asked to be traded because they didn't think there would be room for them.

Among them were catcher Steve Yeager and infielder Lee Lacy.

Last year, Yeager and Joe Ferguson came up from Albuquerque and Ferguson won the catching job. His first hit was a home run and so was his second. He set Dodger records for catchers with 25 homers and 88 runs batted in.

Ferguson may play first base this season and undoubtedly there will be other experiments. Yet the Dodgers have another youngster, Bill Buckner, ready to go at first.

Buckner had 158 hits in 1973, ranking third on the Dodgers behind Davis' 171 and shortstop Bill Russell's 163.

Russell and Davey Lopes formed a sharp double play combination, and Lacy lost the starting job he had won in 1972.

Ron Cey has the third base job unless he loses it to veteran Ken McMullen in spring training.

Tom Paciorek, who hit .262 in 96 games last year, could be used at first base or in the outfield.

But the outfield has an overflow of talent, including Willie Crawford, a .295 hitter last season; Wynn; Tommie Agee, acquired from St. Louis; Von Joshua, and Manny Mota, a .314 hitter in 89 games last year.

Don Sutton, 18-10, Andy Messersmith, 14-10, Tommy John, 16-7, and Al Downing, 9-9, are back from the 1973 starting pitching rotation.

Doug Rau, who started three games in 1973, is a candidate for a starting role and the Dodgers have reliever Jim Brewer, who has been in one of every three Los Angeles victories during the past five years. Knuckleballing Charlie Hough also will be used in relief.

Still it's Marshall who will be counted on the most in the bullpen.

He was 14-11 last year with a 2.66 earned run average, but he was not happy at Montreal, and the Dodgers were glad to get him despite having to give up an outstanding player in Davis.

Purdue defeats Hawaii, 85-72

NEW YORK (AP) — "We like to go to these types of tournaments and to be among the top-ranked," said Purdue's Coach Fred Schaus. "It helps people to know we're still alive."

Hawaii got a reminder Tuesday night that Purdue was still very much alive and kicking as the Boilermakers coasted to an easy 85-72 victory and advanced to the semifinals of the National Invitation Tournament.

The Boilermakers, who in the opening round knocked off topseeded and seventh-ranked North Carolina, will play Saturday against Jacksonville, which won a run-and-shoot battle with Maryland-Eastern Shore 85-83 on two free throws by George Scholz with 25 seconds remaining.

The Boilermaker effort in Madison Square Garden was in contrast to a 76-67 loss to the Rainbows earlier this season in Hawaii.

The Boilermakers rattled off 10 straight points to start the game and had another flurry of 12 straight later in the first half. By halftime, they led by 13 and had a 15-point bulge early in the second half, before Hawaii began to battle back behind Tom Henderson, who finished with a career-high 33 points.

Purdue, now 20-9, did lose Jerry Nichols, who was taken to the hospital for x-rays on his left knee after he fell hard in the second half. Frank Kendrick led the Boilermaker scoring attack with 22 points.

Jacksonville found itself in a running battle with Maryland-Eastern Shore hitting 50 per cent and the Dolphins nearly 49 in the first half half which ended with the Dolphins ahead 51-50.

Butch Taylor was in foul trouble much of the second half and fouled out midway through the period after scoring 20 points and grabbing 14 rebounds.

Maryland-Eastern Shore, paced by Bill Gordon, who finished with 24 and Talvin Skinner, who had 20, came back to briefly take the lead and then Joe Pace tied the game 83-83 before Scholz sank his two free throws.

NIT quarter-final action continues Thursday night with Memphis State meeting Utah and Connecticut facing Boston College. Semifinals are Saturday afternoon with the championship and consolation contests Sunday.

MT wrestlers collect 10 varsity letters

The 1973-74 Miami Trace High School wrestling awards banquet was held Tuesday evening with 10 varsity letters being passed out. The Panther grapplers, under the helm of coach Dick Hill, had a so-so season with a young crew but gained lots of experience. Miami Trace finished the season with a 3-3 record in duel meets and placed seven medalists in one sectional meet.

Special awards went to; Captain Jim Reno, Pinning trophy to Don Dunton for nine pins, and Most Improved and Most Outstanding trophies to Gary Cobb.

Also announced was the preparation for the Junior High Wrestling Tournament. All boys in the 7th and 8th grades in the Miami Trace school district are eligible to enter. Practice dates are March 20, 26 and 28 at 6:00 p.m. at Miami Trace High School. Boys must participate in two practice sessions before being eligible for the tournament.

The tournament will be Friday, March 29 starting at 6:00 p.m. at MTHS. Admission will be free and the contest is open to the public.

Crusaders beat Cougars in WHA tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A goaltender in pro hockey has enough to put up with. He's constantly assaulted by the puck and opposing players, not to mention the abuse of the fans after every mistake.

"I was just tired of getting hit all the time," the normally reserved goaltender said after the Crusaders 7-4 World Hockey Association victory over the Chicago Cougars.

So, when Chicago's Rosaire Paiement bumped into Cheevers with 9:49 remaining in the game, the goalie lost his cool.

In a flash, the two were fighting — an uncommon sight in the sport where the netminder is burdened with so much bulky equipment.

Elsewhere in the WHA, the Vancouver Blazers trimmed the Minnesota Fighting Saints 5-4. In the National Hockey League, the New York Islanders topped the St. Louis Blues 5-1, the Minnesota North Stars tripped the California Seals 6-3, while the Toronto Maple Leafs and Los Angeles Kings played to a 1-1 tie.

The fracas, which came with the score tied 4-4, earned Paiement and Cheevers double minor penalties and brought Grant Erickson a 10-minute misconduct for coming to the aid of his goaltender.

Blazers 5, Fighting Saints 4

Mets hammer Cincy Reds in 7-1 contest

Tom Seaver and the Mets romped past the Reds 7-1 in a rematch of last October's National League playoffs.

What was to be a grudge match, turned into a dull mismatch as the Reds absorbed their fourth loss in five games.

And Pete Rose was a noshow.

The league's Most Valuable Player last season, Rose was a principal in the donnybrook which shook Shea Stadium. His collision with Mets' shortstop Bud Harrelson triggered mayhem.

"I'll wait until we play 'em at home, before the friendly folks," said Rose.

Harrelson shrugged off Rose's absence and, instead, wondered why no one had thought of hiring the two rivals for a commercial.

"Somebody missed the boat," said Harrelson.

His teammate Seaver wasn't missing much however, as the Cy Young Award winner of 1973 gave up one run in five innings.

Reds' starter Roger Nelson opened with three scoreless innings before allowing two runs in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Anderson's headache worsened in the eighth when the Mets pushed over four runs.

"The Mets always give you a headache," said Tony Perez to Anderson.

One of the few brights spots in the loss was the continued hitting streak by catcher Johnny Bench, who lifted his spring average to .500 with two hits. And shortstop Darrell Chaney snapped an 0-for-19 slump with three hits.

The Reds travel to Vero Beach today to face the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Cleveland now has two Perrys

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gaylord Perry is happy to have brother Jim Perry aboard as a fellow member of the Cleveland pitching staff, but he has no intention of relinquishing his status as the Indians' top gun.

"Brother or no brother, Jim will have to fight me for No. 1," Gaylord said after the Indians acquired Jim from the Detroit Tigers Tuesday in a three-way deal that also involved the New York Yankees.

The Tigers sent Jim Perry to Cleveland and pitcher Ed Farmer to New York. The Indians shipped outfielder Walt Williams and rookie pitcher Rich Sawyer to New York while the Yankees dealt catcher Jerry Moses to Detroit.

In other spring training swaps, the Chicago Cubs traded catcher Ken Rudolph to the San Francisco Giants for rookie pitcher Willie Prall and the Cincinnati Reds purchased first baseman-outfielder Terry Crowley from the Texas Rangers.

The three-way trade put the Perry brothers — both former Cy Young Award winners — on the same team for the first time since Jim, 37, was a junior and Gaylord, 35, was a freshman in high school at Williamston, N.C.

Meanwhile, Dave Duncan, who will be catching the Perry boys, celebrated by driving in four runs with a homer and double in the Indians' 8-6 exhibition victory over the Oakland A's. Cleveland pounded Rollie Fingers for six runs in the sixth inning and two in the seventh, offsetting Oakland homers by Vic Davalillo, Pat Bourque and Bert Campaneris.

Elsewhere on the exhibition trail, two-run homers by Richie Zisk and Willie Stargell powered the Pittsburgh Pirates past the Montreal Expos 4-1. In a rematch of last fall's National League playoff rivals, the New York Mets trounced the Cincinnati Reds 7-1 as rookie Bennie Ayala drove in three runs and Ted Martinez hit a two-run homer.

The New York Yankees pounded Luke Walker for three runs in the sixth inning and two in the ninth and beat their former manager Ralph Houk and his Detroit Tigers 6-2. The Minnesota Twins lost for the 12th time in 13 spring games, bowing to the Atlanta Braves 3-1 on rookie pitcher Jamie Easterly's three-run double.

Jim Barr hurled five shutout innings in the San Francisco Giants' 8-3 triumph over the San Diego Padres and Houston's Dave Roberts blanked the Kansas City Royals for six in the Astros' 4-1 victory.

Rookie Mike Reinbach's RBI double and a sacrifice fly by designated hitter Tommy Davis accounted for two eighth-inning runs that lifted the Baltimore Orioles past the Texas Rangers 6-5.

The St. Louis Cardinals used four unearned runs and Reggie Smith's homer to edge the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5. Ron Santo drove in two runs with a pair of doubles to lead the Chicago White Sox over the Boston Red Sox 8-4 and five California pitchers limited the Chicago Cubs to five hits and the Angels won 5-1.

Bucks beat Golden State

"I had a game plan, and it didn't work," the Warriors' young fill-in center said Tuesday night after Abdul-Jabbar scored 31 points in the Milwaukee Bucks' 111-100 National Basketball Association victory over Golden State.

"He's the best," added the 6-foot-11 Johnson, outclassed for the first time in his eight starting assignments since regular center Nate Thurmond was sidelined by a foot injury.

The Bucks clinched another Midwest Division crown with the victory, while the Warriors dropped into a virtual first place tie with Los Angeles in the tight Pacific Division race. Milwaukee is at Los Angeles tonight, Golden State at Seattle.

Elsewhere in the NBA Tuesday night, the Chicago Bulls whipped the Philadelphia 76ers 103-94, the Boston Celtics shaded the Houston Rockets 110-107 and the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Portland Trail Blazers 107-103.

In the only action in the American Basketball Association, the Utah Stars clinched first place in the West Division by trouncing the Memphis Tams 118-103.

Johnson said his game plan was "to run and try to get Kareem tired."

Instead, the kingpin of NBA centers seemed to have an almost leisurely time of it as he tossed in 13 of 20 field goal attempts, mostly hook shots, grabbed 10 rebounds and blocked four shots. Johnson was limited to four points but got 11 rebounds.

Small school launch tournament

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Class A coaches are optimistic about their team's chances in the 52nd Ohio High School Basketball Tournament except Charlie Huggins, the most feared mentor in the field.

"We have no talent," said Huggins about his Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South squad, the 1972 champion and the 1973 runnerup.

The Rebels, 20-4, will face 22-2 Lorain Clearview in the 9:30 nightcap Thursday as the small schools launch the three-day classic in Ohio State's St. John Arena.

Mount Blanchard Riverdale, 21-3, goes against Pitsburg Franklin-Monroe, 24-3, in the other Class A game at 7:30 p.m.

In Class AA, 24-0 Akron Manchester plays 19-6 Cincinnati McNicholas at 11 a.m. and Genoa, 22-1, faces Columbus Hartley, 19-5, at 2:30 p.m.

In Class AAA, defending champion Cincinnati Elder, 21-3, takes on Mount Vernon, 19-4, at 6 p.m. and No. 1 Canton McKinley, 24-0, plays Toledo Scott, 22-2, at 9:30 p.m.

The championship games all are Saturday.

Indian Valley South has been a remarkable team under Huggins this year. The Rebels had no regulars back from last year and are using a lineup with three players 5-foot-9 or shorter.

"We haven't been outrebounded yet," Huggins said of his Tuscarawas County team, "but we haven't faced any Larry Harrises either."

Harris, 6-7 Ohio Class A Player of the Year who averaged almost 30 points and 20 rebounds a game, leads Clearview.

"I think we have a good chance because of the schedule we played," said Lorain Coach Bob Walsh. "We played seven AAA teams and 10 in AA. The only A team we faced was Mansfield St. Peter's."

Franklin-Monroe, from Darke County, also has an All-Ohio player in two-time first team selection Mike Cross, a 6-4 senior with a 27-point average.

The Darke County team lost in the Dayton Regional finals last year to Marion Pleasant, the eventual small school state champion.

"We got beat by Pleasant in the last 15 seconds," Franklin-Monroe Coach Phil Dubbs recalled, "and we have three starters back from that team." His team whipped Pleasant 64-52 in a tournament rematch this year.

"Since it's our first trip," he said, "I don't know. But this is the kind of team that can handle the pressure. It's unemotional."

Baseball boosters urged to attend

There will be an organizational meeting for a Washington High School baseball boosters club Thursday evening at 7:30. The meeting will take place in the WSHS cafeteria.

Class A All-Ohio cagers named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Larry Harris, Lorain Clearview's all-stater in football and basketball, was selected today as The Associated Press Ohio Class A Basketball Player of the Year.

The 6-foot-7, 200-pound Harris, a senior who averaged 29.5 points, 20 rebounds and six blocked shots, also made the All-Ohio first team in football as an offensive end.

The Class A state coaching title went to Gary Vaughn of Fostoria St. Wendelin, who lost all of his regulars from a 17-3 team last year. Despite losing six of his first seven players, Vaughn molded a 16-2 record this season.

The selections were based strictly on regular season competition and were made on recommendations from a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Harris, sought by nearly all of the nation's major college basketball powers, made 60 per cent of his floor shots and 76 per cent of his free throws this season.

He was promoted from the second team in 1973.

Starring with Harris on the first unit were 6-4 Frank Monterosso of Cincinnati St. Bernard and 6-3½ Mike Cross of Pitsburg Franklin-Monroe.

The two high-scoring seniors were the only players to make the Class A first unit for the second straight campaign. Monterosso, who scored 70 points in one game, averaged 34.7 and Cross 27.0.

Dan Zarlingo, 6-4 Lowellville guard with a 25-point average, moved from the 1973 third team to the first team this season.

Also named to the first team were 6-7 Mark Haymore of Cleveland Lutheran East, with a 25.9-point average; 6-7 Tom Kramb of Greenwich South Central, 22.9; 6-2 Greg Dulkoski of Adena Buckeye West, 28.0, and 6-1 Scott Ballinger of Marion Pleasant, 19.1.

Ballinger also made the second team all-state in football last fall as a quarterback.

On the second team were Mark Swain of Mercerville Hannan Trace, Ron Austin of Granville, Bill Marks of Jewett-Scioto, Mick Shoemaker of Bainbridge Paint Valley, Greg Spitnale of Continental, Greg Givens of Mansfield St. Peter's Joe Ryan of Peebles, Charles Loewendick of Newark Catholic and Brian Hamsher of Sugarcreek Garaway.

Morgan State top small college team

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Nat Frazier of Morgan State will beat the bushes a little later this year in search of basketball talent, but he figures the delay will prove profitable.

Now when he goes recruiting, Frazier has a couple of new selling points to offer prospects.

The Bears last week won the National Collegiate Athletic Association's College Division tournament, and Tuesday they were voted the nation's No. 1 small college team in the final Associated Press poll.

Frazier was told of the balloting in New York, where he went to watch intrastate rival Maryland-Eastern Shore play Jacksonville in the quarterfinals of the National Invitation Tournament Tuesday night.

"Now if they can win the NIT, it would really be something," Frazier said in a telephone interview from the hotel room of John Bates, coach of Maryland-Eastern Shore. "It's too bad that Lefty lost."

He referred to Lefty Driesell, coach of the University of Maryland's fourth-ranked major college team, which dropped a 103-100 overtime decision to No. 1 North Carolina State in the Atlantic Coast Conference title game and failed to reach the NCAA playoffs.

Maryland-Eastern Shore, a predominantly black branch of the university, finished first in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics poll, and lost only to Morgan State prior to being invited to the NIT.

Morgan State, led by 7-foot Marvin "The Human Eraser" Webster, posted a 28-5 record this season. The Bears dropped two 15-point decisions to UMES, one in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference championship game.

In the final AP poll, Morgan received 23 first-place votes and finished with 636 points to easily outdistance runnerup West Georgia, the NAIA champion with a 29-4 record, which had eight first-place votes and 496 points.

Kentucky State, 28-5, won four of its five games last week and retained third place while Alcorn State — formerly Alcorn A&M — with a 29-6 log, jumped to fourth.

Fairmont State, 28-3 and last week's leader, slipped to fifth after splitting two games. Fairmont State and sixth-ranked Tennessee-Chattanooga, 21-5, were the only other schools to receive first-place votes.

Gardner-Webb, 25-3, slipped three notches to seventh after losing to West Georgia. Southwest Missouri, 21-9, Tennessee State, 22-6, and St. Mary's, Tex., 24-9, rounded out the Top Ten.

Assumption, 22-7, held No. 11, followed by Augustana, Kentucky Wesleyan, Old Dominion and New Orleans.

CARACAS (AP) — Heavyweight champion George Foreman and challenger Ken Norton were pronounced in perfect shape Tuesday but one of them won't be feeling so good after their March 26 title fight.

"I am fit and ready to whip Foreman," Norton said after he was examined by doctors at the Poliedro arena, where the fight will take place. "I'm sure of a victory because I have confidence in myself and I am mentally prepared."

Opening lead - queen of clubs.

It is desirable to have at least eight trumps in the combined hands to play a suit contract, but there are times when one must settle for less.

Consider this deal from a team of four match where, at the first table, South got to four hearts on a 4-3 fit. This contract proved to be satisfactory, even though declarer's trump margin over the defenders was only seven to six.

He won the queen of clubs lead with the ace and played a diamond to the queen. West took the king and led another club, the eight forcing the king, which declarer ruffed.

South ruffed a diamond in dummy and cashed the A-K-Q of trumps, leaving West with the one and only remaining trump, the ten. But West found himself powerless—despite his apparently commanding position—when declarer proceeded to run his diamonds. West ruffed the fifth round of diamonds, but then had to lead a spade to declarer's king and so hand South his tenth trick.

At the second table, South got to three notrump and went down one when he encountered superb defense. West led the four of spades, the unbid suit, covered by dummy with the six, and East made the fine play of the five, declarer winning the trick with the ten.

The non-appearance of the deuce or three made it clear to West that East's five was a come-on signal, so, when South entered dummy with a heart and tried a diamond finesse, West took the king and played the ace and another spade to put an end to declarer's hopes.

How a Doctor Diagnoses a Case

Many readers have expressed wonder how doctors without benefit of laboratory reports can come to a conclusion about a medical problem.

The art and science of medical diagnosis depends on special perceptive qualities acquired by training.

The general appearance of a patient, the color and texture of the skin, the clouding of the eyes, a spiritless expression, weakness in speech patterns, how a patient walks, are all meaningful in the preliminary pursuit of a diagnosis.

The stethoscope reveals the regularity of the heart, the presence or absence of murmurs, and the clear breath sounds of the normal lungs.

These and similar findings make up the clinical judgment that is so often referred to in these columns. A physician comes to a tentative conclusion and then proceeds to verify it.

There are some general classifications of diseases that categorize most illnesses.

Infections caused by bacteria, viruses, and molds are always considered. Allergy to food, drugs, inhalants and contactants is a major cause of many body disorders.

Tumors are carefully inspected and suspicious ones that suggest cancer are further investigated.

Degenerative changes due to advancing age, with narrowing of the blood vessels and weakening of the muscles and joints, are of special diagnostic importance in the doctor's office.

It is firmly established that the emotions are vitally involved in every phase of the body, in health and disease.

In this frenetic, highly geared civilization it is virtually impossible to practice medicine without a constant awareness of the close interplay between the emotions and all physical illness.

The practice of medicine is, indeed, an artistic endeavor. In this age of specialization, the family physician is still the bulwark of the nation's health.

TO LO LI RE MA KI

Missy Krieger, president, opened the To Lo Li Re Ma Ki Camp Fire meeting with the Sign of the Fire. Sharon Ingram, treasurer, called the roll and collected dues. Each girl answered with her Indian name.

We made plans to attend church this Sunday for Birthday Week. We also talked more about Birthday Week, and discussed the annual trip and ways to earn money to help pay the cost of the trip.

BUSY BEES 4-H

Lana McCoy opened the Busy Bee 4-H Club meeting with the 4-H Pledge. Terri Vermillion, vice president, conducted the meeting and reports were given.

Mrs. Campbell appointed committees: Constitution, Julie Blake and Lana McCoy; program, Terri Vermillion, Jenny Martin and Becky Merriman; Mother's Tea, Julia Blake, Rita Berwanger, Jill Dorn, and Kim Bryant.

Plans for the Mother's Tea were discussed and it will be May 14 at the Landmark Building.

BEST FRIENDS 4-H

This year the Best Friends 4-H Club has a Pilot Dog project. Lu Brown is taking Heidi, a black Labrado retriever, through basic training to prepare her for her role as a "Seeing-Eye" dog.

At the regular club meeting Thursday, Lu talked about the project and the requirements for it. The trainer keeps the dog for about 11 months when it completes training. Only one of six dogs trained for the work passes the final test. If the dog doesn't pass the test, the person who kept it gets the dog back.

Gary Cobb, president, read the club constitution and appointed Kevin Persinger, Leora Burdge, and Jeff Harper to make amendments. The committee reported several changes and amendments and the new constitution was accepted.

At the next meeting Mrs. Elmer Haymaker, an area dog groomer, will speak on the "Care and Grooming."

Club membership has now reached 13 and membership is closed.

All members are urged to attend the next meeting to be held in the home of Jana Hanawalt, so they may sign the new constitution.

Lu Brown and Jana Hanawalt served refreshments.

Burglary case nears jury

A jury of seven women and five men were expected to receive a major burglary case for deliberation later Wednesday following nearly three days of testimony in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Final arguments by attorneys were heard Wednesday morning by the 12-member panel in the trial involving two Kettering brothers who were captured following a burglary at Craig's Department Store, 131 E. Court St., on Jan. 8.

David D. Caraway, 29, and Larry S. Caraway, 29, are charged on numerous counts in connection with the store burglary in which more than $2,000 worth of merchandise was stolen.

An agent from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, London, was called as a rebuttal witness during Wednesday morning's court session before Judge Evelyn W. Coffman.

The prosecution, headed by James A. Kiger, county prosecuting attorney and his assistant, John H. Roszmann, called seven witnesses before resting their case late Tuesday afternoon.

Called by the prosecutors were Specialist Larry Hott, Dispatcher Mike Taylor, Sgt. Luther Anderson and Sgt. Robert Massie, all of the Washington C.H. Police Department, Merrill Kaufman, owner of Craig's, and store manager Ray Downing and the BCI agent.

Defense attorney Dennis Ulrich, who was appointed to the case by the court, called one of the Caraway brothers as a witness before court was recessed shortly before 4 p.m. Tuesday. Caraway was the lone witness called by Ulrich.

Court News

YOUTH SENTENCED

A Washington C.H. youth has received a suspended jail sentence following a hearing in Fayette County Probate-Juvenile Court in which he was charged with contributing toward the delinquency of a 13-year-old girl.

Judge Rollo M. Marchant sentenced Mike Grieves, 18, of 524 Third St., to a six-month term in the Fayette County jail, but the term was suspended on condition he not associate with any female under age 18 without the expressed consent of her parents.

UNRULY CHILD

A 15-year-old Washington C.H. girl has been adjudged to be an unruly child by being habitually truant from school.

Juvenile Judge Rollo M. Marchant ordered the girl to attend school daily, unless a physician's excuse is presented, and to report to the guidance counselor each day.

The judge also said each parent will be required to do all that is necessary to see that the child attends school daily, by awakening the child at 7 a.m. and "leading her to school by the hand if necessary."

DIVORCE GRANTED

Juanita Shadley, 1228 Grace St., has been granted a divorce in Common Pleas Court from James W. Shadley on grounds of neglect of duty. The plaintiff was granted occupancy of the residence, support and other relief.

Quadruplet calves

BURLEY, Idaho (AP) — The odds were 748,855 to 1, says a veterinarian, but a cow on O.M. "Bud" Johnson's ranch gave birth to quadruplets.

The four young calves, all identical heifers, were reported in good health.

Traffic Court

Nine persons were scheduled to appear in Municipal Court Tuesday on traffic charges. They included a Washington C.H. man charged with driving while intoxicated.

Pearl L. Bennett, 48, of 422 Lewis St., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $200 by acting Judge John P. Case. The judge sentenced him to 30 days in jail, of which 27 were suspended, and suspended his operator's license for 30 days. Bennett was also fined $25 for running a red light.

Other cases were:

POLICE

Fined:

Police check on break-ins

City police received two reports of illegal entry Tuesday while sheriff's deputies were investigating a report of vandalism.

Jeffrey Roe, 1125 E. Paint St., advised police that sometime between Sunday afternoon and Tuesday afternoon a person or persons had broken into a workshop behind his home and stolen a set of wrenches and screwdrivers.

Dr. J.A. McCoy, 630 W. Oakland, reported that someone had broken into a building which was used as a garage and warehouse, on the corner of Cherry and Sycamore streets. The structure was ransacked, but apparently nothing was taken.

Donald Morrow, Jeffersonville, reported to sheriff's deputies at 9 p.m. Tuesday that someone had thrown a large marble at his home, breaking a storm door window.

Nuns operate bar

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A community of nuns is managing Ireland's newest bar. It's also the country's first bar in a hospital.

"Medically, I think it is a good thing to have a bar in the house," said Sister Theophane Collins, the spiritual director of the new 150-bed hospital near Newmarket-on-Fergus, in County Clare.

Vol. 116 — No. 83 | 18 Pages | Washington Court House, Ohio | 15 Cents | Wednesday, March 20, 1974

U.S. gas shortage continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American motorist will continue to face a gasoline shortage and he'll pay higher prices for the fuel, despite the end of the Arab oil embargo, President Nixon and his energy chief have said.

Nixon, opening a news conference with the National Association of Broadcasters in Houston Tuesday night, said, "We still have an anticipated shortage of perhaps 5 to 8 per cent in the United States."

Earlier, federal energy chief William E. Simon told newsmen here, "Gasoline is going to cost more and so is heating oil."

A shortage such as that mentioned by Nixon means Americans would have about the same gasoline supply as during the first week of March, when long lines at gasoline stations seemed to vanish suddenly. A 5 to 8 per cent shortage would be a great improvement over the 14 to 20 per cent shortages of February, when motorists waited in line for hours.

The return of Arab oil, Nixon said, would not close the gap completely, although he said it would rule out rationing and mean the end of the Sunday ban on gasoline sales.

"... It will be necessary to continue our voluntary program of car-pooling and also of slower driving," Nixon said of the anticipated shortage.

Simon had explained earlier in the day that as the higherpriced Arab oil returns to the U.S. market, it will raise the average U.S. cost of oil, creating increases in fuel prices to the consumer.

Neither Simon nor Nixon estimated the extent of the price impact but Simon's deputy, John C. Sawhill, has guessed the price of gasoline could hit 70 to 80 cents per gallon at the pump this summer.

Energy officials hope these high prices will at least take the sting out of the remaining shortage by causing motorists to voluntarily reduce their gasoline use.

Simon and Nixon also said that energy problems, in general, would not disappear with the shipments of Arab oil.

The mandatory federal petroleum allocation program would continue, but industry and agriculture would be able to operate "at full capacity," Nixon said.

Senate divided on Nixon future

In The Associated Press poll, taken hours before the President vowed again that he will not resign, 33 senators declined to take a position and 11 others could not be contacted.

Buckley, a New York Republican who was elected as a Conservative party candidate, and who strongly supports Nixon's policies, said Tuesday that Nixon's resignation would be the only way "out of the Watergate swamp."

He said Nixon's resignation would at once serve "the greater interests of the nation, the institution of the presidency and the stated goals for which he so successfully campaigned."

Buckley said that Watergate has created an unparalleled national crisis that impeachment can never resolve. "If the President withdrew this crisis would be resolved," Buckley said.

Nixon replied that, while the senator had suggested resignation would be an act of courage, "it also takes courage to stand and fight for what you think is right, and that is what I intend to do."

Nixon also argued against the senator's claim that it would be an act of statesmanship, declaring, "It would be bad statesmanship, and it would mean that our system of government would be changed for all presidents and all generations in the future."

After Nixon's appearance, Buckley said he "would have been stunned" if the President had heeded his call for resignation so soon after it was made. "I did not expect that anything I said today would have an immediate effect anywhere."

Buckley said he had received some support and some opposition in private talks with fellow GOP conservatives.

However, three of them, Sens. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Jesse Helms of North Carolina and Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, publicly opposed Buckley's resignation call.

Impeachment panel split over request

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House request to let President Nixon's lawyer take part in House Judiciary Committee impeachment proceedings is cracking the committee's bipartisan approach.

Republican members generally support the request of White House lawyer James D. St. Clair. The Democrats view it as an attempt to turn the impeachment investigation into a normal court proceeding.

The split, which could have a far-reaching effect on the committee's final recommendation, surfaced Tuesday at separate party caucuses of committee members.

No final decisions were reached at either meeting, but party positions clearly appeared in the making on the legal point.

St. Clair has sent two letters to John Doar, the committee's special counsel for impeachment, asking for the right to cross-examine witnesses, present evidence and otherwise participate in the investigation as counsel for the President.

Such actions by defense counsel are normal in ordinary court proceedings, which are conducted on an adversary basis. But Doar, chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., and most Democratic members insist impeachment cannot be equated with normal judicial practices.

"There is no other side in this matter," Doar told the committee a few weeks ago when asked what rights St. Clair would have in the proceedings as defense counsel.

The committee investigation is to determine whether grounds exist for impeaching Nixon. If impeachment is voted by the House Nixon would be tried by the Senate where he would have right to counsel.

Democrats emerging from their meeting Tuesday expressed strong support for Doar's position. "This is not an adversary proceeding," said Rodino.

But the Republicans, on leaving their meeting, said there are precedents for permitting the subjects of impeachment to be represented either in person or by counsel at proceedings of impeachment panels.

Oil industry faces minor tax boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has voted to impose a relatively light new tax bite on the petroleum industry for the immediate future.

The tax-writing panel, climaxing a marathon meeting Tuesday night, tentatively agreed to impose a new windfall profits levy. But the proposal would raise virtually no additional revenue from American oilmen who would be exempt from the provision if they pump their energy crisis-generated profits back into the hunt for new energy sources.

The committee also gave temporary approval to a partial phase-out of the petroleum industry's 22 per cent depletion allowance. The allowance is worth about $2 billion annually to petroleum companies.

This phase-out plan is expected to bring in about $150 million next year, when it would take effect. However, by 1981, if fully effective, it could raise some $2.8 billion.

Under the current allowance, 22 per cent of gross income from oil and natural gas property can be deducted from taxable income up to a top of 50 per cent of taxable net income.

The committee also tentatively agreed to several changes in the tax treatment of domestic petroleum company income earned abroad, but these also are expected to yield relatively little new revenue.

The committee decided to use a sliding scale, based on rising oil prices, to phase out the depletion allowance over five years — but agreed that the allowance could not drop below 15 per cent for the first 3,000 barrels of oil daily per producer.

Following that five-year period, however, the allowance could disappear when 75 per cent of all oil is not eligible for the allowance over a year's time.

The committee essentially went along with the administration's proposal for a windfall profits tax.

But the committee then added its so-called plowback feature, by which oilmen could escape paying this levy if they plow back their profits into exploration and development of new energy sources.

Rebozo subpoenaed for campaign payment testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, President Nixon's closest friend, was interrogated under oath by the Senate Watergate committee today about a campaign contribution from Howard Hughes.

The story includes allegations that one consideration may have been the favorable resolution of federal antitrust action aimed at Hughes' Las Vegas gambling and hotel interests.

Its most recent chapter was the dumping of $100,000 in old $100 bills on a committee table by a Hughes emmissary.

Sources have said the committee has learned that the idea of a Hughes contribution first arose during the 1968 presidential campaign at a luncheon conversation between Nixon, Rebozo and Richard Danner, later to become manager of the Hughes-owned Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas.

According to Danner's testimony, the money was not immediately forthcoming.

A $50,000 payment is said to have been made in 1969 or 1970.

A second $50,000 installment allegedly was made in 1970.

In addition, an independent government regulatory agency is said to have evidence that a third $50,000 payment may have been made.

The timing of the payments is considered crucial by investigators because some of the dates on which the money may have been turned over to Rebozo coincide with negotiations between Danner and then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell concerning the antitrust implications of Hughes' effort to buy the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas.

Rebozo earlier told the committee that all of the money remained in a safe untouched for three years and was not used in the 1972 campaign for fear subsequent controversy and turmoil inside the Hughes empire might embarrass the President.

The money was returned by Rebozo to a Hughes representative in the summer of 1973, allegedly after Rebozo took Danner to the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., to talk with Nixon. The White House has said the money was not mentioned at the meeting.

Rebozo has said the only person he ever told about the $100,000 was Rose Mary Woods, the President's personal secretary.

Miss Woods is scheduled to testify under oath about the matter Friday.

Urge change in Miranda court ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is urging the Supreme Court to permit use of some evidence gathered from suspects who have not been fully advised of their rights.

The issue, to be argued before the justices today, involves a facet of the court's controversial 1966 Miranda decision requiring police to inform suspects of their right to remain silent and their right to a lawyer, without cost if necessary.

But if police are led to evidence by those statements, it should be used, the administration has argued in a friend-of-the-court brief submitted by U.S. Solicitor General Robert H. Bork.

Today's argument comes in a case from Michigan in which the state is trying to preserve the 1966 rape conviction of Thomas W. Tucker.

When arrested, Tucker was advised of his rights to silence and counsel but not of the availability of free legal help.

Tucker denied the rape, saying that he was with an acquaintance at the time it occurred. The acquaintance not only failed to support the alibi but offered damaging testimony for the prosecution.

Lower federal courts voided Tucker's conviction. Police found their witness only through Tucker's statement and therefore the testimony should be excluded, the courts ruled.

Bork's brief argued that neither the Constitution's protection against self-incrimination nor the need to guard against "third degree" interrogations by police require such a stringent rule of exclusion.

Instead, Bork urged adoption of an "intermediate rule" that would ban use of statements made by those not fully advised of their rights while allowing prosecutors to use otherwise legitimate evidence stemming from those statements.

Draft lottery held today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men born Feb. 28 drew No. 1 in today's draft lottery for the nearly two million young men born in 1955.

The prime number was not picked out of the plastics drums holding the numbers until the standby lottery was almost completed.

Before that the young students had picked Jan. 5 as the No. 2, Feb. 16 as No. 3, Sept. 24 as No. 4, June 27 as No. 5, March 13 as No. 6, March 6 as No. 7, March 24 as No. 8, and Oct. 22 as No. 9.

About two-thirds of the way through the drawing the highest number, 365, was assigned to April 29.

The lottery was being held as usual in case it becomes necessary to resume inducting Americans into the Armed forces.

In remarks prepared for the second annual standby lottery to assign the numbers, John D. Dewhurst, deputy director of Selective Service said the purpose is "insurance — plain and simple."

Dewhurst, substituting for draft Director Byron V. Pepitone, who underwent heart surgery Friday, noted that no one had been drafted for 18 months as the military was being transformed into an all-volunteer force.

Death claims Chet Huntley

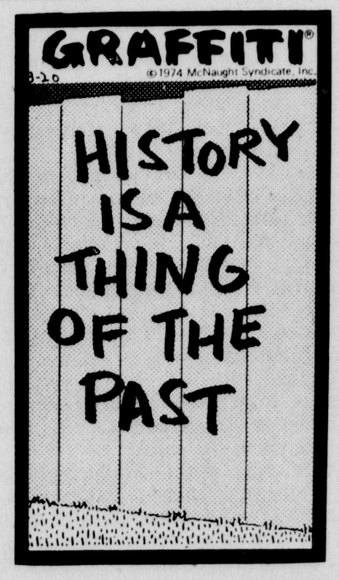
BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Former television newscaster Chet Huntley, who teamed with David Brinkley for 14 years on NBC-TV's nightly Huntley-Brinkley Report, died today.

Huntley, 62, had been suffering from abdominal cancer.

His widow, Tippy Huntley, said he died at 2:20 a.m.

He had been undergoing periodic treatment and underwent surgery in January.

Huntley resigned from NBC in 1970 to develop Big Sky Inc. of Montana, a massive resort and ski complex in the Gallatin Canyon southwest of Bozeman.



Major changes approved in Ohio probate court laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State representatives turn their attention to campaign financing reforms today following their approval Tuesday of a major bill changing Ohio's probate court laws.

The House scheduled a 1:30 p.m. vote on a bill that sets limits on amounts candidates may spend seeking public office and establishes an Ohio Elections Commission to serve as a watchdog for potential campaign abuses.

In other business, a second attempt is expected—in as many days— to spring the socalled "Saturday night special" gun control bill out of the House Rules Committee.

The main sponsor, Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, said his measure failed to get out of the committee for assignment to a floor vote Tuesday by a single vote. "There was one absentee, and he's going to vote for it," Galbraith said.

The Lucas County lawmaker's bill would outlaw the manufacture and sale of cheap handguns defined in the legislation as those which warp or melt at 800 degrees Fahrenheit. Expert testimony given the House Judiciary Committee said the definition would cover most easily obtainable weapons that sell for about $20 or $25.

Galbraith's bill is seen as a compromise between those who tried unsuccessfully to get an outright ban of pistols placed on a statewide ballot along with sportsmen and others concerned about their rights.

Judiciary Chairman Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, won 91-0 House approval of the probate bill which goes mostly to the area of inheritances by a spouse or close relative of a deceased person.

He said the measure, which now goes to the Senate, increases the rights and benefits of surviving spouses and eliminates certain complicated legal requirements. Wilkowski called present laws "archaic."

Although the bill makes more than 100 changes in the existing statutes, some of its major provisions would:

—Assure a spouse of the first $10,000 of an estate plus a $5,000 allowance, in cases where no will was left. Present law requires the spouse to share 50-50 if there is one child or to collect one-third if there was more than one child.

—Provide that a decedent's automobile could be turned over without being considered part of the estate for taxation purposes.

—Allow a "mansion house," or homestead, and one acre of ground to be turned over to a spouse with only one-half interest being subject to the estate tax.

—Permit non-residents to serve as administrators and executors.

—Allow a surviving spouse to receive immediately any wages or income due the decedent up to $1,000. The present limit is $300, accompanied by a 30-day waiting period.

—Permit waiver of appraisals if an asset's value is "readily attainable."

In other business, the House approved and sent to the Senate bills permitting speed limits on municipal streets outside downtown areas to be lowered from 35 to 25 miles an hour, defining the southern shore line of Lake Erie, and requiring the state to share with local governments the cost of primary and special elections called by the state in non-election years.

Rep. Barney Quilter, D-47 Toledo, won 55-21 approval of the Lake Erie bill after explaining that the state needs to define "where the lake ends and the river begins." He said lake waters that "intrude" into rivers and streams flowing into the lake would set a boundary at the furthermost point of their intrusion, under the bill.

The Senate passed two bills but the major action of the day was in the Senate Ways and Means Committee, which recommended confirmation of

It killed, however, a bill that would have changed the site of the lottery headquarters from Cleveland to Columbus. The site was picked by the commission on a 3-2 vote.

Ways and Means Chairman Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, said he disagreed with the commission's choice but noted the General Assembly had given it authority to select a site.

"If this bill is to move," he said of the measure authored by Sens. Donald Woodland and Robert O'Shaughnessy, both of Columbus, "it will set a precedent for someone who disagrees with any organization charged to make a decision."

Reps. Joan Douglass, R-61 Mansfield, and Harry Turner, R-76 Mount Vernon, introduced a bill in the House that would make Mansfield the lottery headquarters.

Rep. Arthur Bowers, D-98 Steubenville, also put in a House bill to earmark the lottery revenues for school construction. They are scheduled to go into the state's general funds.

The Senate passed two bills by 31-0 votes. Both now go to the House.

One would allow county boards of education to be their own fiscal officers and hire their own clerk. The other would permit Ohio University to give back to Belmont County a building and land it used for a branch until it constructed its own.

Stevenson big winner in primary

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson has won nomination to another term and Gov. Daniel Walker claims victory in an intraparty squabble with Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Five incumbent congressmen who faced primary challenges in Tuesday's voting won renomination.

Stevenson, a Democrat who was elected in 1970 to fill the unexpired term of the late Republican Everett M. Dirksen, piled up a 4-to-1 margin in defeating W. Dakin Williams, a brother of playwright Tennessee Williams.

With 8,595 of 11,312 precincts counted, Stevenson had 658,302 votes to 143,760 for Williams.

George Burditt, a lawyer and businessman, captured the Republican nomination easily and will challenge Stevenson in November.

Burditt defeated Lar Daly, a Chicago furniture upholsterer and perennial candidate who has been unsuccessful in 42 tries for public office, ranging from the presidency down.

With 8,579 precincts counted, Burditt had 271,848 votes to 52,767 for Daly.

Only a third of the state's more than five million registered voters turned out Tuesday — about normal for an off-year primary.

There was no solid evidence that Watergate or political corruption at the local level caused voter apathy, but the Democrats appeared to take more interest than Republicans.

There were several state legislative races billed as skirmishes in the reported battle between Walker and Daley for control of the Democratic party in the state legislature.

Walker told newsmen, "I count it as a victory. A majority of the people I endorsed won."

Many Daley candidates also won, but the mayor delivered his usual election night unity message.

"We didn't teach anyone a lesson. The primary is the time to differ. Now we are all Democrats."

The girls received the awards Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church. They are members of the Horizon Club. Sally Robinson was absent when the picture was taken.

Annual CF Potlatch held in Mahan Hall

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Kitten Anderson and the invocation was given by Nancy Clemmens for the annual Camp Fire Potlatch held in the Mahan Building Tuesday evening. There were approximately 375 present. Tables were centered with appropriate camp scenes.

Mrs. Pattiann Zinn, program chairman, introduced Mr. Frank Sanderson, president of the Paint Valley Council of CF Girls, who in turn introduced board members. Mrs. Ralph Tate introduced the leaders and assistants.

Mrs. Gerald Wheat, Horizon Club leader, was in charge of the program. The five Horizon Club members, who were given recognition on Sunday at First Presbyterian Church, were Jayne Marchant, Sally Robinson, Marilyn Seifried, Susan Stolsenberg and Becky Wheat. They received the God and Community Award for completing a year of study and service to the church. Each girl gave 90 hours of service.

Mrs. Wheat gave the first point of the Camp Fire Law which is to "Worship God." Girls are encouraged to learn more about her own faith and the faith of others. To "seek beauty" was the second point stressed, and all joined to sing "White Choral Bells" and "Let Us Sing Together."

The third point stressed by Mrs. Wheat was to "give service!" All girls were recognized for having participated in the Heart Balloon sale, Muscular Dystrophy Carnival, Community Chest group work and care of the Old Cemetery.

"Be trustworthy" was exemplified by a skit entitled "The Lamp Went Out". Teri Cox, Crista Creamer, Kathy Ginn and Marilyn Seifried took part.

"Hold on to Health" was the title of a skit done by Becky Wheat and Sandy Harris. To "Glorify Work" was stressed when all joined in for the singing of "I've Been Working the Railroad." To "Be Happy" was the theme for the evening.

The program was concluded with the Adventure, Camp Fire and Horizon Club girls leading the singing.

Judge nixes television talk by inmates in Hearst kidnap

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — Randolph A. Hearst says he's disappointed that two accused murderers have been denied permission to read for television a statement they claim could help free his kidnaped daughter.

Contra Costa County Superior Court Judge Sam Hall ruled Tuesday that a television appearance by alleged Symbionese Liberation Army "soldiers" Joseph Remiro and Russell Little could hurt their chances for a fair trial.

After learning of the ruling, Hearst said, "I don't see how any statement that might possibly bring about the release of our daughter could keep the defendants from getting a fair trial."

Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, promised further comment today on Judge Hall's ruling.

In turning down the request, Hall said, "If I agreed to this motion I would create an atmosphere that would result in the possibility of these men not receiving a fair trial in any part of this state and possibly the nation."

In nearby Oakland, where Little and Remiro are charged with the Nov. 6 cyanide-bullet assassination of Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster, Municipal Court Judge Stafford Buckley is scheduled to rule today on the television proposal.

It was unclear what the effect of a positive ruling by Buckley would be since the consent of both judges is required because Little and Remiro face charges in both Contra Costa and Alameda counties.

Defense attorneys had said either Little or Remiro wanted to make a 5-to-10-minute statement before a lone cameraman and reporter in a courtroom with no questions permitted.

Meanwhile, organizers of Hearst's $2 million People In Need food giveaway promised a new progress report on efforts to revamp the program to meet SLA demands that high quality food be given to California's needy as a prerequisite to negotiations for Miss Hearst's release.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — President Nixon says he believes the United States and its European allies will "work out the differences that we have in the economic and political fields."

Nixon's tone at his Tuesday night news conference was more conciliatory than his warning last Friday that transAtlantic cooperation "is not a one-way street."

The President said he would continue to oppose unilateral U.S. troop cutbacks in Europe, which he had posed as a possible threat during his Friday appearance in Chicago.

Speaking at a convention of the National Association of Broadcasters, Nixon also made an indirect appeal for Soviet help in settling tensions in the Middle East.

"There cannot be permanent peace in the Middle East if the Soviet Union is against it," the President said.

Earlier Tuesday, it was announced in Washington that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will reopen his drive for a military disengagement between Israel and Syria March 29 in Washington.

The American secretary plans to deal with the Syrians separately later in trying to bridge the "very wide gap" that U.S. officials say divides the October war foes on how much captured territory Israel should yield in the Golan Heights.

At the news conference, Nixon said the United States will remain Israel's friend but that he believes "it is much better to have the United States as a friend of Israel's neighbors and thereby able to influence and perhaps restrain their policies."

Nixon said he is optimistic the Arab oil embargo will not be renewed, even though the Arabs said they would review June 1 their decision to lift the embargo.

On the U.S.-European cooperation issue, Nixon said he was happy with the initial response of French officials to his criticism of lack of progress in adopting a common set of economic and political principles with the United States.

No charges in shooting

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Police said Tuesday no charges will be filed in an unusual carramming and shooting incident on Interstate 75 in downtown Dayton.

They said the Monday incident began when James Burchett, 28, of Dayton suffered a seizure and his auto began ramming the rear of a car driven by Donald Rosenberger of Flint, Mich.

Rosenberger then pulled out a gun and fired four shots through the left side of Burchett's car, wounding the man in the neck and shoulder, police said.

Officers said Burchett told them he had no recollection of the incident.

President takes press under fire

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Declaring he has a right to self-defense, President Nixon has told newsmen he will be just as fair with them as they are with him.

In a question-and-answer session at the National Association of Broadcasters convention Tuesday night, Nixon sparred with reporters and aimed barbed comments at the media — and drew applause from his audience.

One of those he exchanged quips with was CBS White House correspondent Dan Rather, who drew a mixture of applause and boos when he stepped to a microphone to ask a question.

"Are you running for something?" Nixon asked Rather.

"No sir, Mr. President," Rather replied. "Are you?"

Rather has had verbal exchanges with Nixon in the past.

Earlier, Nixon used a question from another newsman to take a jab at the networks. He was asked why polls showed a majority of Americans believed there was a recession, when Nixon has declared there will be no recession.

The President replied: "Because 80 per cent of the people listen to television and radio."

Nixon called the news conference "a very useful medium through which the president can convey his views to the American people." And he said he would be having "a considerable number of meetings with the press" in Washington and elsewhere in the future.

White House aides were delighted with the prime time nationally televised and broadcast session from a Houston opera house.

"It went well," said one adviser. "We thought the questions covered a wide range of subjects, and the responses were good."

The White House allowed the NAB to decide who would question Nixon and how. The organization settled on a group of radio and television news directors and a sprinkling of White House correspondents.

A preliminary hearing scheduled in Municipal Court Tuesday was postponed due to the emotional condition of the prosecuting witnesses.

Hearing for Elmer Thomas, 83, of 513 Fourth St., who is charged with five counts of sexual violations involving three Washington C.H. girls, was postponed until 3:30 p.m. Wednesday. Thomas was arrested Friday by city police.

The girls, ages 11, 10 and 7, had never been to a courtroom and became upset by the bustle of the court while they were waiting for the hearing to begin. Numerous other cases had been scheduled Tuesday and the courtroom was packed.

Even though acting Municipal Judge John P. Case cleared the court prior to the beginning of the hearing, the girls could not be quieted.

Only a few cases are scheduled for Wednesday and the courtroom should be empty prior to the hearing.

Booth sees Nixon out before 1977

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Odds are less than 50-50 that President Nixon will complete his second term in office, the president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States says.

Arch Booth offered the forecast Tuesday, the day before the annual meeting of the Ohio State Chamber of Commerce. Booth was the scheduled keynote speaker.

Booth said the chances President Nixon will resign or be impeached appear to be growing daily. But he said he's against such a move—unless Nixon is guilty of criminal offense.

Resignation, in particular, would "weaken our government," he declared. Instead, constitutional procedures for the removal of the President should be followed.

Booth added he presumes the President is innocent, until proven guilty.

The chamber, meeting in a business session, elected 14 new members to its board of directors and re-elected 25 others.

Stock list at stand still

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.68 at 871.25, but losers led gainers by a small margin in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said Wall Street was welcoming President Nixon's announcement Tuesday night of increased fuel allocations. However, they said, the enthusiasm was dampened by a quarterpoint increase in the prime lending rate posted by New York's Bankers Trust.

A 100-000-share block trade at 10 helped push CNA Financial down ⅝ at 9⅞, to the top of the Big Board's most-active list.

Spring comes to Ohio officially at 8:07 p.m. Wednesday accompanied by increasing cloudiness as a low pressure approaches the lower Appalachian area.

Cloudy to partly cloudy skies are to prevail during the day and afternoon temperatures will rise only into the 30s and 40s.

Rain will move into the Ohio Valley Thursday and some rain or snow will fall in the central counties with some snow in the north. Afternoon temperatures Thursday will continue chilly and climb only into the 30s and 40s.

The National Weather Service predicted winter will continued to grip the state for the next couple of days with daytime highs in the 30s and night time lows in the upper teens and the lower 20s.

Snow flurries are forecast Friday and Saturday. Sunday will be fair. Highs through the period will be in the 30s and lows in the upper teens and 20s.

Snow falls on final day of winter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow and freezing temperatures rolled over the central Rockies and adjacent Plains today, the last day of winter.

Spring begins at 8:07 p.m. EDT, but the message was misplaced in Lander, Wyo., where 4 inches of snow covered the ground. Valentine and Scottsbluff, Neb., both measured 2 inches of snow.

Heavy-snow warnings were posted for the mountains of Colorado and Wyoming and for northeastern Colorado.

Stockmen's advisories were issued for the central high Plains because of snow and cold winds. Winds gusting to 40 miles per hour lashed Rapid City, S.D., before dawn.

Thundershowers spread from the lower Mississippi Valley to the southern Appalachians with more than an inch at Greenwood and Columbus, Miss., and Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Kidnaping attempt bungled

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A gunman forced himself into a Decatur residence in an apparent kidnap attempt, only to find out he had the wrong victim, police have disclosed.

Police and FBI agents said Tuesday they were looking for a man who appeared Monday at the home of John H. Burns, a Decatur businessman. They said the man, who identified himself as a pottery salesman, produced a gun when Mrs. Burns appeared at the door and forced his way into the home. Burns was at work at the time.

The man thought he was in the home of Charles Huthmacher, an attorney and trust officer at Citizens National Bank of Decatur, police said.

The intruder phoned Huthmacher at the bank and told him he was holding Huthmacher's wife and would kill her unless Huthmacher paid him $35,000, police said.

Huthmacher contacted police and together they went to the Huthmacher home, where they found that everything was all right.

Ministerial Society to convene Thursday

The Fayette County Ministerial Association will meet at 8:45 a.m. Thursday at Grace United Methodist Church.

The ministers will make plans for the interdenominational community Good Friday services to be held from 12 until 3 p.m. at Grace Church.

The group will also discuss the variety of meanings which are often associated with some common religious terms such as God, Holy Spirit, prophet, prayer and others.

Card Of Thanks

I would like to thank the nurses, and aides on the 400 Wing at Fayette Memorial Hospital, Dr. Herbert, Dr. Hancock, Dr. Roszmann, Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home and all my family, friends and neighbors for the gifts, flowers, cards, food, calls and for their help and kindness while I was a patient in the hospital.

Radiation safeguards

The problem of nuclear radiation is an insistent one that keeps cropping up despite a common inclination to just let well enough alone and hope for the best. The problem is not going to go away. It will become steadily more pressing as nuclear energy use grows.

Nor are nuclear power plants and their wastes the only source of this difficulty. The Atomic Energy Commission and the congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy are concerned, for example, with possible radiation danger at abandoned uranium mills in Western states.

Some of these are remote, not likely to cause problems in the foreseeable future. Some are in developing areas, and thus a potential hazard to people. The AEC's assistant general manager for environmental research and safety, Dr. James L. Liverman, told the Joint Committee recently that the uranium dump at one site in Utah is in one of the Rocky Mountain region's fastest growing residential areas.

At the same hearing an Environmental Protection Agency official testified that cancer and adverse genetic effects may be caused by exposure to gamma radiation. He noted that at the Utah site tests in buildings near the dump show gamma radiation up to 10 times higher than normal background radiation.

This testimony suggests the wisdom of great care in dealing with such mill wastes. The Joint Committee is considering legislation with this purpose. The AEC sensibly recommends waiting until the agency has completed a study of how best to eliminate radiation danger at such sites. We believe this should be done. The radiation problem demands a thoroughgoing solution which takes all relevant factors into consideration.

THESE DAYS. . .by John Chamberlain

Saving energy from the gabfest

We are certainly long on talk. President Nixon wants us to be self-sufficient for energy by the 1980s, but if it is left to government to do the job, it won't be done.

We are in the talk stage at the moment, with our policymakers busy mounting their steeds and riding off in all directions. Some want an oil-tariff wall to force the exploitation of more costly domestic fuel resources.

Others advocate an "oil bank," to be replenished from time to time whenever the international price dips.

Then there are the subsidy advocates who would shell out some $100 billion over a 14-year period to support shale oil and coal gasification technology.

The significant thing about the gabfest is that nobody trusts the market to bring about self-sufficiency if and when it is needed. We try, vainly, to allocate by "need," not by letting the price mechanism do the job.

Meanwhile, the West Europeans, who have had their fill of government interference with the market, have decided to let free pricing take over. Result: in West Germany the "crisis" has disappeared. In other countires Sunday driving is once more permitted.

EUROPEAN PRICES for gasoline are, of course, horrendous by older American standards — the West Germans now pay at a $1.30 a gallon rate. But the high cost of importing fuel is forcing a better use of native West German coal resources.

An Essen firm is about to construct a 3,200-megawatt coal-fired power plant for the city of Dorsten in the coal-mining Ruhr that will be the "most-advanced. . . in the world — including absence of smoke, soot and sulfurous emissions."

Wherever economics forces it, the movement away from paying the Middle East sheiks their price for oil gathers quick momentum. South Africa boasts the "only oil-from-coal project in the world that is operating profitably." It is Sasol (South African Coal, Oil and Gas Corp).

Sasol has been in the business of making natural gas from coal since 1955. Recently its petroleum production has had a spectacular increase, reaching a total capacity of 218 million gallons a year. The by-products in fertilizers, plastics, detergents and industrial acids run to $45 million a year out of $107 million.

What should be significant to Washington is that two large American gas companies have made Sasol their main consultant in designing and building plants for the production of coal-derived gas in the U.S.

AMERICAN AIRLINES complain that the high cost of aviation fuel is menacing their profits. In Europe they complain less and act more. Accustomed to high prices for jet fuel, the Airbus Industrie of Toulouse, France, a consortium of French, British, Dutch, West German and Spanish interests, is building a short-to-medium wide-bodied plane that, if it were to be purchased by a typical U.S. Trunk carrier, would save up to 27 per cent on current fuel costs.

Use of the Airbus would enable U.S. companies to take 38 planes from the skies without cutting back on an available seat-mile capacity of 88 million per day. General Electric, which makes the fanjet engines for the European Airbus, gets a portion of the profits from the sales.

Walter J. Levy, who, as dean of U.S. petroleum consultants headed the petroleum operations of the Marshall Plan, knows the value of action as compared to "central planning" talk. His action plan for energy self-sufficiency would involve Washington in a minimum of direct work.

One: he would start a "regularized and expedited" leasing program for the outer Continental Shelf.

Four: he would give specific tax credits for new oil exploration and for secondary and tertiary recovery.

Five: he would provide investment credits, accelerated amortization, and a guaranteed profit margin for the production of synthetic oil and gas.

Six: he would cut out the "gimmickry" on oil imports.

And, finally, he would free our nuclear energy program from the years of argument that keeps it from going ahead woth plants that have had a proven safety record for 20 years.

There is no mystery about combating shortages. The "market" can solve anything if private incintive is allowed to take over.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Not everyone will say what he really means or make his best impression now, go give others the benefit of the doubt and most will do the same for you.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

You are always ambitious, and this day will open new areas for you to profit by your know-how. Results may not be immediate, so be patient.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

What you want and what you actually need may be widely different. Be realistic about your affairs and don't put the cart before the horse, falling witlessly into traps.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

In a defensive position, be circumspect in voicing opinions, in your approach to others. On the offensive, be gently persuasive rather than argumentative.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Superior quality of workmanship and tact is all matters advised. Balance things; gear endeavors in keeping with high hopes. Results can be gratifying.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Organize your program so as to eliminate time-wasting confusion. A good activity day for those born under this Sign.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Your capabilities may not need improvement as much as they need the right exposure. Try to discuss the situation with interested persons.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Others are watching your example now. Some may be uncertain until YOU act, so be fully aware, and determined to present the proper image.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You may receive several suggestions. Accept only those worth their salt. But be careful not to overlook the helpful through miscalculation.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Poor scheduling could distract, send you completely off the track in some cases. A favorable period for capitalizing on new ideas, however.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Good Uranus influences favor innovations and clever strategies. A fine period in which to put over unusual ideas.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Opponents of your ideas may have a point or two. Try for clarification. Some differences can be avoided, others ironed out.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a great spirit of enterprise, a gregarious personality and outstanding ingenuity. You are ambitious and strive hard to attain your goals, but sometimes are too materialistic in your aims. For you, the reward for effort is more important than the effort itself. Try to find more joy in the means of achievement.

Modified school plan turned down

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Federation of Teachers (CFT), to the surprise of their president, Tuesday night unanimously rejected a modified school board plan for integrating the city's teaching staffs.

CFT President Roger Stephens indicated prior to the 50-member turnout that he was confident that changes announced by the school board Monday would be acceptable to his group.

After the meeting he said the CFT would push for integration by redistricting the city's 105 public schools.

Stephens said a threatened lawsuit would be withheld, but his group had another plan "to get the message across."

He said a teachers action committee will be formed to work with a number of organizations including the AFL-CIO, with which CFT has strong ties.

The board Monday relented to mounting pressure from teachers, civic groups and civil rights leaders and relaxed a 75-25 white-to-black faculty racial balance policy.

Shaul-Rhodes collision builds

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former Gov. James A. Rhodes claims he never used his controversial real estate broker's license, but "I'll fight all the way before I ever give it up."

Commerce Director Dennis Shaul, who questions the legality of the way Rhodes got his license, is just as determined to fight all the way to make him return it.

For a year the battle has raged. There still is no answer.

Rhodes has been told the license will be revoked if he doesn't agree to a hearing on the issue within the month.

"I'll go to court," vowed Rhodes.

Shaul began the battle when he learned that Rhodes received the license from his own appointees on the Ohio Real Estate Commission four days before he left office in 1971.

Rhodes took an oral examination in governor's office. He said the commission and its executive secretary felt that giving the governor a written examination with 200 others would have been disruptive.

The former Republican governor claims the inquiry into his license began only after he announced he would be a candidate for office again.

Rhodes attempted to file Jan. 24, 1973, but his candidacy initially was disallowed on constitutional grounds. The Ohio Supreme Court ruled he could run and he filed again June 6.

The hearing bogged down when Paul Everson of Euclid, a Republican holdover on the commission, refused to testify. Shaul threatened him with a court order, but Everson didn't budge.

The board, now made up entirely of appointees of Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan and with a new executive secretary, Robert Gippin, has discovered some others holding licenses it considers to be given in an unusual manner.

Among those is one held by Gerald Wedren, acting commerce director under Gilligan before Shaul received permanent appointment to the post.

In a letter to Gippin, Wedren said he thought his successor was "attempting to publicly embarrass people on technicalities which are totally erroneous."

Rhodes adopted much the same attitude with some politics thrown in. "I welcome the opportunity to go to court and settle this matter," said Rhodes. "Gov. Gilligan should stop hiding behind the political propaganda of Dennis Shaul."

Conservation fund increase promoted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation to increase from $300 million to $900 million the annual authorization of the Land Water Conservation Fund Act was introduced Tuesday by U.S. Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio.

Seiberling said estimates of funds needed by the National Park Service to acquire lands already authorized by Congress ranged from $400 million to $2 billion.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Why not try to pick up broken pieces?

DEAR ABBY: My experience may help some married man avoid a tragic mistake. This is a true letter. If you find it column worthy, you may print it, but please do not use my name:

Past 70 years of age and married to a faithful wife for 35 years I fell madly in love with a music teacher 20 years my junior. I courted her magnificently, gave her gifts of jewelry, clothing, appliances for her home, weekend trips-even a beautiful piano.

I divorced a faithful wife and gave up a highly respected position to marry this lady in Las Vegas.

Now, after a few months of marriage, a divorce is being processed, and I now find myself with a completely loused up life. My "bride" got as much as she could out of me and is seeking her freedom.

A lifetime reputation has gone down the drain. I have broken my first wife's heart, and my children have lost their respect for me. My health is failing, my heart is heavy, and I am living proof that there is no fool like an old fool.

LOVED AND LOST

DEAR LOVED: Regret is the cancer of life. It may not be too late to pick up the pieces. Why not try?

DEAR ABBY: My mom counts calories and she doesn't like to see any high-calorie food on her own plate, so she takes a little bit from me, a little bit from my sister, and a little bit from my father, and all those little bits add up.

If she gains a pound she is very unhappy and yells at us.

Please publish your advice before we all die of malnutrition and Mom chews our heads off.

HER FAMILY

DEAR FAMILY: Next time Mom reaches for something on your plate remind her that it's in her mouth for a moment-and on her hips for the rest of her life. That should help.

DEAR ABBY: This is my third letter to you, and it will be my last if you do not answer it. My problem is a lot more serious than some of the junk I read in your column, and I want to know why I have not received an answer. I asked you for a personal reply.

MY LAST LETTER

DEAR LAST: If your newspaper doesn't run a line indicating that for a personal reply you should write to Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope, they should. Everyone who follows the above instructions receives an answer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO VIRGO: To mispronounce a word in ignorance. To correct one in the presence of others for having mispronounced a word is cruelty. In my book cruelty is a far more serious offense than ignorance.

Today In History

In 1602, the Dutch East India Company was formed.

In 1727, the English mathematician who discovered the law of gravity, Sir Isaac Newton, died.

In 1828, the Norwegian dramatist and poet, Henrik Ibsen, was born.

In 1942, Gen. Douglas MacArthur made his famous pledge: "I shall return." He had fled from the Philippines to Australia as the islands were invaded by Japan.

Ten years ago: two Cubans hijacked a Cuban military helicopter in a bloody gun battle over the Atlantic, killed the pilot and flew to Key West, Fla.

Today's birthdays: Broadcasting executive Frank Stanton is 66. Actor Michael Redgrave also is 66.

Thought for today: The true wealth of a country lies in its men and women — Richard Aldington, English writer, 1892-1962.

Uphold regulation on air pollution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Environmental Board of Review Tuesday upheld an Ohio Environmental Protection Agency regulation that requires use of an air curtain destructor in certain circumstances for open burning of landscape wastes. Seven Ohio utility firms last fall questioned use of the device. The board said it agreed with the EPA that pollution is decreased when an air curtain destructor is used properly.

Antique weathervanes, individually created by craftsmen, are highly prized today as examples of folk art, the National Geographic Society says.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Should cable-TV operators pay broadcasters and others copyright fees for TV shows the operators pick off the air? It's a question that's been kicking around in Congress since 1971.

It's still there today, despite a Supreme Court decision this month that cable-TV companies don't have to pay such fees for TV shows they import from distant cities and provide subscribers in their own communities for a monthly charge.

The ruling was viewed in the cable-TV industry as a major victory. And you'd think the major industry group — the National Cable Television Association (NCTA) — would be more than happy to let the ruling answer the copyright question for good.

But NCTA president David Foster says otherwise. On the day the ruling came, he allowed himself a brief cheer, then insisted his group still wants Congress to make cable TV operators pay copyright fees, even though it'll cost them hundreds of thousand of dollars annually. "We have always felt that as a matter of qualifying cable to become a first-class member of the communications fraternity, we should accept this responsibility," says Foster, whose group represents 1,300 of the nation's 3,000 cable TV systems.

"This has been a difficult position for the cable industry to come to," he noted. "There are still many cable operators who don't feel they should pay copyright fees."

However, he added, "quite candidly, a whole lot of our regulatory problems, I think, will either go away or be minimized once we've got the copyright issue behind us."

In 1971, the National Association of Broadcasters, NCTA and copyright owners came to an agreement — sponsored by the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy — to jointly support legislation that would, among other things, make cable-TV liable for copyright fees.

"We still feel that's the way to do it," said NAB president Vincent Wasilewski, referring to the three-way effort.

But Wasilewski, whose group represents 531 commercial TV stations, was skeptical about how hard Foster's association would press Congress for copyright legislation in the wake of the Supreme Court ruling.

But he conceded the NAB's pursuit of the legislation wouldn't be all that vigorous, either, because "this would not be our top-priority legislation." The big push, he said, is for pending legislation to increase the number of years a broadcast license can be held.

Teen breakfast attendance up

The prayer Breakfasts are held each Tuesday at 6:45 a.m. at the South Side Church of Christ to help youth relate their faith with their everyday life. The program is supported by contributions from orgainzations, churches, individuals, and businesses of the community.

"A Time to Say Yes and A Time to Say No" was the theme used by Charles J. Richmond, minister, at the meditation time.

Bride-elect is honored

Miss Wanda Downar, bride-elect of Daniel D. O'Malley, was honored at a luncheon and miscellaneous shower recently by co-hostesses Mrs. Kenneth J. Johnson and Mrs. William A. Boylan, at the Johnson residence. Table and bridal decorations of yellow rosebuds were used throughout the rooms. Immediately following the luncheon, the guest of honor opened her lovely gifts, for which she expressed her thanks and pleasure. The ribbon corsage was arranged by Miss Curryann Kruse, sister of the prospective groom.

The guest list included Mrs. Joseph Downar of Steubenville, mother of the bride-elect; Miss Christine Downar of Columbus, sister of the bride-elect; Miss Sue Forney and Miss Lorane C. Kruse of Columbus; Mrs. Glenn Milstead of Newark; Mrs. Michael Boylan of Lancaster; Dr. J. Lynne Boylan of Pico Rivera, Calif.; and Mrs. Jack P. Boylan of Blissfield, Mich.

Guests from Washington C.H. were Mrs. Virtus J. Kruse, mother of the prospective groom, her daughter, Curryann, Mrs. L.A. Salender, grandmother of the prospective groom, Mrs. Gordon Davis, Mrs. Joe Boylan, Mrs. Roger Whitmore, Mrs. Benjamin Wright, Mrs. Charles Funk, Mrs. Harold Heckaman, Mrs. James Chakeres, Mrs. Gilbert Whiteside, Mrs. Douglas Dye, Mrs. Maynard Denen, Mrs. Jack Shoemaker, Mrs. Darrell C. DeBolt, Mrs. Robert Woodmansee, Miss Robin Smith, Mrs. Edmond S. Woodmansee, Mrs. Homer Ruley and Mrs. Robert Lisk.

The wedding will be solemnized April 16 in the Steubenville Catholic Church.

Parents guests at musicale

Young people of junior and high school ages met at the resident studio of Mrs. Robert E. Willis, 11 Willis Court, Sunday afternoon. Barry Cupp was at the door to receive parents as guests for an hour of 'good listening'. Debbie Dickey of Wilmington had complete charge of the program.

An Irish song, "Believe Me Of All Those Endearing Young Charms" was sung by the group, with John Huffman at the piano.

Kathy Ginn read a history sketch of the composers called 'The Three B's.' They are Johann Sebastian Bach, Ludwig Von Beethoven and Johannes Brahms, with 'listening' of the following illustrations: Pastoral Symphony recording by Beethoven and Minuet in G by Beethoven, a violin recording by Mischa Elman. A Lullaby by Brahms was sung by Janice Ragland with Susan Wilson at the piano, and Prelude in C by Bach by Kitten Sagar at the piano.

Piano solos followed by Barry Cupp, Kathy Ginn, Susan Wilson and Debbie Coulter, who played First Movement of Sonata D by Haydn.

Hosts for the occasion were Mrs. Donald Ginn and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Coulter.

Lenten traditions reviewed

The Women of St. Colman Catholic Church met for the March meeting in Parish Hall Monday evening. Mrs. Robert Pero opened the meeting with some thoughts of spring and a prayer. Mrs. Robert Garland read minutes and Mrs. Raldin Smith gave the treasurer's report.

The recently cleaned and redecorated kitchen was a conversation piece. Mrs. Pero, Mrs. Ben Wright, Mrs. Betty Byron and Mrs. George Spilker composed the committee.

The group voted to sponsor two children from Fayette Progressive School to King's Island later this spring.

Mrs. Bart Mahoney announced the dessert-smorgasbord for April 18 at Mahan Hall for the cancer Society, and all were urged to attend.

All were reminded again of the bake sale to be held following each Mass on Palm Sunday, and the Saturday evening Mass.

Mrs. Gene Carmen presented a program on Lenten traditions and customs and particularly those associated with foods which may be served during Holy Week. She suggested a menu which can be served on Holy Thursday and told what each dish symbolized.

Following this, Mrs. Smith showed slides of a trip which she and her husband had taken to Rome, Italy. A flower and seed exchange followed.

Mrs. William Himmelspach and Mrs. Agnes Ford served refreshments.

The next meeting will be held in Parish Hall and the main feature will be a party, and each person is asked to bring an item worth at least 25 cents, to be used for a prize.

King's Daughters Class meets

The King's Daughters Sunday School Class met in the home of Mrs. Carl Meriweather for their regular business session, with 15 members present.

The president, Mrs. Edith Parsley, called the meeting to order.

Miss Delores Cadwalader, devotional leader, read for Scripture the 23rd Psalm from the Living Bible; read also from selected items included a quote "Cure for Frustration." The group sang the hymn "God Will Take of You" which was the devotional theme, followed by pertinent thoughts and closed with the hymn "He Leadeth Me." Miss Carolyn Haggard accompanied for the hymns.

The president expressed appreciation and thanks for the Greeters who served at the Sunday Morning services.

Mention was made concerning the project "Out Reach" and volunteers requested to attend the two meetings. Mrs. Harry Butler and Mrs. Clark Gossard will represent the King's Daughters class.

The class will follow the custom of providing a potted flower for Easter Services. From a pamphlet concerning 'bonus coupons' the president explained what and how benefit could be derived.

In closing the session, the president read from the Morning Prayer by Ella Wheeler Wilcox. The meeting was adjourned by repeating the class benediction.

The Stitch and Chat Club of Jeffersonville met in the Lions Club room at noon for a sack lunch. The hostesses served a salad, dessert and coffee.

Mrs. Joe Ferguson conducted the meeting for the 16 members which answered roll call. In the absence of Mrs. Earl Swaney, Mrs. Harold Cline served as secretary.

Cheer cards were signed for members who are ill. There will be no Easter bazaar this year by the group.

Cancer pads will be made at the next regular meeting in April beginning at 10 a.m. This meeting will feature a carry-in noon luncheon, and the hostesses will be Mrs. Kennith Spahr, Mrs. Reba Straley and Mrs. Olive Brookover.

The club welcomed Mrs. Jean Warner as a new member. Mrs. Helen Dunkle of Dayton was a guest.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Dorothy Knisley, 718 E. Temple St., was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Straud Mathena, 1097 Spring Lake Ave.

Delta CCL donates to three funds

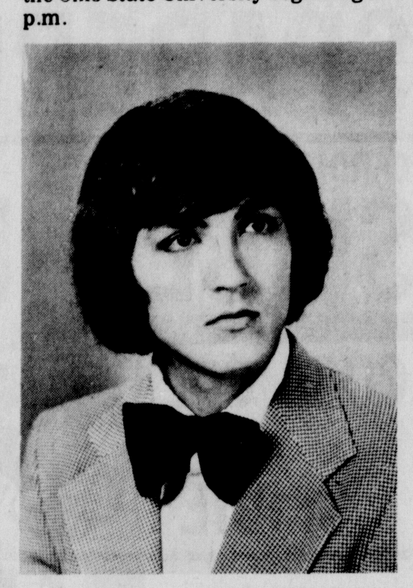
The Delta Child Conservation League met in the home of Mrs. Arthur Schaefer, Mrs. Ferol Lewis, vice president, opened the meeting and Mrs. Thomas Mossbarger gave devotions. She read verses from the Bible concerning 'mothers' and a poem, "Holding the Home Together." In closing, she told that kind words and good deeds help to keep homes together.

Discussion pertaining to the CCL scholarship fund, AFS and Delmar Mowery fund was held, and the group voted to donate to all three funds.

A reminder of the Spring Conference in Lebonon for March 23 was made and a social hour followed. Mrs. Fred Cook and Mrs. Lewis assisted Mrs. Schaefer in the serving of refreshments to guests in the spacious recreational room.

Pianist to give concert at Society meet

John Kim Bell, son of Mrs. Beth H. Bell of Columbus, will be guest pianist at a recital on Thursday at a noon luncheon-meeting of the National Society of Arts and Letters, Columbus chapter, of which Dr. Lois Lampe Zimmerman is president. The recital will take place at The Faculty Club of the Ohio State University beginning at 2 p.m.



Bell, received superior ratings on both piano and violin in a State Contest and also won first place in the senior division of the Graves Piano Contest. He was previously a violinist with the Columbus Youth Symphony and the All-Ohio Youth Symphony. Last summer he held the job of assistant musical conductor for Kenley Players and the Star Theatre of Flint, Mich.

A pupil of pianist George Haddad for five years and now a senior in music at OSU, he plans to work for further degrees in graduate school, following graduation.

Co-workers honor bride-elect

Mrs. Daniel Montgomery was hostess in her home recently for a personal bridal shower for Miss Johnny Sue Dye, bride-elect of Bill Rowe, who will be married April 6 in the chapel of Grace United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Montgomery served a fondue dinner, and a dessert which was a bride doll in keeping with the occasion.

Contests were conducted and winners were Mrs. David Kearney, Mrs. Thomas Rankin and Mrs. Burnham Light. They in turn presented the prizes to the guest of honor.

Those present were co-workers in the office of Drs. Gebhart and Heiny. They were Mrs. John Gifford, mother of the honor guest, Mrs. Rankin, Mrs. Kearney, Mrs. Light, Mrs. Larry Lane, Mrs. Mike Smith, Mrs. James Bonham and Mrs. Wendell Morrison.

Engagement is announced

Mr. and Mrs. S. Robert Block of Toledo have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Judith Ellen to Roger Earl Thornburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Earl Thornburg, 519 W. Circle Ave.

The bride-elect, a graduate of DeVilbiss High School, Toledo, and Columbus Business University, is employed by the State of Ohio Bureau of Employment Services.

Her fiance, a graduate of Washington High School, attended Ohio University, Athens, and is imployed by the State of Ohio Department of Transportation.

The Burnett-Ducey VFW Auxiliary 4964 met in the VFW Hall, W. Elm St., Monday evening with 14 members president. Mrs. Clark Rumer, president, called the meeting to order and Mrs. Maurice Farmer acted as conductress in the absence of Mrs. Jesse Whitmer. Mrs. Kenneth Harley called the roll.

It was announced that the Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Collectors Association will be held April 20 and 21, at the Fayette County Fairgrounds, and the Post and Auxiliary will serve breakfast and lunch.

Hostesses for refreshments were Mrs. Maurice Farmer and Mrs. Rumer. The Post will have a hamberger fry at the Hall for all members of the Post and Auxiliary this coming Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. Clarence Wright won the attendance award. The next meeting will be held April 1 with Mrs. Lela Campbell and Mrs. Hubert Ferneau as hostesses.

District meeting takes place in WCH

The 7th district spring round table meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held at Post 25 with Unit 25 as hostesses. Thirty women from District 7 were present, and Mrs. William Williams, Unit 25 president, open the meeting in ritualistic form. Mrs. John White, district president of Portsmouth, conducted the meeting. Minutes of the winter round table held in Circleville were read and approved.

Reports on membership were given, VA Hospital, Veterans affairs, youth activities and Americianism. Mrs. Charles Williams, member of the local unit and department Americanism chairman, gave an interesting report on the Department mid-winter conference held in Columbus.

Following the meeting, the group enjoyed a social hour with sandwiches and salads served from a beautifully appointed tea table. Mrs. Esther Hyer made the centerpiece, a lovely poppy tree. Local unit members present or providing a salad were Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Harold Gorman, Mrs. Philip Ford, Mrs. Eugene Ladrach, Mrs. Maryon Mark, Mrs. Lillie Grabill, Mrs. Phillip Binzel, Mrs. Albert Hyer, Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. Marie Mace and Mrs. Ray Jennings.

Tank car blazes in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A stream of fire poured out of the ruptured railroad tank car and into a 15-foot pool of flame to form a blazing, billowing column 40 feet high.

Firemen stood 1,000 feet away, helpless except for their efforts to keep the car cool by pouring water onto it from stationary hoses.

Officials, fearing the car, which contained 32,000 gallons of ethylele, would exploded, evacuated 3,500 workers from nearby industries.

But as flames continued to consume the liquid, a petroleum derivative used in the production of gasoline, the chances of an explosion lessened.

Officials said the fire was expected to have burned itself out by 4 or 5 a.m. today.

The trouble began Tuesday afternoon when the Union Carbide Co. tank car en route from Columbus to Charleston, W. Va., derailed at the Penn Central-Phillipi Road crossing.

A valve broke off in the derailment and a spark apparently ignited the spilling liquid, Franklin County sheriff's deputies said. Several hours later a seam in the tank car ruptured, causing a much larger fire.

The tanker was the only car to leave the tracks. Other cars, some of them also tankers, were pulled away from the burning car.

Officials said there was no means of extinguishing the fire.

Firemen placed hoses on tripods to continuously spray water on the tank car and moved back a safe distance from the fire.

The water kept the car's temperature down so pressure wouldn't build up, officials said.

Police evacuated workers from about 10 industries in the area, including a Westinghouse plant where employes on the second and third shifts Tuesday and first shift today lost work.

There are no homes in the area.

Also worrying officials was the presence nearby of a tank farm where the Marathon and Texaco had eight million gallons of refined petroleum products stored.

Traffic was detoured a halfmile in each direction of the accident.

Power in the area was turned off, but that generally affected only the industries which had shut down.

Later in the evening, an explosion expert brought here from Toledo by the Penn Central Railroad used meters to read the gas content of the air around the tanker.

"We're getting zero on our explosion meters," Larry Baggerly, a division superintendent for the railroad, said late Tuesday night.

The cause of the derailment was not determined immediately. No one was injured.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A buildup of world grain reserves by mid-1975 is likely if record crops materialize for U.S. farmers this year, says the Agriculture Department.

But more ample supplies of wheat and feed grains will bring mixed possibilities: lower food costs for consumers and a cutback in farm income because of reduced grain prices.

The possibilities were raised Tuesday by a report showing world grain output — wheat and feed grain — is now expected to jump 7.5 per cent to a record 965.5 million metric tons for the year ending June 30.

Looking ahead, the Foreign Agricultural Service said prospects point to world grain harvests totaling another record of 996.8 million tons in the 1974-75 season, a 3.2 per cent from this year.

Officials said most of the increase would result from record U.S. wheat and corn crops projected for 1974 harvests.

Although large demand for grain in international markets is expected to continue, world harvests could outgain total use, meaning additional reserves by July 1, 1975, the report indicated.

However, analysts said a number of factors make estimates difficult, including current high prices of grain which could reduce the rate of grain consumption.

Prices have soared the past year as many countries turned to the United States to help replenish graneries following reduced harvests in 1972-73.

"A serious slowdown could possibly cut 10 million tons off the projected consumption level," the report said. "If this happened stocks in major exporting countries as of June 30, 1975, could recover roughly four-fifths of the sharp decline which had occurred in the preceding two years."

The experts said also that larger harvests this year in other grain exporting countries will mean stiffer competition in international trade for U.S. farmers.

Thus, the report said, U.S. farm exports will decline in 1974-5. In earlier projections, department officials had estimated wheat exports, for example, will drop to about 1 billion bushels from a record 1.2 billion forecast for the year ending June 30.

Milk protesters hear other side

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A group of Cleveland area housewives protesting high milk prices visited a dairy farm Tuesday and were told that farmers don't think milk prices are high enough.

Brockmore told the women he has about $150,000 worth of equipment and animals but no longer makes a profit farming.

"I'm getting nothing back on my investment," Brockmore said after showing the women his 250-acre farm.

African plane hijacked

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A man and a woman hijacked an East African Airways plane with 35 people aboard today and airline sources said the couple was reported arrested when the plane landed in Uganda.

L. LESTER BOWER

Bower joins Fayette Bank

L. Lester Bower, 33, a 1958 graduate of McClain High School, has been employed by the bank in the area of consumer finance.

Bower, who previously had been manager of the City Loan and Savings Co. office in New Boston, is married to the former Joyce Ann Rooks, of Greenfield, and they have three children, Deborah, 7, Bradley, 3, and Stephanie, 2. The family presently resides in Portsmouth but is planning to move here shortly.

After graduating from McClain, Bower entered the Navy where he attended radio electronics school. He then worked for Redman Industries in Washington C.H. before joining City Loan in 1967. He was assistant manager of the office here for 3 years prior to taking the post as manager of the New Boston office.

Probe finding of dead body

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati police are investigating the discovery of what they say is the "mummified" body of an elderly woman found sitting in the hallway of a Bond Hill home.

Police said they do not know how long the woman, who was about 80 years old, had been dead.

The body reportedly was discovered by the dead woman's nephew.

SEC Chairman to take stand

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Securities and Exchange Commission chairman William J. Casey's name appears on eight pages of the criminal conspiracy indictment against John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans. Only the defendants are mentioned more often.

Thus it was as a crucial prosecution witness that Casey was expected to take the witness stand today at the trial of former Atty. Gen. Mitchell and one-time Commerce Secretary Stans. The trial is midway in its fifth week.

The indictment defines Casey as a prime target in a conspiracy by Mitchell and Stans to impede an SEC fraud investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco, in return for the latter's secret $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign.

Casey, whose name also figures in perjury counts against both defendants, resigned as SEC chairman early last year to become undersecretary of state for economic affairs. He is now president of the Export-Import Bank.

Two former secretaries of Vesco closed out Tuesday's trial testimony. They were Shirley Bailey and Helen Force.

Each testified that she played a part in the transfer of the $200,000 contribution to a Vesco associate, Laurence Richardson, who in turn paid the money to Stans April 10, 1972.

The government claims it was this information that Vesco, Mitchell and Stans sought to conceal from the SEC, thus obstructing justice. The two women eventually were subpoenaed to tell SEC investigators about the money.

The prosecution said the device hit upon by the defendants was to obtain a lawyer for the two women, who would tell them to take the Fifth Amendment before the SEC.

The late Walter Van Riper, one-time attorney general of New Jersey, was the attorney selected by a Vesco associate, according to the two women. They said the first and last time they ever say him was the morning of their SEC appearance.

The witnesses said Van Riper asked for an adjournment, pleading that he needed more time to familiarize himself with the case. When the request was denied, he replied that he must reluctantly direct the two women to take the Fifth Amendment and refuse to testify, the witness stand account continued.

The government contends that under a smokescreen over adjournment, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Force were able to withhold testimony about the $200,000.

Bill to abolish mayor's courts postponed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee has postponed until next week a vote on a big bill that creates more than three dozen new judgeships and abolishes mayors' courts in Ohio.

Chairman Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, switched signals Tuesday night when the vote had been planned, saying the committee may want to hear additional testimony.

The abolition of mayors' courts has been proposed at least the last four legislative sessions, but unable to muster the necessary support in the face of political pressure on lawmakers.

Wilkowski and others wanting to do away with the so-called "speed traps" revived their efforts after the U.S. Supreme Court took away most of the mayors' courts' authority.

As a result of the 1972 ruling, the estimated 500 mayors' courts in Ohio have been limited to hearing only those cases in which the defendant pleads guilty. If he pleads innocent, his case has to be transferred to a county court or another court of record.

Wilkowski came up with the idea of putting the abolition in with the omnibus bill creating new judgeships, hoping to coax would-be opponents into supporting the entire package for other reasons.

The bill proposes to add three judges each to state appellate courts in the eighth (Cleveland) and first (Cincinnati) districts. Nineteen common pleas judgeships would be created, along with 14 municipal judgeships.

In other business Tuesday night, the Senate-House subcommittee labored over proposed amendments to a bill that would establish a state energy board which could declare states of emergency and make specific legislative recommendations to the General Assembly.

Chairman Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, said, "We expect to have a substitute bill ready by next week."

He said the proposal would go back to the respective standing committees of the two chambers for their consideration, since the "ad hoc" panel lacks authority to act on measures officially.

The joint subcommittee had expected to hear from Michael Scanlon, director of intergovernmental relations for the Federal Energy Office, but his trip to Ohio had to be canceled.

Maloney said the federal official cited "some kind of minor crisis" in Louisiana as the cause of a schedule change, but offered to appear before the committee at a later date.

Carlton Dargusch Jr., counsel for the Ohio Association of Broadcasters, and William Oertel, executive director of the Ohio Newspaper Association, urged the energy panel to approve an amendment assuring that the proposed bill will not curtail the rights of industries and their other advertisers.

The measure, as written, would ban all advertising that suggested more use of electricity and other energy sources.

Dargusch said that to put such a restriction into the law would be wrong, since "it would be interfering with freedom of speech." He indicated his organization had no objection for a state energy board to have the power to impose such a restriction if a real crisis did arise.

In other developments, the House Environment and Natural Resources Committee finished hearing testimony on an embattled proposal to require a five-cent deposit on beverage containers. Manufacturers and big labor in Ohio both oppose the measure on grounds it would cost jobs and otherwise have an adverse effect on the state's economy.

Adding their voices to the chorus of opposition sounded on the bill last week were representatives of the Ohio AFL-CIO, the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, and a spokesman for an Ohio Glass Bottle Blowers Association.

The Senate Education & Health committee rejected 5-2 a bill that would take away a requirement for the teaching of oral language in schools for the deaf. Present law enables a teacher to switch to sign language after unsuccessful experimentation with the oral system.

An interesting program on diamonds was presented to members of the Washington C.H. Lions Club following their regular dinner meeting Tuesday night in the Country Club.

Andre Metais, owner-operator of the C.A. Gossard Co. jewelry store, Court and Fayette St., explained to the 80 club members attending the history, mining, cutting and marketing of the precious gems.

Also, during the meeting a slate of new officers for the April election was announced, reports were heard on the club's annual variety show and the Babe Ruth baseball program and five new members were welcomed.

Metais, who came to Washington C.H. in 1952 as a watchmaker and jeweler, told Lions that there are no mysteries in the diamond world. He said most of the mysteries regarding the gem are created by the ignorance of the consumer and unethical business practices of some jewelers.

He said diamonds, which are described by scientists as crystals of pure carbon, are formed by intense heat and pressure beneath the earth and are the hardest substance known to mankind.

METAIS, who distributed samples and replicas to further illustrate his talk, pointed out that diamond mining first started about 600 B.C., mostly in India. He said that 98 per cent of today's diamonds are mined in South Africa, but there are also some diamond mines in Russia now.

Around 1865, a Dutch geologist actually started the diamond mining by accident in South Africa. He was visiting a South African family when their son discovered an 83-karat gem. He sold the stone, worth about $57,000, to the Dutchman for some livestock, according to Metais. The gem was later cut, increasing the worth to $4 million.

The well-versed jeweler explained the mining process to club members and said 250 tons of ore are required to be processed to get one karat of diamond today.

He also explained diamond cutting processes and said that it is one of the most demanding professions today. He said cutting mistakes will appear in loss of brilliancy and loss of value.

Metais was born in Limoges, France, but spent most of his early life in Paris where he learned watchmaking and the jewelry business from his family which had followed the trade for two generations.

Before fielding a variety of questions from the audience, Metais said the quality of a diamond is determined by the karat weight, the color of the crystal body, the cut and the gem's clarity, which deals primarily with flaws.

Coates said a coach is needed for one of the Washington C.H. teams in the Fayette County Babe Ruth Association. The Babe Ruth program is a Lions Club project.

Paul Johnson,and Lehman, co-producers of this year's musical comedy program, reported that 98 per cent of the club members participated in the show. They said a financial report on the show will be available soon.

New members welcomed were Allen Willoughby, James Wilson, Gary McMurray, H. Alvin Sohn and Mike Flynn. Guests were William Jones with Robert Kunz and Chester Dean with Johnson.

Garfield Commandery has annual inspection

The annual inspection of Garfield Commandery No. 28, Knights Templar, was held at the Masonic Temple with 125 knights and guests attending.

The degree work was displayed to the candidates by officers of Garfield Commandery. During the degree work the ladies were entertained in the fellowship hall with Mrs. Ronald Sears in charge of the activities. Later in the evening, the knights and their guests were served a fried chicken dinner, prepared by Eastern Star members. Serving the meal were members of Job's Daughters and DeMolay chapter members.

Ronald Sears, commander of the Garfield Commandery, introduced the other officers. They were Willard G. Ward, generalissimo; Daniel Terhune, captain general; Charles Duff, senior warden; Dale Evans, junior warden; John W. Craig, prelate; Dennis Hawk, treasurer; Kenneth L. Chaney, recorder; Eldon McBee, standard bearer; John Ringer, sword bearer; Albert Briggs, warden, and Alfred Browne, sentinenel.

Heads of the different commanderies in the Fifth Division introduced sir knights traveling with them. Ray Bennett, of the Columbus Commandery No. 69 who is in charge of the Knights Templar eye foundation for southwestern Ohio, said he had been contacted by a woman in the Washington C.H. area who said she was going blind and in need of an operation, which she could not afford.

Following an investigation in the matter, the organization's eye foundation made arrangements for the surgery and will provide the total cost.

Distinguished guests attending were 20 Knights of the York Cross of Honor, and one member of the Knights Templar Cross of Honor. Those from the Grand Commandery of Ohio were Larry Looker, deputy grand commander; George Fity, grand recorder; Aaron Hard, grand sentinel, and Ellsworth Nelson, grand sword bearer who served as the inspecting officer.

Dog charges bring fines

Acting Municipal Court Judge John P. Case faced a heavy docket Tuesday when 12 non-traffic cases were scheduled for hearing. In addition there were nine traffic cases and a preliminary hearing scheduled.

Four residents of the east side of Washington C.H. were fined for allowing their dogs to run loose. The charges were filed by a resident of the area.

Edward E. Fisher, 42, of 149 Carolyn Rd., was fined $50.

Gary L. Knisley, 25, of 146 Carolyn Rd., Pauline A. Johnson, 43, of 145 Eastview Dr., and E.R. Rudolph, 51, of 136 River Rd., were each fined $50, but $20 of each of their fines was suspended.

Ricky A. Smith, 23, of 210½ W. Elm St., was fined $25, for intoxication but a charge of petty larceny was dismissed.

Donald E. Zurface, 35, Sabina, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50 after he pleaded guilty to an assault charge which had been filed on a private warrant. Judge Case suspended 24 days of the jail term.

The other defendants forfeited bond.

POLICE

Norman E. Russell, 49, of 216 Kennedy Ave., $100, disorderly conduct.

SHERIFF

Michael W. Johnson, 716 Peabody Ave., $50, intoxication.

William Boldman, 41, Greenfield, $100, assault.

Arrests

POLICE

Martha J. Hawkins, 26, Bogus Rd., disorderly conduct.

Dewey T. Keaton, 29, Bloomingburg, speeding.

SHERIFF

Junior Neeley, 43, Lakeview Ave., shoplifting.

More wire theft arrests

As a result of a continuing investigation by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, two more persons have been arrested in connection with the rash of recent thefts of copper telegraph wire.

Sgt. John L. Emrick Monday arrested Thomas E. Wheeler, 30, of Sabina, on a charge of larceny. He currently is free under $1,000 bond pending appearance in Municipal Court.

Tuesday, a complaint charging theft was filed in Juvenile Court against a 17-year-old Sabina boy. He was released to his parents pending a hearing.

A total of seven charges have been filed to date charging offense related to the theft of copper telegraph cable from the B&O Railroad. Sheriff Don Thompson said that more arrests are expected as the investigation continues.

Driver cited after crash

A hitskip driver who crashed into the glass enclosed entrance on the Main Street side of the Washington Inn just after midnight was arrested at 6 a.m. Wednesday and charged with reckless operation and leaving the scene of an accident.

John P. Kelly, 57, address unknown, was arrested at the M&M Restaurant, U.S. 35-W, after a tip was received by the Sheriff's Department.

Kelly told city police officers who investigated that he was pulling into a parking space and failed to hit the brake pedal. The car jumped the curb, striking the glass.

Amtrak boosts fares effective April 16

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak says mounting fuel and labor costs as well as inflation are forcing it to raise fares nationwide by 5 per cent.

Amtrak, the National Rail Passenger Corp., announced Tuesday that the fare hike would go into effect April 16.

The rate boost is intended to produce about $12 million in additional revenue, the corporation said.

County board renews supervisory contracts

Contracts for three administrators and one supervisor in the Miami Trace system were renewed by the Fayette County Board of Education at its regular meeting Tuesday night in the board office on Court Street.

Steve Yambor will serve as assistant superintendent for another three years starting Aug. 1; June Slaughter will serve as supervisor of elementary education for three more years, starting Aug. 1; Curtis Fleisher will serve three more years as secondary supervisor and principal of Miami Trace High School, starting Aug. 1, and Ronald Grottendick will serve two more years as principal of Bloomingburg Elementary School starting Aug. 26. There were no changes in salary schedules.

THREE NEW policies adopted by the board last night concern job description for the school psychologist, special education placement procedure and legal dismissal from school attendance.

In order for a student to be legally dismissed, a complete psychological evaluation of the student will be executed when found necessary, a conference will be held between psychologist and parents to discuss the study of the child and a legal dismissal committee will evaluate all information about the minor and make recommendations concerning placement.

The legal dismissal committee will be composed of the school psychologist, the elementary advisor, the director of the Progressive School and others who might be requested to appear. No legal dismissal will be considered unless written parental permission is obtained or until all appeals are completed.

The special education placement procedures approved by the board read much like the legal dismissal procedures. Once again, no action will be taken without parental consent.

THE BOARD approved the termination of Mrs. Carrie Stephenson's contract due to health reasons, effective March 29. Twenty-five of her 27 years teaching were spent in Wilson and Chaffin schools. Presently a second grade teacher, at Chaffin, she will be on disability retirement pay when the contract terminates on March 29.

The transfer of Mrs. Betty Lininger, executive secretary in the Miami Trace office, to secretary to the superintendent in the county office on April 1, was approved by the board. Mrs. Lininger's old position will not be filled due to automation and her new position will require a working day of 7½ hours. A salary increase of $300 per year was approved.

Mrs. Ruby Crawford was approved as janitor at Wayne Elementary School, Good Hope. She will begin her full custodial status March 25, and continue thru June 30.

THE BOARD reviewed the monthly financial statement for the district, along with monthly activity account statements from the elementary schools; the Miami Trace High School financial statement for February; the Miami Trace High School student activity accounts; the athletic report which listed a donation of $750 to the Miami Trace High School marching band, and the vocational school report.

Registration of kindergarten pupils for 1974-75 and enrollment of first graders who have not attended kindergarten this year will be as follows, according to the schedule established by Mrs. Slaughter and approved by the board: May 13 - Madison Mills, May 14 - Good Hope, May 15 - New Holland, May 16 - Staunton, May 17 - Bloomingburg, May 20 - Jeffersonville, May 21 - Chaffin and May 23 - Jasper. All sessions will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Professional meetings were approved by the board as follows: Foster - law conference at Miami University March 27; Ronald Lott - regional psychologist meeting, Hillsboro, March 22; Gordon McCarty - Southwest principal's meeting in Dayton April 4; a spring reading and language arts conference at Bowling Green April 20, involving Mrs. Evelyn Reser, Mrs. Mary Etta Watts, Mrs. Peggy Gass, Mrs. Nancy Harper and Mrs. Slaughter; Mrs. Gass - "Right to Read" conference in Columbus April 25 and 26; Miss Leslie Johnson, kindergarten meeting in Columbus; and Mrs. Slaughter - science workshop at Miami University March 27, psychological council at Hillsboro March 28, Ohio State supervisors' meeting in Columbus April 4 and 5 and International Reading Association in New Orleans April 29 - May 3.

YAMBOR brought to the attention of the board that janitorial supplies can no longer be bid on an annual basis because of shortages and fluctuating prices.

The board discussed recent legislative action which placed pregnancy into the sick leave policy. A local policy will be adopted after consulation with the county prosecutor.

The board decided to begin a program of experimental mini-courses in photography, astronomy and other related subjects for a one-year period at Miami Trace High School.

It was disclosed that two school buses were taken off the road by the Ohio Highway Patrol after a safety inspection because of rusting floors. Four new buses are on order, but if they do not arrive by summer, the board moved to lease buses, rather than repair the rusting vehicles.

Voting precincts at Eber, Chaffin and Wilson elementary schools will be continued as in the past, the board announced.

A fashion show and smorgasbord, sponsored by the Child Conservation League, will be held at Miami Trace High School March 22. The board granted permission as long as the CCL compensates the janitor and cook.

A request to use an auditorium for a dance program involving 20 Miami Trace and 20 Circleville students at one of the county schools was granted to Patty Van Bursek. The performance will be held at Bloomingburg Elementary School.

LaFatch faces bribery trial in Columbus

He is accused of demanding a payoff from John Vogel, chairman of Realty National Corp., to assure that the Ohio Commerce Department would approve a $10 million stock sale.

The Commerce Department has denied that LaFatch influenced approval of the stock sale, although Commerce Director Dennis Shaul has admitted giving LaFatch information about the sale.

Art prize questioned

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio American Revolution Bicentennial Commission was expected to decide today whether to accept or disqualify what Tuesday was named the winning entry in its medallion contest.

Beverly Robinson, a 16-year-old Wapakoneta high school junior, has admitted that she used a famous painting as a model for her entry.

"The contest rules were quite explicit" that entries were not to be copied, said Robert Cecile, chairman of the bicentennial commission.

Shortly after the award was announced, it was discovered that the design was modeled after a painting by George Caleb Bingham, known as "Daniel Boone Coming Through the Cumberland Gap."

Cecile said that if the award is withdrawn, it will go to the second place winner.

Northeastern school voters approve levy

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)— The 10th time was the charm in the Northeastern Local School District in Clark County Tuesday.

Voters approved 2,279-1,501 a $3,990,000 bond issue for construction of a new high school and remodeling of other buildings. After defeating the proposal nine straight times.

Alston sees Dodgers doing well

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Walter Alston says his young baseball team shouldn't be ashamed of its second-place finish in the National League West last season and will be better this year.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, managed by Alston for 21 years, have a strong nucleus returning and have added ace relief pitcher Mike Marshall.

Gone is veteran centerfielder Willie Davis, who was the team captain but had disagreements with Alston. He went to Montreal in exchange for Marshall.

To fill the key position in centerfield, the Dodgers traded left-handed pitcher Claude Osteen to Houston for Jim Wynn, the "toy cannon" who always has hit well in Dodger Stadium.

Alston has promised more communication with his players, something most necessary in a year when there are so many youngsters on the squad.

There will be platooning, but some of the young players earlier asked to be traded because they didn't think there would be room for them.

Among them were catcher Steve Yeager and infielder Lee Lacy.

Last year, Yeager and Joe Ferguson came up from Albuquerque and Ferguson won the catching job. His first hit was a home run and so was his second. He set Dodger records for catchers with 25 homers and 88 runs batted in.

Ferguson may play first base this season and undoubtedly there will be other experiments. Yet the Dodgers have another youngster, Bill Buckner, ready to go at first.

Buckner had 158 hits in 1973, ranking third on the Dodgers behind Davis' 171 and shortstop Bill Russell's 163.

Russell and Davey Lopes formed a sharp double play combination, and Lacy lost the starting job he had won in 1972.

Ron Cey has the third base job unless he loses it to veteran Ken McMullen in spring training.

Tom Paciorek, who hit .262 in 96 games last year, could be used at first base or in the outfield.

But the outfield has an overflow of talent, including Willie Crawford, a .295 hitter last season; Wynn; Tommie Agee, acquired from St. Louis; Von Joshua, and Manny Mota, a .314 hitter in 89 games last year.

Don Sutton, 18-10, Andy Messersmith, 14-10, Tommy John, 16-7, and Al Downing, 9-9, are back from the 1973 starting pitching rotation.

Doug Rau, who started three games in 1973, is a candidate for a starting role and the Dodgers have reliever Jim Brewer, who has been in one of every three Los Angeles victories during the past five years. Knuckleballing Charlie Hough also will be used in relief.

Still it's Marshall who will be counted on the most in the bullpen.

He was 14-11 last year with a 2.66 earned run average, but he was not happy at Montreal, and the Dodgers were glad to get him despite having to give up an outstanding player in Davis.

WSHS RESERVE CHEERLEADERS — The Washington High School reserve cheerleaders were involved in cheerleading competition this past Saturday at Franklin Heights High School. Purdue defeats Hawaii, 85-72

NEW YORK (AP) — "We like to go to these types of tournaments and to be among the top-ranked," said Purdue's Coach Fred Schaus. "It helps people to know we're still alive."

Hawaii got a reminder Tuesday night that Purdue was still very much alive and kicking as the Boilermakers coasted to an easy 85-72 victory and advanced to the semifinals of the National Invitation Tournament.

The Boilermakers, who in the opening round knocked off topseeded and seventh-ranked North Carolina, will play Saturday against Jacksonville, which won a run-and-shoot battle with Maryland-Eastern Shore 85-83 on two free throws by George Scholz with 25 seconds remaining.

The Boilermaker effort in Madison Square Garden was in contrast to a 76-67 loss to the Rainbows earlier this season in Hawaii.

The Boilermakers rattled off 10 straight points to start the game and had another flurry of 12 straight later in the first half. By halftime, they led by 13 and had a 15-point bulge early in the second half, before Hawaii began to battle back behind Tom Henderson, who finished with a career-high 33 points.

Purdue, now 20-9, did lose Jerry Nichols, who was taken to the hospital for x-rays on his left knee after he fell hard in the second half. Frank Kendrick led the Boilermaker scoring attack with 22 points.

Jacksonville found itself in a running battle with Maryland-Eastern Shore hitting 50 per cent and the Dolphins nearly 49 in the first half half which ended with the Dolphins ahead 51-50.

Butch Taylor was in foul trouble much of the second half and fouled out midway through the period after scoring 20 points and grabbing 14 rebounds.

Maryland-Eastern Shore, paced by Bill Gordon, who finished with 24 and Talvin Skinner, who had 20, came back to briefly take the lead and then Joe Pace tied the game 83-83 before Scholz sank his two free throws.

NIT quarter-final action continues Thursday night with Memphis State meeting Utah and Connecticut facing Boston College. Semifinals are Saturday afternoon with the championship and consolation contests Sunday.

Mets hammer Cincy Reds in 7-1 contest

Tom Seaver and the Mets romped past the Reds 7-1 in a rematch of last October's National League playoffs.

What was to be a grudge match, turned into a dull mismatch as the Reds absorbed their fourth loss in five games.

And Pete Rose was a noshow.

The league's Most Valuable Player last season, Rose was a principal in the donnybrook which shook Shea Stadium. His collision with Mets' shortstop Bud Harrelson triggered mayhem.

"I'll wait until we play 'em at home, before the friendly folks," said Rose.

Harrelson shrugged off Rose's absence and, instead, wondered why no one had thought of hiring the two rivals for a commercial.

"Somebody missed the boat," said Harrelson.

His teammate Seaver wasn't missing much however, as the Cy Young Award winner of 1973 gave up one run in five innings.

Reds' starter Roger Nelson opened with three scoreless innings before allowing two runs in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Anderson's headache worsened in the eighth when the Mets pushed over four runs.

"The Mets always give you a headache," said Tony Perez to Anderson.

One of the few brights spots in the loss was the continued hitting streak by catcher Johnny Bench, who lifted his spring average to .500 with two hits. And shortstop Darrell Chaney snapped an 0-for-19 slump with three hits.

Bucks beat Golden State

"I had a game plan, and it didn't work," the Warriors' young fill-in center said Tuesday night after Abdul-Jabbar scored 31 points in the Milwaukee Bucks' 111-100 National Basketball Association victory over Golden State.

"He's the best," added the 6-foot-11 Johnson, outclassed for the first time in his eight starting assignments since regular center Nate Thurmond was sidelined by a foot injury.

The Bucks clinched another Midwest Division crown with the victory, while the Warriors dropped into a virtual first place tie with Los Angeles in the tight Pacific Division race. Milwaukee is at Los Angeles tonight, Golden State at Seattle.

Elsewhere in the NBA Tuesday night, the Chicago Bulls whipped the Philadelphia 76ers 103-94, the Boston Celtics shaded the Houston Rockets 110-107 and the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Portland Trail Blazers 107-103.

In the only action in the American Basketball Association, the Utah Stars clinched first place in the West Division by trouncing the Memphis Tams 118-103.

Johnson said his game plan was "to run and try to get Kareem tired."

Instead, the kingpin of NBA centers seemed to have an almost leisurely time of it as he tossed in 13 of 20 field goal attempts, mostly hook shots, grabbed 10 rebounds and blocked four shots. Johnson was limited to four points but got 11 rebounds.

Cleveland now has two Perrys

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gaylord Perry is happy to have brother Jim Perry aboard as a fellow member of the Cleveland pitching staff, but he has no intention of relinquishing his status as the Indians' top gun.

"Brother or no brother, Jim will have to fight me for No. 1," Gaylord said after the Indians acquired Jim from the Detroit Tigers Tuesday in a three-way deal that also involved the New York Yankees.

The Tigers sent Jim Perry to Cleveland and pitcher Ed Farmer to New York. The Indians shipped outfielder Walt Williams and rookie pitcher Rich Sawyer to New York while the Yankees dealt catcher Jerry Moses to Detroit.

In other spring training swaps, the Chicago Cubs traded catcher Ken Rudolph to the San Francisco Giants for rookie pitcher Willie Prall and the Cincinnati Reds purchased first baseman-outfielder Terry Crowley from the Texas Rangers.

The three-way trade put the Perry brothers — both former Cy Young Award winners — on the same team for the first time since Jim, 37, was a junior and Gaylord, 35, was a freshman in high school at Williamston, N.C.

Meanwhile, Dave Duncan, who will be catching the Perry boys, celebrated by driving in four runs with a homer and double in the Indians' 8-6 exhibition victory over the Oakland A's. Cleveland pounded Rollie Fingers for six runs in the sixth inning and two in the seventh, offsetting Oakland homers by Vic Davalillo, Pat Bourque and Bert Campaneris.

Elsewhere on the exhibition trail, two-run homers by Richie Zisk and Willie Stargell powered the Pittsburgh Pirates past the Montreal Expos 4-1. In a rematch of last fall's National League playoff rivals, the New York Mets trounced the Cincinnati Reds 7-1 as rookie Bennie Ayala drove in three runs and Ted Martinez hit a two-run homer.

The New York Yankees pounded Luke Walker for three runs in the sixth inning and two in the ninth and beat their former manager Ralph Houk and his Detroit Tigers 6-2. The Minnesota Twins lost for the 12th time in 13 spring games, bowing to the Atlanta Braves 3-1 on rookie pitcher Jamie Easterly's three-run double.

Jim Barr hurled five shutout innings in the San Francisco Giants' 8-3 triumph over the San Diego Padres and Houston's Dave Roberts blanked the Kansas City Royals for six in the Astros' 4-1 victory.

Rookie Mike Reinbach's RBI double and a sacrifice fly by designated hitter Tommy Davis accounted for two eighth-inning runs that lifted the Baltimore Orioles past the Texas Rangers 6-5.

The St. Louis Cardinals used four unearned runs and Reggie Smith's homer to edge the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5. Ron Santo drove in two runs with a pair of doubles to lead the Chicago White Sox over the Boston Red Sox 8-4 and five California pitchers limited the Chicago Cubs to five hits and the Angels won 5-1.

Small school launch tournament

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Class A coaches are optimistic about their team's chances in the 52nd Ohio High School Basketball Tournament except Charlie Huggins, the most feared mentor in the field.

"We have no talent," said Huggins about his Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South squad, the 1972 champion and the 1973 runnerup.

The Rebels, 20-4, will face 22-2 Lorain Clearview in the 9:30 nightcap Thursday as the small schools launch the three-day classic in Ohio State's St. John Arena.

Mount Blanchard Riverdale, 21-3, goes against Pitsburg Franklin-Monroe, 24-3, in the other Class A game at 7:30 p.m.

The Class AAA and Class AA semifinalists wait until Friday to begin their showdowns.

In Class AA, 24-0 Akron Manchester plays 19-6 Cincinnati McNicholas at 11 a.m. and Genoa, 22-1, faces Columbus Hartley, 19-5, at 2:30 p.m.

In Class AAA, defending champion Cincinnati Elder, 21-3, takes on Mount Vernon, 19-4, at 6 p.m. and No. 1 Canton McKinley, 24-0, plays Toledo Scott, 22-2, at 9:30 p.m.

The championship games all are Saturday.

Indian Valley South has been a remarkable team under Huggins this year. The Rebels had no regulars back from last year and are using a lineup with three players 5-foot-9 or shorter.

"We haven't been outrebounded yet," Huggins said of his Tuscarawas County team, "but we haven't faced any Larry Harrises either."

Harris, 6-7 Ohio Class A Player of the Year who averaged almost 30 points and 20 rebounds a game, leads Clearview.

"I think we have a good chance because of the schedule we played," said Lorain Coach Bob Walsh. "We played seven AAA teams and 10 in AA. The only A team we faced was Mansfield St. Peter's."

Franklin-Monroe, from Darke County, also has an All-Ohio player in two-time first team selection Mike Cross, a 6-4 senior with a 27-point average.

The Darke County team lost in the Dayton Regional finals last year to Marion Pleasant, the eventual small school state champion.

"We got beat by Pleasant in the last 15 seconds," Franklin-Monroe Coach Phil Dubbs recalled, "and we have three starters back from that team." His team whipped Pleasant 64-52 in a tournament rematch this year.

"Since it's our first trip," he said, "I don't know. But this is the kind of team that can handle the pressure. It's unemotional."

Jr. High tourney planned

MT wrestlers collect 10 varsity letters

The 1973-74 Miami Trace High School wrestling awards banquet was held Tuesday evening with 10 varsity letters being passed out. The Panther grapplers, under the helm of coach Dick Hill, had a so-so season with a young crew but gained lots of experience. Miami Trace finished the season with a 3-3 record in duel meets and placed seven medalists in one sectional meet.

Special awards went to; Captain Jim Reno, Pinning trophy to Don Dunton for nine pins, and Most Improved and Most Outstanding trophies to Gary Cobb.

Also announced was the preparation for the Junior High Wrestling Tournament. All boys in the 7th and 8th grades in the Miami Trace school district are eligible to enter. Practice dates are March 20, 26 and 28 at 6:00 p.m. at Miami Trace High School. Boys must participate in two practice sessions before being eligible for the tournament.

The tournament will be Friday, March 29 starting at 6:00 p.m. at MTHS. Admission will be free and the contest is open to the public.

Crusaders beat Cougars in WHA tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A goaltender in pro hockey has enough to put up with. He's constantly assaulted by the puck and opposing players, not to mention the abuse of the fans after every mistake.

"I was just tired of getting hit all the time," the normally reserved goaltender said after the Crusaders 7-4 World Hockey Association victory over the Chicago Cougars.

So, when Chicago's Rosaire Paiement bumped into Cheevers with 9:49 remaining in the game, the goalie lost his cool.

In a flash, the two were fighting — an uncommon sight in the sport where the netminder is burdened with so much bulky equipment.

Elsewhere in the WHA, the Vancouver Blazers trimmed the Minnesota Fighting Saints 5-4. In the National Hockey League, the New York Islanders topped the St. Louis Blues 5-1, the Minnesota North Stars tripped the California Seals 6-3, while the Toronto Maple Leafs and Los Angeles Kings played to a 1-1 tie.

The fracas, which came with the score tied 4-4, earned Paiement and Cheevers double minor penalties and brought Grant Erickson a 10-minute misconduct for coming to the aid of his goaltender.

Blazers 5, Fighting Saints 4

Baseball boosters urged to attend

There will be an organizational meeting for a Washington High School baseball boosters club Thursday evening at 7:30. The meeting will take place in the WSHS cafeteria.

Class A All-Ohio cagers named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Larry Harris, Lorain Clearview's all-stater in football and basketball, was selected today as The Associated Press Ohio Class A Basketball Player of the Year.

The 6-foot-7, 200-pound Harris, a senior who averaged 29.5 points, 20 rebounds and six blocked shots, also made the All-Ohio first team in football as an offensive end.

The Class A state coaching title went to Gary Vaughn of Fostoria St. Wendelin, who lost all of his regulars from a 17-3 team last year. Despite losing six of his first seven players, Vaughn molded a 16-2 record this season.

The selections were based strictly on regular season competition and were made on recommendations from a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Harris, sought by nearly all of the nation's major college basketball powers, made 60 per cent of his floor shots and 76 per cent of his free throws this season.

He was promoted from the second team in 1973.

Starring with Harris on the first unit were 6-4 Frank Monterosso of Cincinnati St. Bernard and 6-3½ Mike Cross of Pitsburg Franklin-Monroe.

The two high-scoring seniors were the only players to make the Class A first unit for the second straight campaign. Monterosso, who scored 70 points in one game, averaged 34.7 and Cross 27.0.

Dan Zarlingo, 6-4 Lowellville guard with a 25-point average, moved from the 1973 third team to the first team this season.

Also named to the first team were 6-7 Mark Haymore of Cleveland Lutheran East, with a 25.9-point average; 6-7 Tom Kramb of Greenwich South Central, 22.9; 6-2 Greg Dulkoski of Adena Buckeye West, 28.0, and 6-1 Scott Ballinger of Marion Pleasant, 19.1.

Ballinger also made the second team all-state in football last fall as a quarterback.

On the second team were Mark Swain of Mercerville Hannan Trace, Ron Austin of Granville, Bill Marks of Jewett-Scioto, Mick Shoemaker of Bainbridge Paint Valley, Greg Spitnale of Continental, Greg Givens of Mansfield St. Peter's Joe Ryan of Peebles, Charles Loewendick of Newark Catholic and Brian Hamsher of Sugarcreek Garaway.

Morgan State top small college team

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Nat Frazier of Morgan State will beat the bushes a little later this year in search of basketball talent, but he figures the delay will prove profitable.

Now when he goes recruiting, Frazier has a couple of new selling points to offer prospects.

The Bears last week won the National Collegiate Athletic Association's College Division tournament, and Tuesday they were voted the nation's No. 1 small college team in the final Associated Press poll.

Frazier was told of the balloting in New York, where he went to watch intrastate rival Maryland-Eastern Shore play Jacksonville in the quarterfinals of the National Invitation Tournament Tuesday night.

"Now if they can win the NIT, it would really be something," Frazier said in a telephone interview from the hotel room of John Bates, coach of Maryland-Eastern Shore. "It's too bad that Lefty lost."

He referred to Lefty Driesell, coach of the University of Maryland's fourth-ranked major college team, which dropped a 103-100 overtime decision to No. 1 North Carolina State in the Atlantic Coast Conference title game and failed to reach the NCAA playoffs.

Maryland-Eastern Shore, a predominantly black branch of the university, finished first in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics poll, and lost only to Morgan State prior to being invited to the NIT.

Morgan State, led by 7-foot Marvin "The Human Eraser" Webster, posted a 28-5 record this season. The Bears dropped two 15-point decisions to UMES, one in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference championship game.

In the final AP poll, Morgan received 23 first-place votes and finished with 636 points to easily outdistance runnerup West Georgia, the NAIA champion with a 29-4 record, which had eight first-place votes and 496 points.

Kentucky State, 28-5, won four of its five games last week and retained third place while Alcorn State — formerly Alcorn A&M — with a 29-6 log, jumped to fourth.

Fairmont State, 28-3 and last week's leader, slipped to fifth after splitting two games. Fairmont State and sixth-ranked Tennessee-Chattanooga, 21-5, were the only other schools to receive first-place votes.

Gardner-Webb, 25-3, slipped three notches to seventh after losing to West Georgia. Southwest Missouri, 21-9, Tennessee State, 22-6, and St. Mary's, Tex., 24-9, rounded out the Top Ten.

Assumption, 22-7, held No. 11, followed by Augustana, Kentucky Wesleyan, Old Dominion and New Orleans.

Forman and Norton ready for match

CARACAS (AP) — Heavyweight champion George Foreman and challenger Ken Norton were pronounced in perfect shape Tuesday but one of them won't be feeling so good after their March 26 title fight.

"I am fit and ready to whip Foreman," Norton said after he was examined by doctors at the Poliedro arena, where the fight will take place. "I'm sure of a victory because I have confidence in myself and I am mentally prepared."

Burglary case nears jury

A jury of seven women and five men were expected to receive a major burglary case for deliberation later Wednesday following nearly three days of testimony in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Final arguments by attorneys were heard Wednesday morning by the 12-member panel in the trial involving two Kettering brothers who were captured following a burglary at Craig's Department Store, 131 E. Court St., on Jan. 8.

David D. Caraway, 29, and Larry S. Caraway, 29, are charged on numerous counts in connection with the store burglary in which more than $2,000 worth of merchandise was stolen.

An agent from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, London, was called as a rebuttal witness during Wednesday morning's court session before Judge Evelyn W. Coffman.

The prosecution, headed by James A. Kiger, county prosecuting attorney and his assistant, John H. Roszmann, called seven witnesses before resting their case late Tuesday afternoon.

Called by the prosecutors were Specialist Larry Hott, Dispatcher Mike Taylor, Sgt. Luther Anderson and Sgt. Robert Massie, all of the Washington C.H. Police Department, Merrill Kaufman, owner of Craig's, and store manager Ray Downing and the BCI agent.

Defense attorney Dennis Ulrich, who was appointed to the case by the court, called one of the Caraway brothers as a witness before court was recessed shortly before 4 p.m. Tuesday. Caraway was the lone witness called by Ulrich.

Court News

YOUTH SENTENCED

A Washington C.H. youth has received a suspended jail sentence following a hearing in Fayette County Probate-Juvenile Court in which he was charged with contributing toward the delinquency of a 13-year-old girl.

Judge Rollo M. Marchant sentenced Mike Grieves, 18, of 524 Third St., to a six-month term in the Fayette County jail, but the term was suspended on condition he not associate with any female under age 18 without the expressed consent of her parents.

UNRULY CHILD

A 15-year-old Washington C.H. girl has been adjudged to be an unruly child by being habitually truant from school.

Juvenile Judge Rollo M. Marchant ordered the girl to attend school daily, unless a physician's excuse is presented, and to report to the guidance counselor each day.

The judge also said each parent will be required to do all that is necessary to see that the child attends school daily, by awakening the child at 7 a.m. and "leading her to school by the hand if necessary."

DIVORCE GRANTED

Juanita Shadley, 1228 Grace St., has been granted a divorce in Common Pleas Court from James W. Shadley on grounds of neglect of duty. The plaintiff was granted occupancy of the residence, support and other relief.

Quadruplet calves

BURLEY, Idaho (AP) — The odds were 748,855 to 1, says a veterinarian, but a cow on O.M. "Bud" Johnson's ranch gave birth to quadruplets.

The four young calves, all identical heifers, were reported in good health.

Traffic Court

Nine persons were scheduled to appear in Municipal Court Tuesday on traffic charges. They included a Washington C.H. man charged with driving while intoxicated.

Pearl L. Bennett, 48, of 422 Lewis St., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $200 by acting Judge John P. Case. The judge sentenced him to 30 days in jail, of which 27 were suspended, and suspended his operator's license for 30 days. Bennett was also fined $25 for running a red light.

Other cases were:

POLICE

Fined:

Police check on break-ins

City police received two reports of illegal entry Tuesday while sheriff's deputies were investigating a report of vandalism.

Jeffrey Roe, 1125 E. Paint St., advised police that sometime between Sunday afternoon and Tuesday afternoon a person or persons had broken into a workshop behind his home and stolen a set of wrenches and screwdrivers.

Dr. J.A. McCoy, 630 W. Oakland, reported that someone had broken into a building which was used as a garage and warehouse, on the corner of Cherry and Sycamore streets. The structure was ransacked, but apparently nothing was taken.

Donald Morrow, Jeffersonville, reported to sheriff's deputies at 9 p.m. Tuesday that someone had thrown a large marble at his home, breaking a storm door window.

Nuns operate bar

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A community of nuns is managing Ireland's newest bar. It's also the country's first bar in a hospital.

"Medically, I think it is a good thing to have a bar in the house," said Sister Theophane Collins, the spiritual director of the new 150-bed hospital near Newmarket-on-Fergus, in County Clare.
